THE DIRECTORATE GENERAL of GST Intelligence (DGGI) is set to intensify the scrutiny of suspected tax evasion by pharmaceutical companies. In addition to the notices sent already, the DGGI is likely to ask many more companies to explain what it perceives as under-payment of tax by them in the current year, FE has learnt. The notices could pertain to non-payment of GST on brand transfer sales, claiming fake input tax credit (ITC) on expired drugs and for business support services, and non-payment under the reverse charge mechanism, according to sources.

The combined tax liability that would be mentioned in all these notices is close to ₹1,000 crore, and so far ₹450-500 crore has been paid by the pharmaceutical companies. "The payment so far made has been for notices issued in FY23 and FY24, but many companies have not yet paid. We shall be issuing more such notices this year too," an official said.

The official said that the notices have been sent to all

major manufacturers such as Sun Pharma, Mankind Pharma, Zydus Healthcare and Cipla. Emails sent to these companies by FE didn't elicit any response.

A common thread in the notices is the issue of input tax credit reversal for expired drugs, said Siddharth Surana, Director, RSM India. Typically, when medicines are dispatched to stockists, they come with an expiry date. If the stockists fail to sell these medicines before they expire, they return them to the pharma companies, which then write off these products in their books.

"The GST authorities argue

that in cases where drugs are written off, the input tax credit on the raw materials used to manufacture these drugs should be reversed,"

explained Surana. Sources say that the companies are separately analysing the legality of such notices, and have made representations to the government to clarify their position.In case, pharmaceutical companies do not comply with the GST demands from lower-level authorities, they are likely to face legal actions, including fines and penalties, said sources.

Ankur Gupta, practice

leader-indirect tax at SW India, said that legal proceedings will allow the companies to present their arguments and evidence to substantiate that their expenses and transactions are legitimate and necessary for

Gupta explains that the companies argue that promotional activities and related expenses (or business support services) are essential for business operations and market expansion, thus qualifying for ITC, but the GST authorities may view these transactions differently,"focusing on the letter of the law rather than the business context".

their business.

Economic Laws Practice says that typically, sales and promotion expenses are incurred in the course of furtherance of business and ITC is eligible. Disallowance of ITC in the present case (for pharmaceutical companies) is largely on the premise that the expenses incurred are not in accordance with the Indian Medical Council Regulations and the recently published Uniform Code for Pharmaceutical Marketing Practices, 2024, he said.

TAJ EXPRESS CATCHES FIRE

Three coaches of the Jhansibound Taj Express train caught fire in southeast Delhi's Sarita Vihar on Monday. No one was injured in the incident as passengers managed to get out of the affected coaches in time, officials said. The cause of the fire was not known immediately and the railway police are investigating the matter. Coaches D3 and D4 were gutted in the fire, while D2 was partially damaged, the police said, adding they were general chair car coaches.

Meet Uganda, who want to be the new West Indies of T20s

Football-mad nation sees a surge in interest for cricket after qualifying for the T20 World Cup

PRATYUSH RAJ & RAHUL PANDEY June 3

FRANK NSUBUGA SAYS he and his teammates couldn't sleep. "When we returned home, it was like we were dreaming with open eyes," he said.

The throwback is to November 2023. Such was the occasion for the Ugandan cricket team, who had managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya - known power centres in African cricket. But how did they get here? It would be wrong to consider their qualification as a fluke. Not long after they made it to the T20 World Cup, Uganda successfully defended their African T20 Cup title. It's a competition that offers a stage to lesser-known sides in the continent, and of late, Uganda has emerged as a contender to compete at the pinnacle of the sport. But the ticket to the US and the West Indies wasn't earned in a day.

Since 2020, Uganda have won more T20Is than any other nation. But while the quality of opposition they often face may not be too high, there has been a conscious decision to play as many games as possible. In fact, in the past four years, Uganda are only behind India, Pakistan and New Zealand in the number of T20Is played.

"For us, it started three and a half years ago," says skipper Brian Masaba. "During the Covid outbreak, Lawrence Mahatlane became our coach. He drew a roadmap for us that ended

DREAM COME TRUE FOR UGANDA

■ In November 2023, Uganda managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya – known power centres in African cricket

■ With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions in the format, West Indies, is not surprising

with us playing at the 2024 T20 World Cup. He presented it to the board and the players, and we bought into it. After that, it was just about being very sincere about everything we did, the number of games we played, our practice sessions...all conversations were about having a chance of featuring at the T20 World Cup."

Masaba offers an insight into the country's cricketing system, and how players are chosen for the national team. "We have a club structure. But this particular group of players were picked from a larger squad. You can call it sort of a high-performance programme that was put in place once the roadmap was drawn. Over the last four years, the Uganda Cricket Association has managed to give contracts to 25 players."

Among the 25 is Nsubuga, a Uganda cricket veteran, who will become one of the oldest players to play the T20 World Cup. The 43-year-old, who made his debut for the national team in 1996, remembers very different times when he had started out.

"When I was young, cricket wasn't so easy. We used to struggle with a lot of things like equipment and had to manage most things ourselves, even on tours. Now things have changed. At least on every ICC tour, it is all paid for. We have sponsors. Nowadays, you just have to focus on working hard to be picked by the selectors," Nsubuga

But it's not just about taking care of the sport at the top. Masaba points to a more foundational change taking place in Uganda, that is likely to have a positive impact on cricket in the long run. "Football is huge in Uganda. Not only in Uganda, in Africa generally. It's very difficult for cricket to compete with football because historically Uganda has always been a footballing nation and football is much easier to spread as it's way more cost-effective. But with this qualification for the World Cup, the interest in cricket has grown. Now, a number of schools have started to put cricket in their curriculum, which for me is a big plus and hopefully, we will build on that platform."

Looking up to the West Indies

It is fitting that the first ICC world event that Uganda are featuring in is being cohosted by the West Indies. With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions is not surprising.

"The West Indians are very popular in Uganda because of the way they play their cricket and how exciting they are to watch," Masaba shares.

Nsubuga, who once doted on the Australian brand of cricket, has now taken a liking for the T20 stars from the Caribbean, so much so that he named his son after one. "Ricky Ponting was my idol because at the time he was playing in such a dominating team. I liked him and that's why I took jersey number 14. Right now, I'm following Andre Russell. Before him, I was a fan of (Kieron) Pollard. I also named my son after him (laughs), because of the fierce brand of cricket he was playing. I am a big fan of the West Indian brand of cricket."

That brand of cricket is something the Ugandans are keen on replicating on their World Cup debut, Masaba

"Our brand of cricket is to enjoy and have fun in the park. We will run hard, throw ourselves around on the field. We will play with a smile on our faces. We like to win, we like to compete, but we play the game in the right spirit. We like to have a good time. Hopefully, we can show the world what Ugandan cricket has to offer."

THE DIRECTORATE GENERAL of GST Intelligence (DGGI) is set to intensify the scrutiny of suspected tax evasion by pharmaceutical companies. In addition to the notices sent already, the DGGI is likely to ask many more companies to explain what it perceives as under-payment of tax by them in the current year, FE has learnt. The notices could pertain to non-payment of GST on brand transfer sales, claiming fake input tax credit (ITC) on expired drugs and for business support services, and non-payment under the reverse charge mechanism, according to

The combined tax liability that would be mentioned in all these notices is close to ₹1,000 crore, and so far ₹450-500 crore has been paid by the pharmaceutical companies. "The payment so far made has been for notices issued in FY23 and FY24, but many companies have not yet paid. We shall be issuing more such notices this year too," an official said.

The official said that the notices have been sent to all

major manufacturers such as Sun Pharma, Mankind Pharma, Zydus Healthcare and Cipla. Emails sent to these companies by FE didn't elicit any response.

A common thread in the notices is the issue of input tax credit reversal for expired drugs, said Siddharth Surana, Director, RSM India. Typically, when medicines are dispatched to stockists, they come with an expiry date. If the stockists fail to sell these medicines before they expire, they return them to the pharma companies, which then write off these products in their books.

Gupta explains that the companies argue that promotional activities and related expenses (or business support services) are essential for business operations and market expansion, thus qualifying for ITC, but the GST authorities may view these transactions differently,"focusing on the letter of the law rather than the business context".

Jignesh Ghelani, Partner at

Disallowance of ITC in the present case (for pharmaceutical companies) is largely on the premise that the expenses incurred are not in accordance with the Indian Medical Council Regulations and the recently published Uniform Code for Pharmaceutical Marketing Practices, 2024, he said.

