PAC to Look into Allegations against Sebi Chief

Buch likely to be summoned this month; matter added to PAC's agenda after members demanded an inquiry into functioning of regulatory body

Anuradha Shukla

New Delhi: The parliamentary Public Accounts Committee (PAC) is set to look into allegations against Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) chief Madhabi Puri Buch and may summon her later this month, said people with knowledge of the matter.

The matter was added to the PAC's agenda after several members demanded an inquiry into the functioning of Sebi and allegations against Buch at the panel's first meeting on August 29. The PAC is headed by Congress leader KC Venugopal and has members from both the ruling NDA and the opposition INDIA bloc.

The agenda item doesn't specify the regulator or name the chief. It's listed as "Performance review of regulatory bodies established by act of parliament." However, officials said it stemmed from the recent allegations against the Sebi chief. "The matter was added on suo moto basis in the August 29 meeting as many members were concerned about the serious allegations against the capital market regulator and the Sebi chief," said one of the persons. "The concerned ministry officials may be summoned this month."

Buch has been accused of conflict of interest over Sebi's investigation into the Hindenburg Research allegations against the Adani Group

Buch has been accused of conflict of interest over Sebi's investigation into the Hindenburg Research allegations against the Adani Group. The opposition Congress party has questioned payments made to Buch made by ICICI Bank, her former employer. Zee founder Subhash Chandra has accused her of corrupt practices. And, employees made a written complaint to the finance ministry about a "toxic work culture" at the regulator.

The regulator's chairperson has denied wrongdoing, as has ICICI Bank. Sebi has refuted claims made by the employees and said "external elements" were behind their protests. The market regulator said in a statement that complaints of "public humiliation" at the workplace were "misplaced." That prompted a public protest Thursday by Sebi staff outside its Mumbai headquarters, demanding Buch's resignation.

Madhabi Puri Buch

The Congress party had said Buch held an office of profit at ICICI Bank and received income despite drawing a salary from Sebi. Opposition parties have demanded an independent inquiry into the matter, saying that it's in the national interest as foreign investors were getting concerned and there were doubts about the integrity of India's stock markets.

The PAC will hold its next meeting on September 10 but this will be limited to the audit review of the Jal Jeevan Mission. Further meetings will be scheduled later this month, said the people cited above.

Officials of the finance and corporate affairs ministry have been told that they may need to appear before the PAC this month, said the people cited. While the PAC applies itself to issues related to government revenue and expenditure as well as the performance of state-run entities, it can take up matters concerning public finance if several members ask for it.

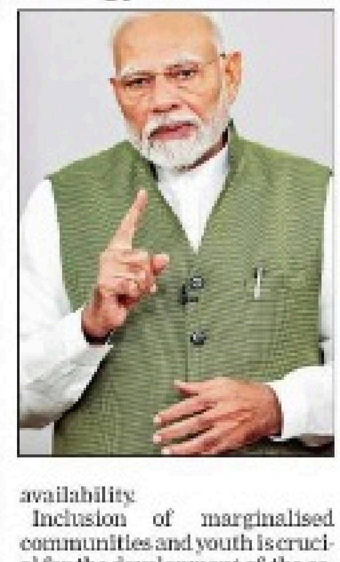
In the past, the PAC has summoned former Reserve Bank of India (RBI) governor Urjit Patel and finance ministry officials following 2016's demonetisation.

TO HELP DEVELOPING COUNTRIES...

PM Calls for Need to Democratise Solar Mfg, Tech

Says world must address the imbalance in concentration of green energy investments

Our Bureau



New Delhi: The world must democratise solar manufacturing and technology and collectively address the imbalance in concentration of green energy investments to ensure energy transition and help developing countries, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said on Thursday.

Empowering the least developed countries and small island developing states should be a top priority, and inclusion of marginalised communities, women and youth is crucial to ensure a sustainable future, Modi said in a video address to the International Solar Festival being held here by International Solar Alliance (ISA).

As one of the founders of the ISA, India is committed to working with the world for a green, inclusive future, he said.

"ISA began as a small sapling, and today it stands as a giant tree, inspiring global policy and action. With over 100 member countries, ISA is leading the world toward a future powered by the sun," the prime minister said.

India's solar energy capacity has increased 32-fold in the last 10 years and the speed and scale will help the country achieve the target of 500 GW non-fossil fuel energy capacity by 2030, he said.

The mantra to increase solar adoption is awareness, availability and affordability, Modi said, adding that increased awareness about the need of sustainable energy sources by encouraging domestic manufacturing in the solar sector will increase availability.

