This partnership between LTIMindtree and GitHub sets the stage for scalable enterprise innovation, transforming software development with advanced AI capabilities.

Warren, NJ, Mumbai, India, December 10, 2024: LTIMindtree [NSE: LTIM, BSE: 540005], a global technology consulting and digital solutions company, has announced a strategic partnership with GitHub, the most widely adopted Copilot-powered developer platform. This collaboration integrates GitHub's advanced DevOps and AI-driven pair programming capabilities with LTIMindtree's expertise in digital engineering and AI transformation, creating a powerful ecosystem to drive enterprise innovation at scale.

As IT complexities increase, the demand for strong software quality, security, and speed becomes more critical. LTIMindtree's investment to establish a GitHub Centre of Excellence and train its workforce on the GitHub platform will uniquely position them as an innovator and strategic partner helping enterprises accelerate digital transformation," Pemmerl added.

LTIMindtree's investment in creating a knowledge fabric that powers AI-native SDLC, brings customer context, technology best practices, and end-to-end correlation, will integrate with the GitHub ecosystem to further drive efficiencies and improve experiences across personas, resulting in faster time to value. As the next step, LTIMindtree is investing in establishing a Centre of Excellence, training its workforce on GitHub, GitHub Copilot, and GitHub Enterprise Server, and integrating the GitHub ecosystem into its accelerators and platforms.