TAJ EXPRESS CATCHES FIRE

Three coaches of the Jhansibound Taj Express train caught fire in southeast Delhi's Sarita Vihar on Monday. No one was injured in the incident as passengers managed to get out of the affected coaches in time, officials said. The cause of the fire was not known immediately and the railway police are investigating the matter. Coaches D3 and D4 were gutted in the fire, while D2 was partially damaged, the police said, adding they were general chair car coaches.

Meet Uganda, who want to be the new West Indies of T20s

Football-mad nation sees a surge in interest for cricket after qualifying for the T20 World Cup

PRATYUSH RAJ & RAHUL PANDEY June 3

FRANK NSUBUGA SAYS he and his teammates couldn't sleep. "When we returned home, it was like we were dreaming with open eyes," he

The throwback is to November 2023. Such was the occasion for the Ugandan cricket team, who had managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya - known power centres in African cricket.

But how did they get here? It would be wrong to consider their qualification as a fluke. Not long after they made it to the T20 World Cup, Uganda successfully defended their African T20 Cup title. It's a competition that offers a stage to lesser-known sides in the continent, and of late, Uganda has emerged as a contender to compete at the pinnacle of the sport. But the ticket to the US and the West Indies wasn't earned in a day.

Since 2020, Uganda have won more T20Is than any other nation. But while the quality of opposition they often face may not be too high, there has been a conscious decision to play as many games as possible. In fact, in the past four years, Uganda are only behind India, Pakistan and New Zealand in the number of T20Is played.

"For us, it started three and a half years ago," says skipper Brian Masaba. "During the Covid outbreak, Lawrence Mahatlane became our coach. He drew a roadmap for us that ended

DREAM COME TRUE FOR UGANDA

■ In November 2023, Uganda managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya – known power centres in African cricket

■ With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions in the format, West Indies, is not surprising

with us playing at the 2024 T20 World Cup. He presented it to the board and the players, and we bought into it. After that, it was just about being very sincere about everything we did, the number of games we played, our practice sessions...all conversations were about having a chance of featuring at the T20 World Cup."

Masaba offers an insight into the country's cricketing system, and how players are chosen for the national team. "We have a club structure. But this particular group of players were picked from a larger squad. You can call it sort of a high-performance programme that was put in place once the roadmap was drawn. Over the last four years, the Uganda Cricket Association has managed to give contracts to 25 players."

Among the 25 is Nsubuga, a Uganda cricket veteran, who will become one of the oldest players to play the T20 World Cup. The 43-year-old, who made his debut for the national team in 1996, remembers very different times when he had started

"When I was young, cricket wasn't so easy. We used to struggle with a lot of things like equipment and had to manage most things ourselves, even on tours. Now things have changed. At least on every ICC tour, it is all paid for. We have sponsors. Nowadays, you just have to focus on working hard to be picked by the selectors," Nsubuga

But it's not just about taking care of the sport at the top. Masaba points to a more foundational change taking ball is much easier to spread as it's way more cost-effective. But with this qualifica tion for the World Cup, the interest in cricket has grown. Now, a number of schools have started to put cricket in their curriculum, which for me is a big plus and hopefully, we will build on that platform."

Looking up to the West Indies

It is fitting that the first ICC world event that Uganda are featuring in is being cohosted by the West Indies. With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions is not surprising.

"The West Indians are very popular in Uganda because of the way they play their cricket and how exciting they are to watch," Masaba shares.

Nsubuga, who once doted on the Australian brand of cricket, has now taken a liking for the T20 stars from the Caribbean, so much so that he named his son after one. "Ricky Ponting was my idol because at the time he was playing in such a dominating team. I liked him and that's why I took jersey number 14. Right now, I'm following Andre Russell. Before him, was a fan of (Kieron) Pollard. I also named my son after him (laughs), because of the fierce brand of cricket he was playing. I am a big fan of the West Indian brand of cricket."

That brand of cricket is something the Ugandans are keen on replicating on their World Cup debut, Masaba

"Our brand of cricket is to enjoy and have fun in the park. We will run hard, throw ourselves around on the field. We will play with a smile on our faces. We like to win, we like to compete, but we play the game in the right spirit. We like to have a good time. Hopefully, we can show the world what Ugandan cricket has to offer."

GST probe wing to widen scrutiny of pharma firms

PRIYANSH VERMA New Delhi, June 3

THE DIRECTORATE GENERAL of GST Intelligence (DGGI) is set to intensify the scrutiny of suspected tax evasion by pharmaceutical companies. In addition to the notices sent already, the DGGI is likely to ask many more companies to explain what it perceives as under-payment of tax by them in the current year, FE has learnt. The notices could pertain to non-payment of GST on brand transfer sales, claiming fake input tax credit (ITC) on expired drugs and for business support services, and non-payment under the reverse charge mechanism, according to

The combined tax liability that would be mentioned in all these notices is close to ₹1,000 crore, and so far ₹450-500 crore has been paid by the pharmaceutical companies. "The payment so far made has been for notices issued in FY23 and FY24, but many companies have not yet paid. We shall be issuing more such notices this year too," an official said.

The official said that the notices have been sent to all

major manufacturers such as Sun Pharma, Mankind Pharma, Zydus Healthcare and Cipla. Emails sent to these companies by FE didn't elicit any response.

A common thread in the notices is the issue of input tax credit reversal for expired drugs, said Siddharth Surana, Director, RSM India. Typically, when medicines are dispatched to stockists, they come with an expiry date. If the stockists fail to sell these medicines before they expire, they return them to the pharma companies, which then write off these products in their books.

"The GST authorities argue

drugs should be reversed," explained Surana. Sources say that the companies are separately analysing the legality of such notices, and have made representations to the government to clarify their position.In case, pharmaceutical companies do not comply with the GST demands from lower-level authorities, they are likely to face legal actions, including fines and penalties,

Gupta explains that the companies argue that promotional activities and related expenses (or business support services) are essential for business operations and market expansion, thus qualifying for ITC, but the GST authorities may view these transactions differently,"focusing on the letter of the law rather than the business context". Disallowance of ITC in the present case (for pharmaceutical companies) is largely on the premise that the expenses incurred are not in accordance with the Indian Medical Council Regulations and the recently published Uniform Code for Pharmaceutical Marketing Practices, 2024, he said.

CATCHES FIRE

Three coaches of the Jhansibound Taj Express train caught fire in southeast Delhi's Sarita Vihar on Monday. No one was injured in the incident as passengers managed to get out of the affected coaches in time, officials said. The cause of the fire was not known immediately and the railway police are investigating the matter. Coaches D3 and D4 were gutted in the fire, while D2 was partially damaged, the police said, adding they were general chair car coaches.

Meet Uganda, who want to be the new West Indies of T20s

Football-mad nation sees a surge in interest for cricket after qualifying for the T20 World Cup

PRATYUSH RAJ & RAHUL PANDEY June 3

FRANK NSUBUGA SAYS he and his teammates couldn't sleep. "When we returned home, it was like we were dreaming with open eyes," he said.

The throwback is to November 2023. Such was the occasion for the Ugandan cricket team, who had managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya - known power centres in African cricket.

But how did they get here? It would be wrong to consider their qualification as a fluke. Not long after they made it to the T20 World Cup, Uganda successfully defended their African T20 Cup title. It's a competition that offers a stage to lesser-known sides in the continent, and of late, Uganda has emerged as a contender to compete at the pinnacle of the sport. But the ticket to the US and the West T20 World Cup." Indies wasn't earned in a day.

Since 2020, Uganda have won more T20Is than any other nation. But while the quality of opposition they often face may not be too high, there has been a conscious decision to play as many games as possible. In fact, in the past four years, Uganda are only behind India, Pakistan and New Zealand in the number of T20Is played.

"For us, it started three and a half years ago," says skipper Brian Masaba. "During the Covid outbreak, Lawrence Mahatlane became our coach. He drew a roadmap for us that ended

■ In November 2023, Uganda managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya – known power centres in African cricket

■ With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions in the format, West Indies, is not surprising

with us playing at the 2024 T20 World Cup. He presented it to the board and the players, and we bought into it. After that, it was just about being very sincere about everything we did, the number of games we played, our practice sessions...all conversations were about having a chance of featuring at the Masaba offers an insight into the country's cricketing system, and how players are chosen for the national team. "We have a club structure. But this particular group of players were picked from a larger squad. You can call it sort of a high-performance programme that was put in place once the roadmap was drawn. Over the last four years, the Uganda Cricket Association has managed to give contracts to 25 players."

