CM Stalin thanks on govt for releasing Rs 100 Karunanidhi centenary

CHENNAI: Chief Minister and ruling DMK party president MK Stalin on Friday thanked the Centre government for releasing a Rs 100 Karunanidhi centenary coin on his birth anniversary. In a statement here, he said, We celebrate the Centenary here, our beloved leader, Muthamizharingar. Dr. Kalaignar M. Karunanidhi, keeping him in our hearts forever.

We celebrate him every day in our homes. It is a celebration for the leader Kalaignar, who has built the DMK party for half a century and made it grow tremendously on behalf of the Kachagam, starting from the headquarters and up to the branch offices.

Celebrations in every district on behalf of the Tamil Nadu government for the architect who built modern Tamil Nadu with many rare projects after taking charge as the Chief Minister five times.

on Defence Minister Rajnath Singh will release a 100 rupee coin engraved with the Kalaignar's image on behalf of the central government on August 18, Sunday evening at the Kalavanan Arangan in Chennai.

The only time a condolence resolution was passed in Parliament for the death of a political leader who was not a member of either House of Parliament was during the death of our leader Kalaignar.

In a life of 55 years, Kalaignar artist who owns 81 years of public life has made an impact on the Indian level in terms of multifarious achievements in politics, administration, art, literature, film industry, and journalism." Stalin further said.

The DMK president also pointed out that his talent in the coin issued in his memory by the central government.

Kalaignar was a dynamic figure who directed the politics of Tamil Nadu for more than half a century and was a que personality in the history of Indian politics.

As the Chief Minister of Tamil Nadu, President of the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam, son of Kalaignar, and as one of you, I express my gratitude to the Government for issuing a coin bearing his image as another diamond in the crown of fame of our living leader artist, a beacon of future generations.

Kalaignar, who has entertained all the listeners with his melodious Tamil with his coin, has established that 'Tamil will win' in the coin as well. I am looking forward to seeing the siblings at the central government's coin launch ceremony to add to the fame of the towering Karunanidhi. Since the event is a simple one, I would like to casually invite my brothers and sisters from Chennai and surrounding areas to witness it live in Tamil Nadu and in the countries where Tamils live," he added.

ED commences witness examination in money laundering case against Senthilbalaji

CHENNAI: The Directorate of Enforcement commenced witness examination before the principal sessions court, Chennai, in the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) case against former minister V Senthilbalaji. On Friday, the witness examination proceedings in the PMLA case commenced before the principal sessions judge S Alli.

During the proceedings the then chief manager of Senthilbalaji, his wife and his brother, appeared before the court for the examination. The special public prosecutor of ED, N Ramesh advanced the examination with the bank manager regarding the money transactions of the accounts of Senthilbalaji, his wife and his brother. However, the counsel for Senthilbalaji objected to several statements of the witness and submitted that they were not served with original challans or counter foils and other bank documents related to the case. The counsel for Senthilbalaji sought the court's permission to cross examine the chief bank manager. After the request, the judge posted the matter to August 22 for further proceedings.

The judge also extended the judicial custody of Senthilbalaji until then.

Senthilbalaji was arrested under PMLA by the ED on June 14 last year from his residence in Chennai. The investigating agency registered the PMLA case against Senthilbalaji over an alleged cash-for-jobs scam during his tenure as Transport Minister in the then AIADMK regime between 2011-2016.

The principal sessions court dismissed the pleas of Senthilbalaji sought to defer the proceedings of the PMLA case and discharge him from the case. Subsequently, on August 8, the sessions court framed the charges against Senthilbalaji, however, he pleaded not guilty.

EPS condoles former party MLA KG Ramesh's death

CHENNAI: General Secretary of AIADMK Edappadi K Palaniswami expressed condolence to the demise of former MLA and party's Kandhili on Secretary K G Ramesh, who died of cardiac arrest on Friday.

He was elected from Tirupattur constituency in the assembly election in 2011.

"I am shocked and saddened on hearing the demise of party functionary and former MLA

K G Ramesh," said Palaniswami in his condolence message.

He further said that Ramesh was loyal to the party and its leadership. He served the party in various capacities. "I pray to the almighty to give strength and courage to my family, and party cadres to overcome the grief. I pray to the almighty for his soul to rest in peace," he said.

Madras HC dismisses plea seeking 'A' class facility to life convict S Yuvaraj in prison

CHENNAI: The Madras High Court dismissed the petition moved by the wife of S Yuvaraj, the president of Dheeran Chimmamalai Peravai, a caste based outfit seeking A class facility to her husband who is confined in Coimbatore central prison. A division bench of Justice SM Subramanian and Justice V Sivagnanam heard the petition moved by Suvitha, wife of Yuvaraj, who is currently in Coimbatore Central Prison serving a life sentence for a grave offense of beheading a Dalit youngster. The State filed a counter stating that the plea is not at all maintainable either in law or on facts. The State further submitted that as per the rules 225, 226, and 227 of the Tamil Nadu Prison Rules, 1983, prisoners shall be eligible for class A, if they are of social status, education or habit of life have been accustomed to a superior mode of living.

national case of beheading a Dalit youth, Gokulraj in 2015. Later, Yuvaraj was confined in the Coimbatore central prison. Subsequently, the wife of Yuvaraj moved the High Court seeking to direct the superintendent of prisons, Coimbatore central prison, to grant 'A' class facility to her husband. The Tamil Nadu government submitted that the life convict Yuvaraj cannot claim A class prison as his right since he was convicted for a grave offense of beheading a Dalit youngster. The State filed a counter stating that the plea is not at all maintainable either in law or on facts. The State further submitted that as per the rules 225, 226, and 227 of the Tamil Nadu Prison Rules, 1983, prisoners shall be eligible for class A, if they are of social status, education or habit of life have been accustomed to a superior mode of living.

