Plant and equipment is measured on the cost basis. The carrying amount of plant and equipment is reviewed by directors to ensure it is not in excess of the recoverable amount from those assets. The recoverable amount is assessed on the basis of the expected net cash flows which will be received from the assets employed and subsequent disposal. The expected cash flows have not been discounted to present values in determining the amounts.

c. Cash and equivalents

For the purposes of cash flows, cash includes cash on hand and deposits held on call with banks or financial institutions.

d. Revenue

Revenue from sale of goods (if any) is recognized in the income statement when the significant risks and rewards of ownership have been transferred to customers. There was no such revenue during the year.

Interest revenue (if any) is recognized on a proportional basis taking into account the interest rates applicable to the financial assets.

e. Goods and Services Tax (GST)

Revenues, expenses and assets are recognized net of the amount of GST except where the GST is not recoverable from the Australian Tax Office. In these circumstances, the GST is recognized as part of the cost of acquisition of the asset or as part of an item of expense.

Receivables and payables in the Balance Sheet are shown inclusive of GST. The net amount of GST recoverable from, or payable to, the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) is included as a current asset or liability in the Balance Sheet.

f. Impairment of Assets

At each reporting date, the company reviews the carrying values of its tangible and intangible assets to determine whether there is any indication that those assets have been impaired. If such an indication exists, the recoverable amount of the asset, being the higher of the asset's fair value less costs to sell and value in use, is compared to the asset's carrying value. Any excess of the asset's carrying value over its recoverable amount is expensed to the income statement.

g. Investment in shares

Shares are valued at cost. Cost is compared with market value at year end and if there is any diminution in value of shares, a provision for diminution is made.