Among the 25 is Nsubuga, a Uganda cricket veteran, who will become one of the oldest players to play the T20 World Cup. The 43-year-old, who made his debut for the national team in 1996, remembers very different times when he had started

"When I was young, cricket wasn't so easy. We used to struggle with a lot of things like equipment and had to manage most things ourselves, even on tours. Now things have changed. At least on every ICC tour, it is all paid for. We have sponsors. Nowadays, you just have to focus on working hard to be picked by the selectors," Nsubuga

But it's not just about taking care of the sport at the top. Masaba points to a more foundational change taking place in Uganda, that is likely to have a positive impact on cricket in the long run. "Football is huge in Uganda. Not only in Uganda, in Africa generally. It's very difficult for cricket to compete with football because historically Uganda has always been a footballing nation and football is much easier to spread as it's way more cost-effective. But with this qualifica tion for the World Cup, the interest in cricket has grown. Now, a number of schools have started to put cricket in their curriculum, which for me is a big plus and hopefully, we will build on that platform."

Looking up to the West Indies

It is fitting that the first ICC world event that Uganda are featuring in is being cohosted by the West Indies. With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions is not surprising.

"The West Indians are very popular in Uganda because of the way they play their cricket and how exciting they are to watch," Masaba shares.

Nsubuga, who once doted on the Australian brand of cricket, has now taken a liking for the T20 stars from the Caribbean, so much so that he named his son after one. "Ricky Ponting was my idol because at the time he was playing in such a dominating team. I liked him and that's why I took jersey number 14. Right now, I'm following Andre Russell. Before him, I was a fan of (Kieron) Pollard. I also named my son after him (laughs), because of the fierce brand of cricket he was playing. I am a big fan of the West Indian brand of cricket."

That brand of cricket is something the Ugandans are keen on replicating on their World Cup debut, Masaba

"Our brand of cricket is to enjoy and have fun in the park. We will run hard, throw ourselves around on the field. We will play with a smile on our faces. We like to win, we like to compete, but we play the game in the right spirit. We like to have a good time. Hopefully, we can show the world what Ugandan cricket

THE DIRECTORATE GENERAL of GST Intelligence (DGGI) is set to intensify the scrutiny of suspected tax evasion by pharmaceutical companies. In addition to the notices sent already, the DGGI is likely to ask many more companies to explain what it perceives as under-payment of tax by them in the current year, FE has learnt. The notices could pertain to non-payment of GST on brand transfer sales, claiming fake input tax credit (ITC) on expired drugs and for business support services, and non-payment under the reverse charge mechanism, according to

The combined tax liability that would be mentioned in all these notices is close to ₹1,000 crore, and so far ₹450-500 crore has been paid by the pharmaceutical companies. "The payment so far made has been for notices issued in FY23 and FY24, but many companies have not yet paid. We shall be issuing more such notices this year too," an official said.

The official said that the notices have been sent to all

major manufacturers such as Sun Pharma, Mankind Pharma, Zydus Healthcare and Cipla. Emails sent to these companies by FE didn't elicit any response.

A common thread in the notices is the issue of input tax credit reversal for expired drugs, said Siddharth Surana, Director, RSM India. Typically, when medicines are dispatched to stockists, they come with an expiry date. If the stockists fail to sell these medicines before they expire, they return them to the pharma companies, which then write off these products in their books.

Gupta explains that the companies argue that promotional activities and related expenses (or business support services) are essential for business operations and market expansion, thus qualifying for ITC, but the GST authorities may view these transactions differently,"focusing on the letter of the law rather than the business context".

Jignesh Ghelani, Partner at

Disallowance of ITC in the present case (for pharmaceutical companies) is largely on the premise that the expenses incurred are not in accordance with the Indian Medical Council Regulations and the recently published Uniform Code for Pharmaceutical Marketing Practices, 2024, he said.

TAJ EXPRESS CATCHES FIRE

Three coaches of the Jhansibound Taj Express train caught fire in southeast Delhi's Sarita Vihar on Monday. No one was injured in the incident as passengers managed to get out of the affected coaches in time, officials said. The cause of the fire was not known immediately and the railway police are investigating the matter. Coaches D3 and D4 were gutted in the fire, while D2 was partially damaged, the police said, adding they were general chair car coaches.

Meet Uganda, who want to be the new West Indies of T20s

Football-mad nation sees a surge in interest for cricket after qualifying for the T20 World Cup

PRATYUSH RAJ & RAHUL PANDEY June 3

FRANK NSUBUGA SAYS he and his teammates couldn't sleep. "When we returned home, it was like we were dreaming with open eyes," he

The throwback is to November 2023. Such was the occasion for the Ugandan cricket team, who had managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya - known power centres in African cricket.

But how did they get here? It would be wrong to consider their qualification as a fluke. Not long after they made it to the T20 World Cup, Uganda successfully defended their African T20 Cup title. It's a competition that offers a stage to lesser-known sides in the continent, and of late, Uganda has emerged as a contender to compete at the pinnacle of the sport. But the ticket to the US and the West Indies wasn't earned in a day.

Since 2020, Uganda have won more T20Is than any other nation. But while the quality of opposition they often face may not be too high, there has been a conscious decision to play as many games as possible. In fact, in the past four years, Uganda are only behind India, Pakistan and New Zealand in the number of T20Is played.

"For us, it started three and a half years ago," says skipper Brian Masaba. "During the Covid outbreak, Lawrence Mahatlane became our coach. He drew a roadmap for us that ended

DREAM COME TRUE FOR UGANDA

■ In November 2023, Uganda managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya – known power centres in African cricket

■ With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions in the format, West Indies, is not surprising

with us playing at the 2024 T20 World Cup. He presented it to the board and the players, and we bought into it. After that, it was just about being very sincere about everything we did, the number of games we played, our practice sessions...all conversations were about having a chance of featuring at the T20 World Cup."

Masaba offers an insight into the country's cricketing system, and how players are chosen for the national team. "We have a club structure. But this particular group of players were picked from a larger squad. You can call it sort of a high-performance programme that was put in place once the roadmap was drawn. Over the last four years, the Uganda Cricket Association has managed to give contracts to 25 players."

Among the 25 is Nsubuga, a Uganda cricket veteran, who will become one of the oldest players to play the T20 World Cup. The 43-year-old, who made his debut for the national team in 1996, remembers very different times when he had started

"When I was young, cricket wasn't so easy. We used to struggle with a lot of things like equipment and had to manage most things ourselves, even on tours. Now things have changed. At least on every ICC tour, it is all paid for. We have sponsors. Nowadays, you just have to focus on working hard to be picked by the selectors," Nsubuga

But it's not just about taking care of the sport at the top. Masaba points to a more foundational change taking place in Uganda, that is likely to have a positive impact on cricket in the long run. "Football is huge in Uganda. Not only in Uganda, in Africa generally. It's very difficult for cricket to compete with football because historically Uganda has always been a footballing nation and football is much easier to spread as it's way more cost-effective. But with this qualifica tion for the World Cup, the interest in cricket has grown. Now, a number of schools have started to put cricket in their curriculum, which for me is a big plus and hopefully, we will build on that platform."

Looking up to the West Indies

It is fitting that the first ICC world event that Uganda are featuring in is being cohosted by the West Indies. With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions is not surprising.

"The West Indians are very popular in Uganda because of the way they play their cricket and how exciting they are to watch," Masaba shares.

Nsubuga, who once doted on the Australian brand of cricket, has now taken a liking for the T20 stars from the Caribbean, so much so that he named his son after one. "Ricky Ponting was my idol because at the time he was playing in such a dominating team. I liked him and that's why I took jersey number 14. Right now, I'm following Andre Russell. Before him, was a fan of (Kieron) Pollard. I also named my son after him (laughs), because of the fierce brand of cricket he was playing. I am a big fan of the West Indian brand of cricket."

That brand of cricket is something the Ugandans are keen on replicating on their World Cup debut, Masaba

"Our brand of cricket is to enjoy and have fun in the park. We will run hard, throw ourselves around on the field. We will play with a smile on our faces. We like to win, we like to compete, but we play the game in the right spirit. We like to have a good time. Hopefully, we can show the world what Ugandan cricket has to offer."

PRIYANSH VERMA New Delhi, June 3

THE DIRECTORATE GENERAL of GST Intelligence (DGGI) is set to intensify the scrutiny of suspected tax evasion by pharmaceutical companies. In addition to the notices sent already, the DGGI is likely to ask many more companies to explain what it perceives as under-payment of tax by them in the current year, FE has learnt. The notices could pertain to non-payment of GST on brand transfer sales, claiming fake input tax credit (ITC) on expired drugs and for business support services, and non-payment under the reverse charge mechanism, according to

The combined tax liability that would be mentioned in all these notices is close to ₹1,000 crore, and so far ₹450-500 crore has been paid by the pharmaceutical companies. "The payment so far made has been for notices issued in FY23 and FY24, but many companies have not yet paid. We shall be issuing more such notices this year too," an official said.

