Nazara to publish 'Made in India' FAU-G Domination mobile game in partnership with nCore

- Mobile Shooter FAU-G: Domination will be marketed and distributed by Nazara Publishing.
- Nazara is India's first turnkey publishing platform for local and global game developers wanting to access the fast growing Indian gaming market.

Mumbai, India, June 26, 2024: Nazara Publishing, the publishing arm of India's only publicly listed gaming company Nazara Technologies, along with nCore Games has entered a publishing partnership for FAU-G Domination. This is the latest game from the FAU-G franchise, the previous version of which garnered up to 50 million downloads.

Pre-registrations for FAU-G: Domination will be available on Google Play and the App Store later this year.

FAU-G: Domination is developed by Dot9 Games, a studio of nCore Games. The game features modern-day military aesthetics with Indian characters, each with unique backstories. The game includes various maps with diverse environments that reflect India's rich heritage, blending cultural pride with cutting-edge gameplay.

Nitish Mittersain, Jt. MD & CEO of Nazara Technologies said, "Made in India games have a huge potential to address the growing needs of the Indian gamer with locally relevant content and we are excited to partner with nCore to bring FAU-G: Domination to all our players"

"In recent times, the Indian government has called upon its citizens to support homegrown apps through the 'Make in India' initiative," said Vishal Gondal, Co-Founder of nCore Games. "FAU-G: Domination is our humble response to PM Modi's 'Make-in-India' call, and we're thankful that Nazara shares our vision to bring the best of India to the world. This signals India's arrival as a major player in the global gaming industry."

"We're grateful that India's biggest gaming company is supporting us to bring FAU-G: Domination to the world," said Deepak Ail, Co-Founder & CEO of Dot9 Games. "Gaming is for everyone, and FAU-G: Domination is our effort in making that a reality."

Nazara Publishing, India's first turnkey publishing platform, provides comprehensive services for both local and global game developers aiming to tap into the booming Indian gaming market. The platform offers end-to-end solutions, including market access and distribution, marketing and promotion, monetization strategies, localization and culturalization, and advanced analytics. These services enable developers to focus on creating compelling content while leveraging Nazara's infrastructure to achieve commercial success.
