Management Discussion & Analysis

Industry Structure & Developments

Economy

The financial year 2009-10 began with the global economy steadily returning to normalcy after going through one of the worst downturns the world has seen after the great depression. Timely and exigent steps taken by the governments across the world helped most of the economies to tide over the crisis, restore faith and rebuild confidence.

However, increased financial market volatility, reflecting investor concerns over the fiscal health of European countries, poses a major downside risk to the global economy. With parts of Europe still going through a tough balancing act to recovery, it is widely believed that Asia led by China and India would lead the global economy in the years to come.

India's GDP Growth for 2009-10 is estimated at 7.4%, up from 6.7% recorded in 2008-09. With assumption of normal monsoon and sustainable good performance of the industry and services sector, GDP Growth is expected to be over 8.6% for the year 2010-11 and reach the magical double digit figure in 2011-12. Indian Industry substantially recovered during the latter half of 2009-10. The IIP figures available for entire fiscal shows industrial production registering a growth of 10.4% as against 2.8% last year. Strong consumption and investment demand is expected to drive industrial growth in 2010-11 with industrial production likely to grow by a buoyant 9.2 per cent in 2010-11.

World Met Coke Industry

With steel production increasing in the developing countries like China and India and blast furnace activity attaining the pre-crisis levels in the developed world, the demand of coking coal and met coke is seeing a steady rise. Availability of good quality coking coal is in acute shortage globally. Aggravating the crisis is China turning to be a net importer of coking coal in 2009 with imports totaling to 35MMT. With no new source of coking coal to meet the growing demand in sight, coking coal would remain in tight supply in the years to come, so would be met coke.

The bulk of the seaborne trade of metcoke of upto 20 MMT was done by China in 2008. In 2007 China exported 14 MMT and in 2008 it exported 12 MMT, but with the imposition of 40% export tax on coke, coupled with increase in local demand in China, Chinese exports of metcoke came down to just 0.5 MMT in 2009.

Hence in the global met coke arena, today we are entering into a phase of undersupply where supply would find it difficult to meet demand. As coke trade returns to the levels of 20 MMT, the big question that we face today is how the potential shortfall of 14 MMT of Chinese exports would be met globally.

Coking coal and met coke prices consequently are on the rise due to this huge demand supply gap. For the first time Coking coal contract pricing has moved to quarterly basis this year. Coking coal benchmark price for quarter April to June was set at USD 200 per tonne compared to last year benchmark at USD 129 per tonne and has been revised to USD225 for the second quarter. With the spot prices hovering around USD 240, the analysts are expecting the prices to challenge previous heights of coking coal price in the near future. Met coke price similarly is on the rise.

Domestic Coking Coal and Met Coke Industry

Indian steel industry has embarked upon an ambitious growth path. India is targeting to double its steel production by 2012 and grow to over 200 MTPA by 2020, the demand for coking coal and met coke would be huge in India. Hence, on conservative estimate, India's coking coal and met coke demand would double by 2012 and would quadruple by 2020 to match with the targeted steel production capacity expansion as well as demand growth.

Indian steel industry heavily depends on imported coking coal as there are hardly enough reserves of good coking coal in India. India is expected to face an increased demand of around 8-9 MMT of coking coal for met coke production this year. India produces around 18 MMT of met coke and the rest is met through imports. With considerable absence of Chinese coke for Indian market, the shortage would be even greater for the demand to be met by domestic merchant coke producers. India may still have an estimated 2 MMT shortage of met coke in 2010.

Indian Steel Industry

The steel industry in India has been moving from strength to strength and according to the year end review by Press Information Bureau, India has emerged as the fourth largest producer of steel in the world. The Indian steel industry has made a name for itself on the global map. Today, it is catching up with the fast pace of advancement the world over and luring steel majors from all around the globe. It has gained strength from the strong Indian economy and strong sectors like infrastructure, construction and automobile. The growing middle class, the demographic dividend derived from the increasing young population has further strengthened the consumption in Indian economy, increasing the steel demand in the country. And all this, despite the fact that India is known to consume less steel as compared to the world average. While India's per capita steel consumption in 2010 stands at 54 Kg, when compared to Chinese consumption of above 385 kgs, Brazil's around 100 kg and Japan's 650 Kg, and world average of around 180 kg, we have a huge scope of development and it only speaks volumes of the vast scope that the country's steel industry has to offer in the days to come.

Our company has been key beneficiary of the growing demand from domestic steel industry as met coke is the critical input for production of steel through blast furnace route. Gujarat NRE is accordingly, looking to increase its domestic met coke production as well as significantly ramp up coking coal output at its Australian mines.