Inclusion of marginalised communities and youth is crucial for the development of the solar ecosystem, he said.

Invoking Vedas to highlight the importance of solar energy, Modi said, "The Vedas were composed thousands of years ago. One of the most popular mantras of the Vedas is about the sun. Even today, millions of Indians chant it daily."

Many cultures across the world have revered the sun in their ways. Most regions also have festivals related to the sun, he added.

Pralhad Joshi, new and renewable energy minister and president of the ISA Assembly, said India is committed to supporting the global community, particularly the Global South, in advancing an inclusive and sustainable future, drawing on its proven success in clean energy initiatives.

'Singapore Plans to Invest Huge Amount in India'

New Delhi: Singapore has already invested about $150 billion in India and is ready to invest five times that amount in the coming years, commerce and industry minister Piyush Goyal said Thursday.

At the All India Industries and Commerce Ministers conference, he also said that India and the European Free Trade Association (EFTA) have signed a free trade agreement under which New Delhi has received an investment commitment of $100 billion over the next 15 years and these investments will come in states and they have to take advantage of this. EFTA includes Iceland, Liechtenstein, Norway and Switzerland.

On Wednesday, the Swiss Federal Council adopted a dispatch on the free-trade agreement between the EFTA states and India, the Swiss government said in a statement.

The Federal Council, which is the Swiss federal cabinet, is the highest executive authority in the country. The Swiss Parliament is expected to debate the dispatch in the upcoming winter or spring sessions. "Today the world wants to invest in India. Everybody wants to come to India. Singapore has already invested about $150 billion in India. They are ready to invest probably five times that amount in the coming years," Goyal said.

He said that states to change their mindset, reduce compliance burden and decriminalise laws, and provide real red carpet to attract these investments. "All investors are looking at India...the Centre is there to support you. We do not discriminate between states...we are setting up 12 industrial townships," Goyal said.

BOARD OF TRADE MEET

The Board of Trade meeting to be chaired by Goyal is likely to be held on September 13 in Mumbai. Headed by the minister, the board includes participants from various states, union territories, and senior officials from the public and private sectors. —Our Bureau

Goyal Favours Border Adjustment Tax to Protect Steel Cos, Ready for Talks

Asks industry to target 500 million tonnes of steel production in next 10 years

Our Bureau

New Delhi: Commerce and industry minister Piyush Goyal on Thursday offered to hold discussions with four-five top steel industry leaders on the border adjustment tax, responding to the sector's call for protection from imports at predatory prices from India's free trade agreement (FTA) partners.

"I think there's another very important subject that I have made a lot of effort on in the past but sadly could not succeed. Let's make one more effort. On the border adjustment tax, electricity duty, iron ore duties, when you are exporting steel, we are loaded with these taxes," he said at an event organised by the Indian Steel Association (ISA).

The minister said the government has been unable to pass on the benefits of the Remission of Duties and Taxes on Exported Products (RoDTEP) to the sector because of shortage of funds.

He said the imported steel which comes into India is not subject to all these taxes.

"Border adjustment tax is a WTO (World Trade Organization) compliant mechanism, which, if all the industries – CII, FICCI, Assocham – everyone take out, we may be in a position to get traction and get it also into the country," Goyal said.

"Imports, even from free trade agreement countries… will be loaded with the similar electricity duty, coal cess, any additional state levies or taxes that you're not getting remitted, which are not being charged in other countries, can be adjusted through a border adjustment tax. So, let four-five of us sit down, then talk to CII, FICCI, and take this dialogue forward," he said.

His comments came in response to concerns expressed by ISA president Navin Jindal. "China has set up capacities in these countries meant to export to India and is exporting into India at huge losses and that is damaging the Indian steel industry," Jindal said.

Goyal also asked the industry to target 500 million tonnes of steel production in the next 10 years, up from the industry's target of 300 million tonnes by 2030.

The minister suggested that the industry find newer and better ways to lower carbon emissions, promote high productivity and quality steel in the country and focus on sustainable manufacturing.

"Let's try and utilise AI (artificial intelligence) to optimise our production, reduce waste, improve efficiency across the value chain, work towards a circular economy in a bigger way," Goyal said.

Noting that almost 80% steel products today have the made in India stamp, Goyal said that it is a signal of atmanirbharta (self-reliance) and a reminder that consuming steel melted and poured in India is reflective of our nationality.