The official said that the notices have been sent to all

major manufacturers such as Sun Pharma, Mankind Pharma, Zydus Healthcare and Cipla. Emails sent to these companies by FE didn't elicit any response. A common thread in the notices is the issue of input tax credit reversal for expired drugs, said Siddharth Surana, Director, RSM India. Typically, when medicines are dispatched to stockists, they come with an expiry date. If the stockists fail to sell these medicines before they expire, they return them to the pharma companies, which then write off these products in their books.

"The GST authorities argue

that in cases where drugs are written off, the input tax credit on the raw materials used to manufacture these

drugs should be reversed,"

explained Surana. Sources say that the companies are separately analysing the legality of such notices, and have made representations to the government to clarify their position.In case, pharmaceutical companies do not comply with the GST demands from lower-level authorities, they are likely to face legal actions, including fines and penalties, said sources.

Ankur Gupta, practice

leader-indirect tax at SW India, said that legal proceedings will allow the companies to present their arguments and evidence to substantiate that their expenses and transactions are legitimate and necessary for their business.

Gupta explains that the companies argue that promotional activities and related expenses (or business support services) are essential for business operations and market expansion, thus qualifying for ITC, but the GST authorities may view these transactions differently,"focusing on the letter of the law rather than the business context". Jignesh Ghelani, Partner at

Economic Laws Practice says that typically, sales and promotion expenses are incurred in the course of furtherance of business and ITC is eligible. Disallowance of ITC in the present case (for pharmaceutical companies) is largely on the premise that the expenses incurred are not in accordance with the Indian Medical Council Regulations and the recently published Uniform Code for Pharmaceutical Marketing Practices, 2024, he said.

Indies wasn't earned in a day. Since 2020, Uganda have won more T20Is than any other nation. But while the quality of opposition they often face may not be too high, there has been a conscious decision to play as many games as possible. In fact, in the past four years, Uganda are only behind India, Pakistan and New Zealand in the number of T20Is played.

"For us, it started three and a half years ago," says skipper Brian Masaba. "During the Covid outbreak, Lawrence Mahatlane became our coach. He drew a roadmap for us that ended

Meet Uganda, who want to be the new West Indies of T20s

■ In November 2023, Uganda managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of ever ICC World Cup, pipping Zimbabwe and Kenya – known power centres in African cricket

format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions in the format, West Indies, is not surprising

■ With T20 being the

with us playing at the 2024 T20 World Cup. He presented it to the board and the players, and we bought into it. After that, it was just about being very sincere about everything we did, the number of games we played, our practice sessions...all conversations were about having a chance of featuring at the T20 World Cup." Masaba offers an insight into the country's cricketing system, and how players are chosen for the national team. "We have a club structure. But this particular group of players were picked from a larger squad. You can call it sort of a high-performance programme that was put in place once the roadmap was drawn. Over the last four years, the Uganda Cricket Association has managed to give contracts to 25 players."

Among the 25 is Nsubuga, a Uganda cricket veteran, who will become one of the oldest players to play the T20 World Cup. The 43-year-old, who made his debut for the national team in 1996, remembers very different times when he had started

"When I was young, cricket wasn't so easy. We used to struggle with a lot of things like equipment and had to manage most things ourselves, even on tours. Now things have changed. At least on every ICC tour, it is all paid for. We have sponsors. Nowadays, you just have to focus on working hard to be picked by the selectors," Nsubuga

But it's not just about taking care of the sport at the top. Masaba points to a more foundational change taking place in Uganda, that is likely to have a positive impact on cricket in the long run. "Football is huge in Uganda. Not only in Uganda, in Africa generally. It's very difficult for cricket to compete with football because historically Uganda has always been a footballing nation and football is much easier to spread as it's way more cost-effective. But with this qualification for the World Cup, the interest in cricket has grown. Now, a number of schools have started to put cricket in their curriculum, which for me is a big plus and hopefully, we will build on that platform."

Looking up to the West Indies

It is fitting that the first ICC world event that Uganda are featuring in is being cohosted by the West Indies. With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions is not surprising.

"The West Indians are very popular in Uganda because of the way they play their cricket and how exciting they are to watch," Masaba shares.

Nsubuga, who once doted on the Australian brand of cricket, has now taken a liking for the T20 stars from the Caribbean, so much so that he named his son after one. "Ricky Ponting was my idol because at the time he was playing in such a dominating team. I liked him and that's why I took jersey number 14. Right now, I'm following Andre Russell. Before him, was a fan of (Kieron) Pollard. I also named my son after him (laughs), because of the fierce brand of cricket he was playing. I am a big fan of the West Indian brand of cricket."

That brand of cricket is something the Ugandans are keen on replicating on their World Cup debut, Masaba

"Our brand of cricket is to enjoy and have fun in the park. We will run hard, throw ourselves around on the field. We will play with a smile on our faces. We like to win, we like to compete, but we play the game in the right spirit. We like to have a good time. Hopefully, we can show the world what Ugandan cricket has to offer."

THE DIRECTORATE GENERAL of GST Intelligence (DGGI) is set to intensify the scrutiny of suspected tax evasion by pharmaceutical companies. In addition to the notices sent already, the DGGI is likely to ask many more companies to explain what it perceives as under-payment of tax by them in the current year, FE has learnt. The notices could pertain to non-payment of GST on brand transfer sales, claiming fake input tax credit (ITC) on expired drugs and for business support services, and non-payment under the reverse charge mechanism, according to

The combined tax liability that would be mentioned in all these notices is close to ₹1,000 crore, and so far ₹450-500 crore has been paid by the pharmaceutical companies. "The payment so far made has been for notices issued in FY23 and FY24, but many companies have not yet paid. We shall be issuing more such notices this year too," an official said.

The official said that the notices have been sent to all

major manufacturers such as Sun Pharma, Mankind Pharma, Zydus Healthcare and Cipla. Emails sent to these companies by FE didn't elicit any response.

A common thread in the notices is the issue of input tax credit reversal for expired drugs, said Siddharth Surana, Director, RSM India. Typically, when medicines are dispatched to stockists, they come with an expiry date. If the stockists fail to sell these medicines before they expire, they return them to the pharma companies, which then write off these products in their books.

Gupta explains that the companies argue that promotional activities and related expenses (or business support services) are essential for business operations and market expansion, thus qualifying for ITC, but the GST authorities may view these transactions differently,"focusing on the letter of the law rather than the business context".

Jignesh Ghelani, Partner at

Disallowance of ITC in the present case (for pharmaceutical companies) is largely on the premise that the expenses incurred are not in accordance with the Indian Medical Council Regulations and the recently published Uniform Code for Pharmaceutical Marketing Practices, 2024, he said.

CATCHES FIRE

Three coaches of the Jhansibound Taj Express train caught fire in southeast Delhi's Sarita Vihar on Monday. No one was injured in the incident as passengers managed to get out of the affected coaches in time, officials said. The cause of the fire was not known immediately and the railway police are investigating the matter. Coaches D3 and D4 were gutted in the fire, while D2 was partially damaged, the police said, adding they were general chair car coaches.

Meet Uganda, who want to be the new West Indies of T20s

Football-mad nation sees a surge in interest for cricket after qualifying for the T20 World Cup

PRATYUSH RAJ & RAHUL PANDEY June 3

FRANK NSUBUGA SAYS he and his teammates couldn't sleep. "When we returned home, it was like we were dreaming with open eyes," he

The throwback is to November 2023. Such was the occasion for the Ugandan cricket team, who had managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya - known power centres in African cricket.

But how did they get here? It would be wrong to consider their qualification as a fluke. Not long after they made it to the T20 World Cup, Uganda successfully defended their African T20 Cup title. It's a competition that offers a stage to lesser-known sides in the continent, and of late, Uganda has emerged as a contender to compete at the pinnacle of the sport. But the ticket to the US and the West Indies wasn't earned in a day.

Since 2020, Uganda have won more T20Is than any other nation. But while the quality of opposition they often face may not be too high, there has been a conscious decision to play as many games as possible. In fact, in the past four years, Uganda are only behind India, Pakistan and New Zealand in the number of T20Is played.

"For us, it started three and a half years ago," says skipper Brian Masaba. "During the Covid outbreak, Lawrence Mahatlane became our coach. He drew a roadmap for us that ended

DREAM COME TRUE FOR UGANDA

■ In November 2023, Uganda managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya – known power centres in African cricket

■ With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions in the format, West Indies, is not surprising

with us playing at the 2024 T20 World Cup. He presented it to the board and the players, and we bought into it. After that, it was just about being very sincere about everything we did, the number of games we played, our practice sessions...all conversations were about having a chance of featuring at the T20 World Cup."