Opportunities & Threats

The global steel industry started recovery from the 3rd quarter of 2009-10. Globally, blast furnaces restarted post the 3rd quarter of 2009-10 and has provided a strong signal of recovery. The massive plans of Steel Industries world over and India in particular, present a golden opportunity for metcoke manufacturers.

The steps taken by China in trying to conserve its coking coal resources to ensure supplies to its domestic steel industry also allows a great opportunity to merchant manufacturers of met coke in India such as our Company to cater to the growing domestic and global hunger of met coke.

On the supply side, India does not have premium quality coking coal resource. World over, any new commercially viable source for supply of coking coal to meet the huge demand supply gap is still not visible.

Hence, to summarise the above scenario, an increase in steel production leading to increased met coke demand, coupled with global shortage of coking coal and met coke opens up immense opportunity for met coke producers in India and Gujarat NRE Coke Ltd is very well poised to take this benefit through increased volume and growth in margin.

China being a largest producer of both coking coal and metcoke, plays a critical role in determining its global demand and supply and consequently its prices. Therefore, any major shift in policy by China may pose a threat to this industry. Most of the global steel plants use blast furnace route for manufacturing steel and in the process create demand for coking coal. Fluctuations in demand witnessed by global steel industry might act as a threat to this industry.

Company's Performance

The income from operations of the Company was lower at Rs. 246.98 crores in the year under review as compared to Rs.357.01 crores during the previous year and consequently, the net profit during the year under review stood at Rs. 51.67 crores as compared to Rs. 107.24 crores during the previous year. Accordingly, the Basic & Diluted earnings per share of the Company were reported at Rs.1.08 and Rs.1.02 respectively, for the year under review as compared to Rs.2.27 and Rs.1.97 during the previous year.

Segment wise Performance & Outlook

Coal & Coke

Coking coal and Coke has been at the core of the operations of the Company contributing around 80% of the total turnover during the year under review. Net Sales/income from this segment for the year under review amounted to Rs. 1111.55 crores as compared to Rs.1231.18 crores in the previous year.

Steel

Steel contributes around 20% to the total turnover. It achieved a turnover of Rs. 290.31 crores during the year under review as compared to Rs.289.24 crores during previous year.

The Company is generating power through its Wind Turbines and is in the process of setting up co-generation power plant mostly for captive consumption. This helps the Company to reduce its power costs and ensure regular supply of clean power to its production facilities.

Outlook

2009 was a turbulent year for the metallurgical coke industry. As a result of the global downturn, demand around the world disintegrated as overhanging stock levels took their toll. However, 2010 has been a promising year and has so far seen iron and steel production rising again, resulting in increased global demand for metallurgical coke from a rapidly tightening market. This has resulted in prices being supported upwards again as international buyers are forced to look to the export market to meet the growing demand.

Since many of the shut down blast furnaces have returned to production and some of the hot-idled coke plants are resumed to re-start production, the consumption of coke and coking coal is expected to increase. In preparation for the increased coke demands, the coal contracts for domestic mills for 2010 were signed with mostly full tonnage requirements. This fact, coupled with rising global steel production, has led to increased global demand for coking coal. In anticipation of the increased demand of coking coal from China and India, the global coking coal prices have started rising from the first quarter of 2010.

Risks & Concerns

The risk be it external or internal is inherent in every business. Economic slowdown impacted most segments of the economy including infrastructure and steel. The main concerns were slowdown in growth in economy, reduced spending, demand constraints etc. In order to mitigate the risk, costs were closely monitored and wherever it was prudent to cut down the costs, it was given effect to. Diversified portfolio of customers, focus on financial discipline including effective management of working capital helped to overcome the above risks and concerns to some extent.

The risks and concerns concerning our company could be generally identified as follows.

- a) Commodity Price Risk : The Company is exposed to the risk of price fluctuations on raw materials, finished goods. However, considering the normal correlation in the prices of raw material i.e coking coal and finished good i.e. met coke, this risk gets reduced/adjusted over a period of time.
- b) Production Risk : Coking coal, the critical raw material required for manufacture of met coke is in short supply internationally resulting in uncertainty in its availability and consequently, its prices. Timely availability of raw material at reasonable prices is therefore, critical for survival in this industry. The Company's strategy of backward integration by acquiring coking coal mines in Australia helps in minimising the effect of volatility in prices and availability of premium quality hard coking coal.
- c) Forex Risk : The Company has a policy to hedge its foreign exchange risk within the defined parameters. As imports (raw materials etc) exceed exports, the Company suitably hedges the differential from time to time to appropriately manage the currency risk.

operations, ("Mining Land") and to withdraw its operations from the remaining land ("Remaining Land").

Since the Settlement, while the Company was in process of fulfilling its further obligations and agreed terms for the settlement of all other issues including finalizing the terms of sale and acquiring the Mining Land, Bellpac went into liquidation and Receivers were appointed ("Bellpac Receiver").