PREFERENCE, INQUIRY

The minister said that South Korea and Japan consume steel made by their own steel plants, and give them preference, even at times at a higher cost, "whereas sadly many friends in our industry don't have a similar approach".

The Directorate General of Trade Remedies, he said, has initiated an enquiry into the surge of steel imports from Vietnam.

"I can assure you that we are with you whatever it takes to get the steel industry rocking, helping India grow, adding new jobs to the India growth story, and in the long run, becoming provider of steel, not only to India, its infrastructure demands, auto sector and industry, but becoming a provider of steel to the world," Goyal said.

The minister assured the industry that the government is always available to make their life simpler and easier if doing business through the National Single Window Clearance and to safeguard their interest from unfair practices of other countries and how the country can have a win-win situation in FTAs.

14th Task Force Report on Green Steel Next Week

Our Bureau

New Delhi: India will unveil a comprehensive decarbonisation strategy for its steel sector next week, said Sandeep Poundrik, secretary at the Ministry of Steel.

"...we will release the 14th Task Force report on green steel," he said on Thursday, speaking at the 5th ISA Steel Conclave.

The government constituted the 14th task force on "Use of Biochar and Other Relevant Products in Steel Making" in December last year to find ways to reduce carbon emissions in the steel industry.

Biochar is a carbon-rich solid made from organic waste and heated at temperatures around 300-700 C. Steel production uses fossil fuels to generate heat for melting iron ore and as a reducing agent. Biochar can be blended with traditional fossil fuels, effectively bringing down the amount of fossil-fuel-based raw materials used for steel production.

This task force supplements the 13 task forces formed for decarbonising the sector across various aspects, including raw materials, technology, and policy frameworks. Poundrik also underscored the need to produce more speciality steel domestically and while the Production Linked Incentive (PLI) scheme for speciality steel has incentivised domestic manufacturers to make speciality steel, more needs to be done. "There has been some uptake of the PLI scheme though not to the extent it was expected," said Poundrik.

Further, the steel secretary also said that the industry needs to improve its competitiveness by investing in technology and AI. Poundrik exhorted the steel industry to "focus on technology advancement, including AI to reduce the cost and improve efficiency."

Exporters Compile Traceability Proofs of Land to Comply with EU Regulation

Kirtika Suneja

New Delhi: Indian exporters are putting together traceability proofs such as geolocation coordinates of plots of land and details of their entire supply chain as they gear up to comply with the European Union's new regulation on deforestation.

The EU Deforestation Regulation (EUDR) requires firms to ensure that products exported to the EU have been grown on land which has not been deforested after December 31, 2020.

The regulation has implications for India's coffee, cocoa, soya, wood products, rubber and its products and leather goods exports. It prescribes fines up to 4% of a firm's annual turnover in the EU and confiscation of products and revenues gained from a transaction for non-compliance.

As part of the process, exporters are putting together traceability proofs for land and establishments associated with raising cattle, details of the entire supply chain, forest-related rules and land use information for the last five years to ensure smooth transition and continued market access.

"We have been working on the traceability software on sourcing hides and it should be ready by December. We have been preparing for almost a year," said Rafeeque Ahmed, chairman of Farida Group, one of India's largest shoe manufacturers and exporters, adding that the estimate of the additional costs of compliance would become clear in sometime.

The EUDR, which aims to curb international deforestation by imposing strict compliance requirements on goods imported into the bloc, is expected to hit India's agricultural exports worth $1.3 billion, according to think-tank Global Trade Research Initiative (GTRI).

As per the regulation, operators in third countries, including smallholders, could face costs to develop or implement systems to allow EU operators to comply with the new requirements, where they do not already have systems in place.

EV Subsidies No Longer Needed, says Gadkari

Our Bureau

New Delhi: Road transport and highway minister Nitin Gadkari on Thursday said there is no need to provide subsidies to electric vehicle makers as cost of production has come down and consumers are now opting for electric vehicles (EVs) or CNG vehicles on their own.

Speaking at an event, Gadkari said initially costs of manufacturing electric vehicles were high, but as demand has increased, production costs have dropped, making further subsidies unnecessary.

"Consumers are now choosing electric and compressed natural gas (CNG) vehicles on their own and I do not think we need to provide much subsidy for electric vehicles," the minister said, pointing out the lower rate of GST on electric vehicles (5%) compared to petrol and diesel vehicles (28%). "In my opinion, manufacturing of electric vehicles no longer needs to be subsidised by the government," he said, adding the demand for subsidies isn't justified anymore.