Masaba offers an insight into the country's cricketing system, and how players are chosen for the national team. "We have a club structure. But this particular group of players were picked from a larger squad. You can call it sort of a high-performance programme that was put in place once the roadmap was drawn. Over the last four years, the Uganda Cricket Association has managed to give contracts to 25 players."

Among the 25 is Nsubuga, a Uganda cricket veteran, who will become one of the oldest players to play the T20 World Cup. The 43-year-old, who made his debut for the national team in 1996, remembers very different times when he had started

"When I was young, cricket wasn't so easy. We used to struggle with a lot of things like equipment and had to manage most things ourselves, even on tours. Now things have changed. At least on every ICC tour, it is all paid for. We have sponsors. Nowadays, you just have to focus on working hard to be picked by the selectors," Nsubuga But it's not just about taking care of the sport at the top. Masaba points to a more foundational change taking place in Uganda, that is likely to have a positive impact on cricket in the long run. "Football is huge in Uganda. Not only in Uganda, in Africa generally. It's very difficult for cricket to compete with football because historically Uganda has always been a footballing nation and football is much easier to spread as it's way more cost-effective. But with this qualifica tion for the World Cup, the interest in cricket has grown. Now, a number of schools have started to put cricket in their curriculum, which for me is a big plus and hopefully, we will build on that platform."

Looking up to the West Indies

It is fitting that the first ICC world event that Uganda are featuring in is being cohosted by the West Indies. With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions is not surprising.

"The West Indians are very popular in Uganda because of the way they play their cricket and how exciting they are to watch," Masaba shares.

Nsubuga, who once doted on the Australian brand of cricket, has now taken a liking for the T20 stars from the Caribbean, so much so that he named his son after one. "Ricky Ponting was my idol because at the time he was playing in such a dominating team. I liked him and that's why I took jersey number 14. Right now, I'm following Andre Russell. Before him, was a fan of (Kieron) Pollard. I also named my son after him (laughs), because of the fierce brand of cricket he was playing. I am a big fan of the West Indian brand of cricket."

That brand of cricket is something the Ugandans are keen on replicating on their World Cup debut, Masaba

"Our brand of cricket is to enjoy and have fun in the park. We will run hard, throw ourselves around on the field. We will play with a smile on our faces. We like to win, we like to compete, but we play the game in the right spirit. We like to have a good time. Hopefully, we can show the world what Ugandan cricket has to offer."

THE DIRECTORATE GENERAL of GST Intelligence (DGGI) is set to intensify the scrutiny of suspected tax evasion by pharmaceutical companies. In addition to the notices sent already, the DGGI is likely to ask many more companies to explain what it perceives as under-payment of tax by them in the current year, FE has learnt. The notices could pertain to non-payment of GST on brand transfer sales, claiming fake input tax credit (ITC) on expired drugs and for business support services, and non-payment under the reverse charge mechanism, according to

The combined tax liability that would be mentioned in all these notices is close to ₹1,000 crore, and so far ₹450-500 crore has been paid by the pharmaceutical companies. "The payment so far made has been for notices issued in FY23 and FY24, but many companies have not yet paid. We shall be issuing more such notices this year too," an official said.

The official said that the notices have been sent to all

A common thread in the notices is the issue of input tax credit reversal for expired drugs, said Siddharth Surana, Director, RSM India. Typically, when medicines are dispatched to stockists, they come with an expiry date. If the stockists fail to sell these medicines before they expire, they return them to the pharma companies, which then write off these products in their books.

Disallowance of ITC in the present case (for pharmaceutical companies) is largely on the premise that the expenses incurred are not in accordance with the Indian Medical Council Regulations and the recently published Uniform Code for Pharmaceutical Marketing Practices, 2024, he said.

CATCHES FIRE

Three coaches of the Jhansibound Taj Express train caught fire in southeast Delhi's Sarita Vihar on Monday. No one was injured in the incident as passengers managed to get out of the affected coaches in time, officials said. The cause of the fire was not known immediately and the railway police are investigating the matter. Coaches D3 and D4 were gutted in the fire, while D2 was partially damaged, the police said, adding they were general chair car coaches.

Meet Uganda, who want to be the new West Indies of T20s

Football-mad nation sees a surge in interest for cricket after qualifying for the T20 World Cup

PRATYUSH RAJ & RAHUL PANDEY June 3

FRANK NSUBUGA SAYS he and his teammates couldn't sleep. "When we returned home, it was like we were dreaming with open eyes," he

The throwback is to November 2023. Such was the occasion for the Ugandan cricket team, who had managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya - known power centres in African cricket.

But how did they get here? It would be wrong to consider their qualification as a fluke. Not long after they made it to the T20 World Cup, Uganda successfully defended their African T20 Cup title. It's a competition that offers a stage to lesser-known sides in the continent, and of late, Uganda has emerged as a contender to compete at the pinnacle of the sport. But the ticket to the US and the West Indies wasn't earned in a day.

Since 2020, Uganda have won more T20Is than any other nation. But while the quality of opposition they often face may not be too high, there has been a conscious decision to play as many games as possible. In fact, in the past four years, Uganda are only behind India, Pakistan and New Zealand in the number of T20Is played.

"For us, it started three and a half years ago," says skipper Brian Masaba. "During the Covid outbreak, Lawrence Mahatlane became our coach. He drew a roadmap for us that ended

DREAM COME TRUE FOR UGANDA

■ In November 2023, Uganda managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya – known power centres in African cricket

■ With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions in the format, West Indies, is not surprising

with us playing at the 2024 T20 World Cup. He presented it to the board and the players, and we bought into it. After that, it was just about being very sincere about everything we did, the number of games we played, our practice sessions...all conversations were about having a chance of featuring at the T20 World Cup."

Masaba offers an insight into the country's cricketing system, and how players are chosen for the national team. "We have a club structure. But this particular group of players were picked from a larger squad. You can call it sort of a high-performance programme that was put in place once the roadmap was drawn. Over the last four years, the Uganda Cricket Association has managed to give contracts to 25 players."

Among the 25 is Nsubuga, a Uganda cricket veteran, who will become one of the oldest players to play the T20 World Cup. The 43-year-old, who made his debut for the national team in 1996, remembers very different times when he had started

"When I was young, cricket wasn't so easy. We used to struggle with a lot of things like equipment and had to manage most things ourselves, even on tours. Now things have changed. At least on every ICC tour, it is all paid for. We have sponsors. Nowadays, you just have to focus on working hard to be picked by the selectors," Nsubuga

But it's not just about taking care of the sport at the top. Masaba points to a more foundational change taking place in Uganda, that is likely to have a positive impact on cricket in the long run. "Football is huge in Uganda. Not only in Uganda, in Africa generally. It's very difficult for cricket to compete with football because historically Uganda has always been a footballing nation and football is much easier to spread as it's way more cost-effective. But with this qualifica tion for the World Cup, the interest in cricket has grown. Now, a number of schools have started to put cricket in their curriculum, which for me is a big plus and hopefully, we will build on that platform."

Looking up to the West Indies

It is fitting that the first ICC world event that Uganda are featuring in is being cohosted by the West Indies. With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions is not surprising.

"The West Indians are very popular in Uganda because of the way they play their cricket and how exciting they are to watch," Masaba shares.

Nsubuga, who once doted on the Australian brand of cricket, has now taken a liking for the T20 stars from the Caribbean, so much so that he named his son after one. "Ricky Ponting was my idol because at the time he was playing in such a dominating team. I liked him and that's why I took jersey number 14. Right now, I'm following Andre Russell. Before him, was a fan of (Kieron) Pollard. I also named my son after him (laughs), because of the fierce brand of cricket he was playing. I am a big fan of the West Indian brand of cricket."

That brand of cricket is something the Ugandans are keen on replicating on their World Cup debut, Masaba

"Our brand of cricket is to enjoy and have fun in the park. We will run hard, throw ourselves around on the field. We will play with a smile on our faces. We like to win, we like to compete, but we play the game in the right spirit. We like to have a good time. Hopefully, we can show the world what Ugandan cricket has to offer."

THE DIRECTORATE GENERAL of GST Intelligence (DGGI) is set to intensify the scrutiny of suspected tax evasion by pharmaceutical companies. In addition to the notices sent already, the DGGI is likely to ask many more companies to explain what it perceives as under-payment of tax by them in the current year, FE has learnt. The notices could pertain to non-payment of GST on brand transfer sales, claiming fake input tax credit (ITC) on expired drugs and for business support services, and non-payment under the reverse charge mechanism, according to sources.

