

Music in streaming series hits the right note

OTT shows, film scores bring in a new sliver of revenues and some questions

VANITA KOHLI-KHANDEKAR
Pune, 13 October

Indians first saw streaming video on YouTube in 2008. Disney+ Hotstar arrived in 2015. However, streaming shows and films truly took off only after the entry of Netflix and Amazon Prime Video in 2016. From almost nothing, the market has grown to ₹31,000 crore in advertising and pay revenue by 2023. Currently, over 524 million Indians watch streaming video, according to Comscore data. This growth is creating several opportunities and raising some challenging questions for other parts of the entertainment ecosystem.

For instance, how should the music within a streaming show or film be treated?

Sanjay Leela Bhansali's Heeramandi — The Diamond Bazaar, an eight-episode series about courtesans in pre-partition India, landed on Netflix in May this year. It hit the top 10 in 43 countries, including the US, UK, Germany, and Australia. Its music, however, posed a challenge.

Most labels were hesitant to pay the (reportedly steep) asking price for its classically inclined nine songs. It was, after all, a streaming show and not the full-length theatrical extravaganza Bhansali is known for, says the head of one music company. "There is a belief that series music doesn't work," adds Prerna Singh, chief executive officer (CEO), Bhansali Productions. That is when Bhansali, who had also composed the music, went ahead and launched his own label.

By September, Heeramandi's songs had been streamed (listened to) over 200 million times, says Singh.

Intiaz Ali's Amar Singh Chamkila, a Netflix film, features the original songs that Chamkila — known as the Elvis of Punjab — wrote, composed, and sang before being assassinated in 1988 at the age of 27. Many of these songs are owned by Saregama. There are also six (superb) new songs written by Irshad Kamil and set to music by A R Rahman. Saregama came in as co-producer and therefore holds the rights to these songs as well.

"Ownership of IP (intellectual property) for shows and music on Netflix varies based on the content strategy for each title. For instance, with Qala, we owned the music but collaborated with Sony (Music) for distribution to leverage the label's reach, while for Mismatched or Class, we retained complete ownership, managing everything from release to revenue collection," says Monika Shergill, vice president, content, Netflix.

Roughly 70 per cent of all music heard and sold in India comes from films — songs are integral to our storytelling.

The Indian entertainment ecosystem is geared to handle this new beast. "This is not true for developed markets. Simon Dyson, senior principal analyst, music and digital audio at UK-based Omdia, says he never heard of theme music for films

(Top) A still from Sanjay Leela Bhansali's Heeramandi, which was released in May this year. Its songs had been streamed over 200 million times by September. (Left) A still from Intiaz Ali's Amar Singh Chamkila, Saregama holds the rights to most of its songs becoming a big success, except perhaps for James Bond.

"The use of songs on TV (meaning on the small screen) has become big with OTT," he says. He points to British singer Kate Bush, now 66. Her 1985 hit Running up that Hill gained new life when Netflix used it in an episode of the fourth season of its global chart-topper Stranger Things. That is the opportunity part.

"Very often, when you see or hear a track on a popular TV show or film, the streams go up," says Dyson. The 16 numbers for SonyLIV's hit show Scam 1992 achieved 1.37 million streams on Spotify alone, mostly for its pulsating theme song. Amazon Prime Video's Four More Shots Please featured youth sensation Darshan Raval, whose song for the show garnered 34 million streams to date.

Except for Heeramandi, across this piece, streams on Spotify have been used as an indicative metric here since there is no Billboard-style ranking across music apps.

Within two weeks of Squid Game's debut on Netflix in 2021, Spotify listeners had created more than 22,500 unique themed playlists to keep the experience of the show going. This led to the creation of the Netflix Hub on Spotify, now available in 17 countries, including the US, Germany, and India. In April 2022, Spotify also launched a personalised playlist called Web Series Hits.

There's also the exposure to global markets and talent that over-the-top (OTT) platforms bring. Netflix organises workshops and training programmes to upskill talent. "In 2022, we launched a music supervision workshop with Berklee College of Music, and last year collaborated with Academy Award-winning music editor John Warhurst. This year, we're expanding to Chennai with our first South India music workshop," says Shergill.

"Though the frequency of music from OTT is rising, it is not yet comparable to films in scale," says Mudgil. "If a hit song is associated with a top film, it could achieve between 200-500 million streams and, over time, a billion streams," says Mandar Thakur, CEO, Times Music.

The songs for both seasons of Mismatched, one of the bigger musical hits on OTT, streamed between 70-133 million times on Spotify alone. On the other hand, a small movie like Laapata Ladies, now India's entry to the Oscars, achieved over 151 million streams.

Most analysts believe this opportunity could bring in 5-10 per cent of the Indian music industry's ₹2,400 crore revenue in the future. "It is a 5 per cent that could be the difference between growth and de-growth," says Dyson.

