SC status quo on well at Sambhal mosque

THERE WILL BE no worship or holy bath at the well near the Shahi Jama Masjid in Sambhal in Uttar Pradesh. On Friday, the in Uttar Pradesh. On Friday, the Supreme Court stayed the execution of a "notice" purportedly issued by Sambhai municipal authorities, regarding the well. It sought a status report in two weeks even as the UP government contended that the well was situated on government land. This, after the mosque management committee said that the notice, a public poster which bore the name of the Sambhai Nagar Palika, referred to the well as being located in a to the well as being located in a form of the samb of the s cammai Nagar Paikk, referred to the well as being located in a corner of the Hari Mandir. Hindus and Muslims have been locked in a dispute over the mosque, with the former claiming that the mosque was built after destroying a temple called Hari Mandir.

SHILPARUMAR As impact investors, we were intrigued by the aspirations of India's 'next half billion'' - drivers, carpenters, electricians — who earn around ₹25,000 a month and drive the nation's growth. On problems with housing

PARIII AGARWAL: India's housing sector faces a dual chal-lenge: addressing inadequate housing stock and preparing for 400 million new urban residents by 2050. Over one-third of urban residents live in informal hous-

og 2000 Overlone-Imroot uman residents live in informal hous-ing, lacking basic amenities like tollets, water and durable struc-tures. This inadequacy is stark, with 409 to Debh residents liv-ing in substandard housing. While housing is often seen as an investment for financial returns, there's a compelling need to reframe it as a human right. Much like food and clorth-ing are essential, housing should be viewed as linegal to dignity and well-being. Policies and reg-ulations must evolve to reflect this perspective, moving beyond technical standards that deem 250 sqf radequate for families.

On issues faced by migrants

MUKTA NAIK: India's rapid MUKTA NAIK: India's rapid urbanisation is significantly fuelled by migration, with a third of the population classified as migrants. Among them, rural-to-urban and urban-to-urban migrants make up 20% each, spanning diverse groups such as aspirational middle-class households earning ₹25,000-₹30,000, constructionworkers, and seasonal ural-tomovorkers, and seasonal ural-₹25,000-₹30,000, construc-tionworkers, and seasonal rural-urban labourers. These individ-uals often reside in informal rentals, which lack tenure secu-rity, proper regulations, and quality standards.

On government intervention

SHILPA KUMAR: Recognis-SHIPAKUMAR Recognising the need for security, the Jaga Mission granted land entitlement certificates to long-term residents, even without format titles. This enabled access to financial benefits ted to housing and allowed the provision of essential city services, transforming living conditions. Beyond infrastructure, slum rivabler associations were dweller associations were formed to maintain and improve communities, creating open spaces for shared use.