The combined tax liability that would be mentioned in all these notices is close to ₹1,000 crore, and so far ₹450-500 crore has been paid by the pharmaceutical companies. "The payment so far made has been for notices issued in FY23 and FY24, but many companies have not yet paid. We shall be issuing more such notices this year too," an official said.

A common thread in the notices is the issue of input tax credit reversal for expired drugs, said Siddharth Surana, Director, RSM India. Typically, when medicines are dispatched to stockists, they come with an expiry date. If the stockists fail to sell these medicines before they expire, they return them to the pharma companies, which then write off these products in their books.

"The GST authorities argue

In case, pharmaceutical companies do not comply with the GST demands from lower-level authorities, they are likely to face legal actions, including fines and penalties, said sources.

> > Ankur Gupta, practice

leader-indirect tax at SW India, said that legal proceedings will allow the companies to present their arguments and evidence to substantiate that their expenses and transactions are legitimate and necessary for their business.

Gupta explains that the companies argue that promotional activities and related expenses (or business support services) are essential for business operations and market expansion, thus qualifying for ITC, but the GST authorities may view these transactions differently,"focusing on the letter of the law rather than the business context". Jignesh Ghelani, Partner at

Economic Laws Practice says that typically, sales and promotion expenses are incurred in the course of furtherance of business and ITC is eligible. Disallowance of ITC in the present case (for pharmaceutical companies) is largely on the premise that the expenses incurred are not in accordance with the Indian Medical Council Regulations and the recently published Uniform Code for Pharmaceutical Marketing Practices, 2024, he said.

TAJ EXPRESS CATCHES FIRE

Three coaches of the Jhansibound Taj Express train caught fire in southeast Delhi's Sarita Vihar on Monday. No one was injured in the incident as passengers managed to get out of the affected coaches in time, officials said. The cause of the fire was not known immediately and the railway police are investigating the matter. Coaches D3 and D4 were gutted in the fire, while D2 was partially damaged, the police said, adding they were general chair car coaches.

Meet Uganda, who want to be the new West Indies of T20s

Football-mad nation sees a surge in interest for cricket after qualifying for the T20 World Cup

PRATYUSH RAJ & RAHUL PANDEY June 3

FRANK NSUBUGA SAYS he and his teammates couldn't sleep. "When we returned home, it was like we were dreaming with open eyes," he said.

The throwback is to November 2023. Such was the occasion for the Ugandan cricket team, who had managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya - known power centres in African cricket.

But how did they get here? It would be wrong to consider their qualification as a fluke. Not long after they made it to the T20 World Cup, Uganda successfully defended their African T20 Cup title. It's a competition that offers a stage to lesser-known sides in the continent, and of late, Uganda has emerged as a contender to compete at the pinnacle of the sport. But the ticket to the US and the West T20 World Cup." Indies wasn't earned in a day.

won more T20Is than any other nation. But while the quality of opposition they often face may not be too high, there has been a conscious decision to play as many games as possible. In fact, in the past four years, Uganda are only behind India, Pakistan and New Zealand in the number of T20Is played.

"For us, it started three and a half years ago," says skipper Brian Masaba. "During the Covid outbreak, Lawrence Mahatlane became our coach. He drew a roadmap for us that ended

■ In November 2023, Uganda managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya – known power centres in African cricket

■ With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions in the format, West Indies, is not surprising

with us playing at the 2024 T20 World Cup. He presented it to the board and the players, and we bought into it. After that, it was just about being very sincere about everything we did, the number of games we played, our practice sessions...all conversations were about having a chance of featuring at the

Since 2020, Uganda have into the country's cricketing system, and how players are chosen for the national team. "We have a club structure. But this particular group of players were picked from a larger squad. You can call it sort of a high-performance programme that was put in place once the roadmap was drawn. Over the last four years, the Uganda Cricket Association has managed to give contracts to 25 players."

> Among the 25 is Nsubuga, a Uganda cricket veteran, who will become one of the oldest players to play the T20 World Cup. The 43-year-old, who made his debut for the national team in 1996, remembers very different times when he had started

"When I was young, cricket wasn't so easy. We used to struggle with a lot of things like equipment and had to manage most things ourselves, even on tours. Now things have changed. At least on every ICC tour, it is all paid Masaba offers an insight for. We have sponsors. Nowadays, you just have to focus on working hard to be picked by the selectors," Nsubuga

But it's not just about taking care of the sport at the top. Masaba points to a more foundational change taking place in Uganda, that is likely to have a positive impact on cricket in the long run. "Football is huge in Uganda. Not only in Uganda, in Africa generally. It's very difficult for cricket to compete with football because historically Uganda has always been a footballing nation and football is much easier to spread as it's way more cost-effective. But with this qualification for the World Cup, the interest in cricket has grown. Now, a number of schools have started to put cricket in their curriculum, which for me is a big plus and hopefully, we will build on that platform."

Looking up to the West Indies

It is fitting that the first ICC world event that Uganda are featuring in is being cohosted by the West Indies. With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions is not surprising.

"The West Indians are very popular in Uganda because of the way they play their cricket and how exciting they are to watch," Masaba shares.

Nsubuga, who once doted on the Australian brand of cricket, has now taken a liking for the T20 stars from the Caribbean, so much so that he named his son after one. "Ricky Ponting was my idol because at the time he was playing in such a dominating team. I liked him and that's why I took jersey number 14. Right now, I'm following Andre Russell. Before him, l was a fan of (Kieron) Pollard. I also named my son after him (laughs), because of the fierce brand of cricket he was playing. I am a big fan of the West Indian brand of cricket."

That brand of cricket is something the Ugandans are keen on replicating on their World Cup debut, Masaba

"Our brand of cricket is to enjoy and have fun in the park. We will run hard, throw ourselves around on the field. We will play with a smile on our faces. We like to win, we like to compete, but we play the game in the right spirit. We like to have a good time. Hopefully, we can show the world what Ugandan cricket

THE DIRECTORATE GENERAL of GST Intelligence (DGGI) is set to intensify the scrutiny of suspected tax evasion by pharmaceutical companies. In addition to the notices sent already, the DGGI is likely to ask many more companies to explain what it perceives as under-payment of tax by them in the current year, FE has learnt. The notices could pertain to non-payment of GST on brand transfer sales, claiming fake input tax credit (ITC) on expired drugs and for business support services, and non-payment under the reverse charge mechanism, according to

The combined tax liability that would be mentioned in all these notices is close to ₹1,000 crore, and so far ₹450-500 crore has been paid by the pharmaceutical companies. "The payment so far made has been for notices issued in FY23 and FY24, but many companies have not yet paid. We shall be issuing more such notices this year too," an official said.

The official said that the notices have been sent to all

major manufacturers such as Sun Pharma, Mankind Pharma, Zydus Healthcare and Cipla. Emails sent to these companies by FE didn't elicit any response.

A common thread in the notices is the issue of input tax credit reversal for expired drugs, said Siddharth Surana, Director, RSM India. Typically, when medicines are dispatched to stockists, they come with an expiry date. If the stockists fail to sell these medicines before they expire, they return them to the pharma companies, which then write off these products in their books.

"The GST authorities argue

that in cases where drugs are written off, the input tax credit on the raw materials used to manufacture these

drugs should be reversed,"

explained Surana. Sources say that the companies are separately analysing the legality of such notices, and have made representations to the government to clarify their position.In case, pharmaceutical companies do not comply with the GST demands from lower-level authorities, they are likely to face legal actions, including fines and penalties, said sources.

Ankur Gupta, practice

leader-indirect tax at SW India, said that legal proceedings will allow the companies to present their arguments and evidence to substantiate that their expenses and transactions are legitimate and necessary for their business.

Gupta explains that the companies argue that promotional activities and related expenses (or business support services) are essential for business operations and market expansion, thus qualifying for ITC, but the GST authorities may view these transactions differently,"focusing on the letter of the law rather than the business context". Jignesh Ghelani, Partner at

Economic Laws Practice says that typically, sales and promotion expenses are incurred in the course of furtherance of business and ITC is eligible. Disallowance of ITC in the present case (for pharmaceutical companies) is largely on the premise that the expenses incurred are not in accordance with the Indian Medical Council Regulations and the recently published Uniform Code for Pharmaceutical Marketing Practices, 2024, he said.

TAJ EXPRESS CATCHES FIRE

Three coaches of the Jhansibound Taj Express train caught fire in southeast Delhi's Sarita Vihar on Monday. No one was injured in the incident as passengers managed to get out of the affected coaches in time, officials said. The cause of the fire was not known immediately and the railway police are investigating the matter. Coaches D3 and D4 were gutted in the fire, while D2 was partially damaged, the police said, adding they were general chair car coaches.