Indian Travelers Driven by Film Locations and que Experiences

New Delhi: Blending proprietary flights and hotels data based on millions of searches with an annual consumer behaviour study and expert commentary, today Skyscanner reveals 2024's hottest travel vibes and types, as well as the top 10 trending destinations and best-value destinations. Data from the report reveals that film and entertainment has a significant influence on Indian travellers, with 31% of them inclined to taking a trip to a destination they've seen on the big or small screen. Moreover, close to half (48%) of the respondents rate the overall 'vibe' of a destination as important, when choosing where to go in 2024.

Among the four key travel vibes, set-jetting took the lead in India, as travellers sought to immerse themselves into the iconic location of their favourite shows, embodying Main Character Energy. Seizing the spotlight as the top destination that Indians are inspired to visit in 2024 is Manali, India, with travellers influenced by Yeh Jawaani Hai Deewani, followed by Ladakh, again in India, which inspires 47% of the travellers to visit the mesmerising city as seen in 3 Idiots. Claiming the next spot is London in the UK Kingdom, with 43% of Indian travellers seeking to add a royal flair to their life as seen in The Crown, and the enchanting city of Paris in France, with 42% of Indian travellers wanting to experience the city like Emily Cooper, as seen in Emily in Paris. In fact, following the launch of season 3's launch at the end of December 2022, Skyscanner saw a 23% increase in searches from India to Paris in January compared to the previous month. Just like Main Character Energy, Skyscanner data shows how the value of experiences is fuelling a range of other travel trends and vibes for 2024, with price no longer solely ruling decision-making.

Gig tripping - One-third of Indian (37%) travellers would fly short haul to see their favourite artist live with a huge 79% considering attending a concert overseas instead in 2024 if it would help them save money. Budget bougie foodies Indians are inherent foodies and Skyscanner's research confirms the same, with 59% of Indian travellers having booked a destination purely based on a restaurant they wanted to visit. Osaka, renowned as the kitchen of Japan' with the fourth rank in the world for cities with the most Michelin stars, claims the top spot on Skyscanner's global list for foodies on a budget in 2024, and is also one of the top trending destinations amongst Indian travellers.

Destination Zzzz - Citing it as one of the top activities for their next holiday, Indian travellers really just want to visit the realm of sleep in 2024. Sleep health generally is a hot topic and 85% of Indian travellers are more mindful of their sleep health today compared to a few years ago. Moreover, 66% of Indian travellers have reported experiencing improved sleep quality during their holidays.

What's more, the thirst for experiences that drive greater lifestyle value. The platform sees these traveller types emerging in 2024: Analogue adventurers - In an age of always-on and constant hype, Gen Z are craving old-school analogue adventures that ditch the digital device in favour of how it used to be done. In fact, one in four (24%) Indian travellers aged 18-to-24-year-old now bring a Polaroid camera with them on holiday. Celebration vacationers - Indian travellers increasingly want to celebrate big milestones in style. 81% of Indian travellers have taken a group trip to celebrate a birthday or anniversary. That being said, it can be tricky to arrange group travel - from deciding on where and when to go, to agreeing on costs. 52% of Indian travellers said that finalising a destination is their primary hurdle when planning group trips, followed by deciding on the travel dates (48%), and agreeing on expected costs of the trip (45%). Leave-less seekers - While price may always be a factor when it comes to travel planning, it seems Indian travellers are still willing to splurge on comforts. 37% of Indian travellers plan to upgrade their flight to business or first class in 2024, while 44% plan to purchase airport lounge access to get their trip off to a great start.

India's top trending and best value destinations: The 2024 report reveals that 86% of Indian travellers plan to take the same number, if not more, trips abroad in 2024 compared to 2023. The most buzzing destinations for Indian travellers in 2024 are Da Nang in Vietnam, loved for its pristine beaches, Almaty in Kazakhstan, a captivating destination in Central Asia celebrated for its stunning natural scenes, and Baku in Azerbaijan, known for its exquisite blend of historical and modern architecture. On the other hand, Nice in France came out top overall, securing the highest spot for the Best Value Destinations category, followed by Geneva in Switzerland, Tokyo in Japan, and Manama in Bahrain[3] (full overview in appendix). Commenting on the findings, Mohit Joshi, Skyscanner Travel Trends and Destination Expert said, "The desire to explore and to make the best out of holidays with richer, more fulfilling experiences is evident among Indian travellers, as they (63%) are budgeting to spend more on travel in 2024. The strong demand for travel in India, coupled with the focus on cultural exploration next year, are reasons why a travel search like Skyscanner can bring value to Indian travellers. Try the 'Explore Everywhere' search feature for example, to discover destinations ranked by prices. With our tools, travellers will realise that there are many ways to bag a bargain, so that allowances can be made to spend on the comfort they are after."
