MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION & ANALYSIS 2013-14

Industry Scenario

In 2013, world economy continued its downward trend on growth; as world economy further decelerated growth rate to 3.0% in 2013 compared to 3.2% in 2012. India's economy showed some signs of recovery, albeit slow. However, high interest rates, a depreciated currency and uncertainty due to general elections have led to deceleration in the economic recovery. Depreciated currency, coupled with improvement in global demand particularly in the EU and the U.S., led to increase in exports growth.

Looking ahead, the outlook for FY 2014-15 appears optimistic. Though last year started on a dismal note, the improvement in economic performance in the later half is likely to continue the momentum. While a lot will depend on the measures announced after formation of new government; resurgence in exports, reduction in inflation & deficits (trade, current and fiscal), along with global economic revival are likely to add impetus to the economy. In FY 2014-15, India is likely to accelerate GDP growth rate to 5.5%-6.0%. The increase in growth rate is expected to be contributed majorly by the industrial sector, estimated to grow at 4% next year (up from ~1% in last FY). Unclogging of domestic policy logjam as well as improvement in private consumption demand is likely to drive the growth. The Indian textile industry has an overwhelming presence in the economic life of the country.

OUTLOOK

India is the world's second largest producer of textiles and garments, with a massive and diverse raw material base. Due to this, Indian Textile Industry is not only of paramount importance to the national economy, it also has an influential presence in global market.

In India, textile & clothing industry contributes nearly 4% of India's GDP, 12% of total industrial production and 11% of total exports of goods. Textile Industry provides direct employment to 35 million and indirect employment to 45 million, which makes it the 2nd largest employment provider in the country after Agriculture.

Globally, India has the 2nd largest textile manufacturing capacity, in terms of spindles and looms. India is the 4th largest exporter of textiles & clothing products to the world, with a share of 4.4% in the global trade.

The Indian textile industry is set for strong growth, buoyed by both strong domestic consumption as well as export demand. Embroidery serves as the major value addition factor for manufacturing garments and made ups and the main emphasis of the company is to concentrate on orders from embroidery exporters.

In the mid-long term, the Indian textile industry is expected to grow very strongly with growth being balanced from both domestic consumption as well as exports demand. In the near-term, domestic demand would depend on the revival of the macro-economic factors. On exports front, there are both positive and negative factors. Positive factors include the weak currency and decreasing cost competitiveness of China that are likely to give positive impetus to the Indian exports. At the same time, factors like slowdown and uncertainty in the global markets, volatile foreign exchange rates and increase in cotton and yarn prices are likely to negatively affect growth and profitability for the textile exports.

The company during the year has taken an step to modernize the embroidery machine as a result of this modernization carried out by the company the company expects increase in turnover and better quality and efficiency during the coming year .

Threats,Risk & Concerns

The continued weakness of the Indian rupee against the US dollar has improved India's competitive positioning in the export market. Therefore, should the advantage be maintained, the effect will be positive on the rupee revenue of exporters. However, the benefit would be offset for companies with high important content (including cotton which maintains international price parity), or companies with forex debt. While rupee depreciation is considered good for net foreign exchange earners, if there sharp volatility in currency, it could become very difficult for exporters to, on one hand, hedge the future foreign currency effecting the pricing of the company which can indirectly effect the profitability of the company in the coming year.

At the same time, factors like slowdown and uncertainty in the global markets, volatile foreign exchange rates and increase in cotton and yarn prices are likely to negatively affect growth and profitability for the textile exports.