Meet Uganda, who want to be the new West Indies of T20s

Football-mad nation sees a surge in interest for cricket after qualifying for the T20 World Cup

PRATYUSH RAJ & RAHUL PANDEY June 3

FRANK NSUBUGA SAYS he and his teammates couldn't sleep. "When we returned home, it was like we were dreaming with open eyes," he said.

The throwback is to November 2023. Such was the occasion for the Ugandan cricket team, who had managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya - known power centres in African cricket.

But how did they get here? It would be wrong to consider their qualification as a fluke. Not long after they made it to the T20 World Cup, Uganda successfully defended their African T20 Cup title. It's a competition that offers a stage to lesser-known sides in the continent, and of late, Uganda has emerged as a contender to compete at the pinnacle of the sport. But the ticket to the US and the West T20 World Cup." Indies wasn't earned in a day.

Since 2020, Uganda have won more T20Is than any other nation. But while the quality of opposition they often face may not be too high, there has been a conscious decision to play as many games as possible. In fact, in the past four years, Uganda are only behind India, Pakistan and New Zealand in the number of T20Is played.

"For us, it started three and a half years ago," says skipper Brian Masaba. "During the Covid outbreak, Lawrence Mahatlane became our coach. He drew a roadmap for us that ended

■ In November 2023, Uganda managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya – known power centres in African cricket

■ With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions in the format, West Indies, is not surprising

with us playing at the 2024 T20 World Cup. He presented it to the board and the players, and we bought into it. After that, it was just about being very sincere about everything we did, the number of games we played, our practice sessions...all conversations were about having a chance of featuring at the Masaba offers an insight into the country's cricketing system, and how players are chosen for the national team. "We have a club structure. But this particular group of players were picked from a larger squad. You can call it sort of a high-performance programme that was put in place once the roadmap was drawn. Over the last four years, the Uganda Cricket Association has managed to give contracts to 25 players."

Among the 25 is Nsubuga, a Uganda cricket veteran, who will become one of the oldest players to play the T20 World Cup. The 43-year-old, who made his debut for the national team in 1996, remembers very different times when he had started

"When I was young, cricket wasn't so easy. We used to struggle with a lot of things like equipment and had to manage most things ourselves, even on tours. Now things have changed. At least on every ICC tour, it is all paid for. We have sponsors. Nowadays, you just have to focus on working hard to be picked by the selectors," Nsubuga

But it's not just about taking care of the sport at the top. Masaba points to a more foundational change taking place in Uganda, that is likely to have a positive impact on cricket in the long run. "Football is huge in Uganda. Not only in Uganda, in Africa generally. It's very difficult for cricket to compete with football because historically Uganda has always been a footballing nation and football is much easier to spread as it's way more cost-effective. But with this qualifica tion for the World Cup, the interest in cricket has grown. Now, a number of schools have started to put cricket in their curriculum, which for me is a big plus and hopefully, we will build on that platform."

Looking up to the West Indies

It is fitting that the first ICC world event that Uganda are featuring in is being cohosted by the West Indies. With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions is not surprising.

"The West Indians are very popular in Uganda because of the way they play their cricket and how exciting they are to watch," Masaba shares.

Nsubuga, who once doted on the Australian brand of cricket, has now taken a liking for the T20 stars from the Caribbean, so much so that he named his son after one. "Ricky Ponting was my idol because at the time he was playing in such a dominating team. I liked him and that's why I took jersey number 14. Right now, I'm following Andre Russell. Before him, I was a fan of (Kieron) Pollard. I also named my son after him (laughs), because of the fierce brand of cricket he was playing. I am a big fan of the West Indian brand of cricket."

That brand of cricket is something the Ugandans are keen on replicating on their World Cup debut, Masaba

"Our brand of cricket is to enjoy and have fun in the park. We will run hard, throw ourselves around on the field. We will play with a smile on our faces. We like to win, we like to compete, but we play the game in the right spirit. We like to have a good time. Hopefully, we can show the world what Ugandan cricket

PRIYANSH VERMA New Delhi, June 3

THE DIRECTORATE GENERAL of GST Intelligence (DGGI) is set to intensify the scrutiny of suspected tax evasion by pharmaceutical companies. In addition to the notices sent already, the DGGI is likely to ask many more companies to explain what it perceives as under-payment of tax by them in the current year, FE has learnt. The notices could pertain to non-payment of GST on brand transfer sales, claiming fake input tax credit (ITC) on expired drugs and for business support services, and non-payment under the reverse charge mechanism, according to

The combined tax liability that would be mentioned in all these notices is close to ₹1,000 crore, and so far ₹450-500 crore has been paid by the pharmaceutical companies. "The payment so far made has been for notices issued in FY23 and FY24, but many companies have not yet paid. We shall be issuing more such notices this year too," an official said.

The official said that the notices have been sent to all

major manufacturers such as Sun Pharma, Mankind Pharma, Zydus Healthcare and Cipla. Emails sent to these companies by FE didn't elicit any response.

A common thread in the notices is the issue of input tax credit reversal for expired drugs, said Siddharth Surana, Director, RSM India. Typically, when medicines are dispatched to stockists, they come with an expiry date. If the stockists fail to sell these medicines before they expire, they return them to the pharma companies, which then write off these products in their books.

Disallowance of ITC in the present case (for pharmaceutical companies) is largely on the premise that the expenses incurred are not in accordance with the Indian Medical Council Regulations and the recently published Uniform Code for Pharmaceutical Marketing Practices, 2024, he said.

CATCHES FIRE

Three coaches of the Jhansibound Taj Express train caught fire in southeast Delhi's Sarita Vihar on Monday. No one was injured in the incident as passengers managed to get out of the affected coaches in time, officials said. The cause of the fire was not known immediately and the railway police are investigating the matter. Coaches D3 and D4 were gutted in the fire, while D2 was partially damaged, the police said, adding they were general chair car coaches.

Meet Uganda, who want to be the new West Indies of T20s

Football-mad nation sees a surge in interest for cricket after qualifying for the T20 World Cup

PRATYUSH RAJ & RAHUL PANDEY June 3

FRANK NSUBUGA SAYS he and his teammates couldn't sleep. "When we returned home, it was like we were dreaming with open eyes," he

The throwback is to November 2023. Such was the occasion for the Ugandan cricket team, who had managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya - known power centres in African cricket.

But how did they get here? It would be wrong to consider their qualification as a fluke. Not long after they made it to the T20 World Cup, Uganda successfully defended their African T20 Cup title. It's a competition that offers a stage to lesser-known sides in the continent, and of late, Uganda has emerged as a contender to compete at the pinnacle of the sport. But the ticket to the US and the West Indies wasn't earned in a day.

Since 2020, Uganda have won more T20Is than any other nation. But while the quality of opposition they often face may not be too high, there has been a conscious decision to play as many games as possible. In fact, in the past four years, Uganda are only behind India, Pakistan and New Zealand in the number of T20Is played.

"For us, it started three and a half years ago," says skipper Brian Masaba. "During the Covid outbreak, Lawrence Mahatlane became our coach. He drew a roadmap for us that ended

■ In November 2023, Uganda managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya – known power centres in African cricket

format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions in the format, West Indies, is not surprising

■ With T20 being the

with us playing at the 2024 T20 World Cup. He presented it to the board and the players, and we bought into it. After that, it was just about being very sincere about everything we did, the number of games we played, our practice sessions...all conversations were about having a chance of featuring at the T20 World Cup."

Masaba offers an insight into the country's cricketing system, and how players are chosen for the national team. "We have a club structure. But this particular group of players were picked from a larger squad. You can call it sort of a high-performance programme that was put in place once the roadmap was drawn. Over the last four years, the Uganda Cricket Association has managed to give contracts to 25 players."

Among the 25 is Nsubuga. a Uganda cricket veteran, who will become one of the oldest players to play the T20 World Cup. The 43-year-old, who made his debut for the national team in 1996, remembers very different times when he had started

"When I was young, cricket wasn't so easy. We used to struggle with a lot of things like equipment and had to manage most things ourselves, even on tours. Now things have changed. At least on every ICC tour, it is all paid for. We have sponsors. Nowadays, you just have to focus on working hard to be picked by the selectors," Nsubuga

But it's not just about taking care of the sport at the top. Masaba points to a more foundational change taking place in Uganda, that is likely to have a positive impact on cricket in the long run. "Football is huge in Uganda. Not only in Uganda, in Africa generally. It's very difficult for cricket to compete with football because historically Uganda has always been a footballing nation and football is much easier to spread as it's way more cost-effective. But with this qualifica tion for the World Cup, the interest in cricket has grown. Now, a number of schools have started to put cricket in their curriculum, which for me is a big plus and hopefully, we will build on that platform."