PRIME MINISTER INTERNSHIP SCHEME

Over 155,000 apply within a day

Shortlist of candidates identified by AI to be shared with firms on Oct 15

RUCHIKA CHITRAVANSHI
New Delhi, 13 October

Over 155,000 candidates registered for about 91,000 opportunities on an internship portal since it was opened for applicants on Saturday evening, according to sources in the Ministry of Corporate Affairs.

A shortlist using artificial intelligence would be prepared to identify eligible candidates and match them to the suitable internship opportunity. The shortlist would be shared with the companies on October 15.

This is part of the pilot for the Prime Minister internship scheme launched on October 3. The actual internship would start from December 2. The scheme was announced by Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman as part of the government job-push agenda in her budget speech on July 23.

The scheme would target providing 125,000 internship opportunities to youth aged 21 to 24 in FY 2024-25 with a budget of ₹800 crore.

Government aims to skill one million youth in India's top companies in five years through the internship scheme. The youth will gain exposure for 12 months to real-life business environment, varied professions and employment opportunities.

The internship opportunities have been posted by 193 companies, including by major private sector players such as Jubilant Foodworks, Maruti Suzuki India, Eicher Motor, Larsen & Toubro, Muthoot Finance, and Reliance Industries, among others.

These are spread across 24 sectors, with the greatest share available in the oil, gas and energy sector, followed by travel and hospitality, automobiles, banking and financial services among others.

The eligibility criteria for internship candidates requires them to have passed High School, Higher Secondary School, possess a certificate from an Industrial Training Institute, hold a diploma from a Polytechnic Institute or have a graduate degree. The persons should also be Indian nationals, who are not fully employed and engaged in full-time education. Those enrolled in online or distance learning programmes are eligible to apply.

Candidates would be able to browse internships based on their preferred sectors, roles, and locations, and apply for up to five opportunities.

The MCA would provide direct benefit transfer of ₹6,000 to the intern on joining and a cover under the PM Jeevan Jyoti Bima and PM Surakha Yojana. Financial assistance of ₹5,000 per month would also be provided to the intern, of which ₹4,500 would be disbursed by the government and ₹500 would be paid by the company from its CSR funds.

The shortlisting would include weeding out those who are ineligible to apply such as chartered accountants, certified management accountants, those with degrees from Indian Institute of Technology (IIT) or Indian Institute of Management (IIM).

If any member of the applicant's family has income exceeding ₹8 lakh for FY 2023-24, or is a government employee, it would deem them ineligible.

Vendor in Somalia, account in Dubai: ISA traces cybercrime incidents

SHREYA JAI
New Delhi, 13 October

In two incidents of cybercrime in a month, India's first global outreach body International Solar Alliance (ISA) has claimed to have lost ₹3 crore when a payment to its Somalia-based vendor was found to be diverted to an imposter account, prompting the organisation to file a police complaint and issue show-cause notice to a section of its staff suspected to be involved in the incident.

The ISA has acknowledged the incident, which occurred in September, in a letter to Union Minister for New and Renewable Energy (MNRE) Pralhad Joshi, who also heads the organisation currently.

"The cyber attacker changed the details of the banks of our international vendors and sent invoices for payments (which had to be made to our vendors) to be paid to the fraudulent bank accounts. The hacker replaced original emails and planted fraudulent emails with a request letter and invoices to be paid to fraudulent bank accounts," the letter by ISA Director General Ajay Mathur to the minister said.

The organisation said that the payment was intended for Somalia-based vendors of ISA which engage in the outreach and infrastructure building activities of the organisation in the region, it said.

"We made payments of $357,783 (₹3 crore) in good faith, but because of the forgery and cheating, there is now a possibility of disputes with the vendors/banks of the same amount," the letter stated.

Business Standard has reviewed a copy of the letter. A questionnaire emailed to ISA and text message to Mathur remained unanswered till the time of going to print.

This is the second instance of cybercrime faced by the organisation during the last month. The first incident concerned a German vendor, ISA said.

In its letter, ISA said they first noticed a security breach on September 19 and on September 23, their Somalian vendor Hayle Barise Energy Solutions informed them that they have not received any payment.

"On further investigation, it was found that we paid the amount based on a fraudulent email changing the bank account to one in Dubai," the letter said, adding that during the same period, account details of another vendor RENAC AG in Germany were also changed to a fraudulent one.

The letter said that ISA has filed a police complaint, issued show cause notice to a section of its staff suspected to be involved in the incident, and has started corrective steps and awareness programmes.

During the launch of ISA, Prime Minister Narendra Modi touted ISA to become an OPEC-like global body for clean energy. The ISA currently has 120 signatory countries and 101 member countries. The ISA Framework Agreement aims to mobilise $1,000 billion investment in solar energy and deliver 1000 Gw of solar power capacity to 1 billion people by 2030.

ISA has said in the past they have opened an opportunity of 9.5 Gw for private investors in countries such as Mali, Cuba, Venezuela, Prague, Uganda, and Ethiopia among others. Most African nations are part of the ISA network. It is also the nodal body for the One Sun One World and One Grid initiative announced by the Prime Minister which will connect solar power rich nations through a common power transmission network.