Looking up to the West Indies

It is fitting that the first ICC world event that Uganda are featuring in is being cohosted by the West Indies. With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions is not surprising.

"The West Indians are very popular in Uganda because of the way they play their cricket and how exciting they are to watch," Masaba shares.

Nsubuga, who once doted on the Australian brand of cricket, has now taken a liking for the T20 stars from the Caribbean, so much so that he named his son after one. "Ricky Ponting was my idol because at the time he was playing in such a dominating team. I liked him and that's why I took jersey number 14. Right now, I'm following Andre Russell. Before him, was a fan of (Kieron) Pollard. I also named my son after him (laughs), because of the fierce brand of cricket he was playing. I am a big fan of the West Indian brand of cricket."

That brand of cricket is something the Ugandans are keen on replicating on their World Cup debut, Masaba

"Our brand of cricket is to enjoy and have fun in the park. We will run hard, throw ourselves around on the field. We will play with a smile on our faces. We like to win, we like to compete, but we play the game in the right spirit. We like to have a good time. Hopefully, we can show the world what Ugandan cricket has to offer."

PRIYANSH VERMA New Delhi, June 3

THE DIRECTORATE GENERAL of GST Intelligence (DGGI) is set to intensify the scrutiny of suspected tax evasion by pharmaceutical companies. In addition to the notices sent already, the DGGI is likely to ask many more companies to explain what it perceives as under-payment of tax by them in the current year, FE has learnt. The notices could pertain to non-payment of GST on brand transfer sales, claiming fake input tax credit (ITC) on expired drugs and for business support services, and non-payment under the reverse charge mechanism, according to

The combined tax liability that would be mentioned in all these notices is close to ₹1,000 crore, and so far ₹450-500 crore has been paid by the pharmaceutical companies. "The payment so far made has been for notices issued in FY23 and FY24, but many companies have not yet paid. We shall be issuing more such notices this year too," an official said.

The official said that the notices have been sent to all

BITTER PILL ■ Combined tax demands from pharma firms would be around ₹1,000 crore Major companies A common such as Sun Pharma, thread in the Mankind Pharma, notices is the Zydus Healthcare issue of input tax credit reversal for and Cipla served expired drugs notices

major manufacturers such as Sun Pharma, Mankind Pharma, Zydus Healthcare and Cipla. Emails sent to these companies by FE didn't elicit any response.

A common thread in the notices is the issue of input tax credit reversal for expired drugs, said Siddharth Surana, Director, RSM India. Typically, when medicines are dispatched to stockists, they come with an expiry date. If the stockists fail to sell these medicines before they expire, they return them to the pharma companies, which then write off these products in their books.

"The GST authorities argue

that in cases where drugs are written off, the input tax credit on the raw materials used to manufacture these

drugs should be reversed,"

explained Surana. Sources say that the companies are separately analysing the legality of such notices, and have made representations to the government to clarify their position.In case, pharmaceutical companies do not comply with the GST demands from lower-level authorities, they are likely to face legal actions, including fines and penalties, said sources.

Ankur Gupta, practice

leader-indirect tax at SW India, said that legal proceedings will allow the companies to present their arguments and evidence to substantiate that their expenses and transactions are legitimate and necessary for their business.

Gupta explains that the companies argue that promotional activities and related expenses (or business support services) are essential for business operations and market expansion, thus qualifying for ITC, but the GST authorities may view these transactions differently,"focusing on the letter of the law rather than the business context".

Jignesh Ghelani, Partner at Economic Laws Practice says that typically, sales and promotion expenses are incurred in the course of furtherance of business and ITC is eligible. Disallowance of ITC in the present case (for pharmaceutical companies) is largely on the premise that the expenses incurred are not in accordance with the Indian Medical Council Regulations and the recently published Uniform Code for Pharmaceutical Marketing Practices, 2024, he said.

TAJ EXPRESS CATCHES FIRE

Three coaches of the Jhansibound Taj Express train caught fire in southeast Delhi's Sarita Vihar on Monday. No one was injured in the incident as passengers managed to get out of the affected coaches in time, officials said. The cause of the fire was not known immediately and the railway police are investigating the matter. Coaches D3 and D4 were gutted in the fire, while D2 was partially damaged, the police said, adding they were general chair car coaches.

Meet Uganda, who want to be the new West Indies of T20s

Football-mad nation sees a surge in interest for cricket after qualifying for the T20 World Cup

PRATYUSH RAJ & RAHUL PANDEY June 3

FRANK NSUBUGA SAYS he and his teammates couldn't sleep. "When we returned home, it was like we were dreaming with open eyes,"he

The throwback is to November 2023. Such was the occasion for the Ugandan cricket team, who had managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya - known power centres in African cricket.

But how did they get here? It would be wrong to consider their qualification as a fluke. Not long after they made it to the T20 World Cup, Uganda successfully defended their African T20 Cup title. It's a competition that offers a stage to lesser-known sides in the continent, and of late, Uganda has emerged as a contender to compete at the pinnacle of the sport. But the ticket to the US and the West Indies wasn't earned in a day.

Since 2020, Uganda have won more T20Is than any other nation. But while the quality of opposition they often face may not be too high, there has been a conscious decision to play as many games as possible. In fact, in the past four years, Uganda are only behind India, Pakistan and New Zealand in the number of T20Is played.

"For us, it started three and a half years ago," says skipper Brian Masaba. "During the Covid outbreak, Lawrence Mahatlane became our coach. He drew a roadmap for us that ended

DREAM COME TRUE FOR UGANDA

■ In November 2023, Uganda managed to qualify for their firstever ICC World Cup, pipping the likes of Zimbabwe and Kenya – known power centres in African cricket

With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions in the format, West Indies, is not surprising

with us playing at the 2024 T20 World Cup. He presented it to the board and the players, and we bought into it. After that, it was just about being very sincere about everything we did, the number of games we played, our practice sessions...all conversations were about having a chance of featuring at the T20 World Cup."

Masaba offers an insight into the country's cricketing system, and how players are chosen for the national team. "We have a club structure. But this particular group of players were picked from a larger squad. You can call it sort of a high-performance programme that was put in place once the roadmap was drawn. Over the last four years, the Uganda Cricket Association has managed to give contracts to 25 players."

Among the 25 is Nsubuga, a Uganda cricket veteran, who will become one of the oldest players to play the T20 World Cup. The 43-year-old, who made his debut for the national team in 1996, remembers very different times when he had started out.

"When I was young, cricket wasn't so easy. We used to struggle with a lot of things like equipment and had to manage most things ourselves, even on tours. Now things have changed. At least on every ICC tour, it is all paid for. We have sponsors. Nowadays, you just have to focus on working hard to be picked by the selectors," Nsubuga

But it's not just about taking care of the sport at the top. Masaba points to a more foundational change taking place in Uganda, that is likely to have a positive impact on cricket in the long run. "Football is huge in Uganda. Not only in Uganda, in Africa generally. It's very difficult for cricket to compete with football because historically Uganda has always been a footballing nation and football is much easier to spread as it's way more cost-effective. But with this qualification for the World Cup, the interest in cricket has grown. Now, a number of schools have started to put cricket in their curriculum, which for me is a big plus and hopefully, we will build on that platform."

Looking up to the West Indies

It is fitting that the first ICC world event that Uganda are featuring in is being cohosted by the West Indies. With T20 being the format to open the doors for Uganda to a World Cup, their affinity towards the two-time world champions is not surprising.

"The West Indians are very popular in Uganda because of the way they play their cricket and how exciting they are to watch," Masaba shares.

Nsubuga, who once doted on the Australian brand of cricket, has now taken a liking for the T20 stars from the Caribbean, so much so that he named his son after one. "Ricky Ponting was my idol because at the time he was playing in such a dominating team. I liked him and that's why I took jersey number 14. Right now, I'm following Andre Russell. Before him, I was a fan of (Kieron) Pollard. I also named my son after him (laughs), because of the fierce brand of cricket he was playing. I am a big fan of the West Indian brand of cricket."

That brand of cricket is something the Ugandans are keen on replicating on their World Cup debut, Masaba

"Our brand of cricket is to enjoy and have fun in the park. We will run hard, throw ourselves around on the field. We will play with a smile on our faces. We like to win, we like to compete, but we play the game in the right spirit. We like to have a good time. Hopefully, we can show the world what Ugandan cricket has to offer."
