LIC's refusal to assign policies to ACESO may be contempt of court, says founder

AATHIRA VARIER
Mumbai, 14 August

State-owned Life Insurance Corporation's (LIC's) refusal to assign policies to ACESO may tantamount to contempt of court, said Ketan Mehta, director & founder, ACESO, citing a 2015 Supreme Court judgement, allowed transfer and assignment of LIC's policies in accordance with the provisions of the Insurance Act, 1938.

The Supreme Court of India in 2015 upheld the judgement by the division bench of Bombay High Court saying insurance policies issued by LIC "are transferable and assignable in accordance with the provisions of the Insurance Act, 1938 and in terms of the contract of life insurance."

Established in 2018, ACESO monetises the assets of policy holders of LIC to ensure maximum financial benefits, especially in cases where the policies are surrendered or lapsed.

SC VERDICT ON MINING ROYALTY

Metal majors hint at limited impact

AMRITHA PILLAY & ISHITA AYAN DUTT
Mumbai/Kolkata, 14 August

Even though Wednesday's Supreme Court (SC) order could result in a ₹1.5-2 trillion impact on the mining industry, executives from leading companies noted that the impact might be limited due to existing provisions.

Going forward, these companies will await further details and state actions before pursuing litigation, they added.

The recent SC order mandating the collection of dues retrospectively is expected to deal a further blow to the Indian mining industry. Arrears could exceed ₹1.5-2 trillion, with mines in states like Odisha and Jharkhand being the most affected, according to a spokesperson for the Federation of Indian Mineral Industries. Both industry executives and analysts agree that Odisha will be the key state to watch.

In a regulatory filing, Tata Steel on Wednesday said it is studying the SC judgment of July 25, 2024, along with the order pronounced. "Financial impact, if any, on the company will be disclosed in due course."

On July 31, the steel producer had disclosed a contingent liability of ₹17,347 crore in its financial statements for the quarter ending June 2024 related to potential claims by the Odisha government.

Other companies in the steel value chain, such as Steel Authority of India and NMDC, are expected to see an impact of an estimated ₹4,600 crore and ₹6,200 crore, respectively, related to iron ore mining, according to analysts from Prabhudas Lilladher.

In Wednesday's trading, the Nifty Metal fell by 1.3 per cent, with companies such as NMDC, Hindustan Copper, and National Aluminium Company among the top losers.

While Tata Steel said it is examining the SC order, others such as Vedanta, Hindalco Industries, and Hindustan Zinc (HZL) do not expect a major hit.

Senior executives from Hindalco, during a post-earnings call on Tuesday, noted that the company does not face any retrospective exposure. The spokespersons concerned were unavailable for updated comments.

Arun Misra, chief executive officer (CEO) and whole-time director of HZL, said on Wednesday, "There is no material impact due to the retrospective effect of this judgment on the company."

Its parent company, India-listed Vedanta also confirmed it has no pending claims. "We can confirm that we have no material demands raised upon any of our businesses at this time," said a spokesperson for the company. Vedanta added, "If and when any such demands arise, Vedanta will consider all regulatory and legal remedial measures on a case-by-case basis."

Tata Steel executives have expressed a similar stance in previous interviews.

In a post-results interview with Business Standard, T V Narendran, managing director and CEO of Tata Steel, said, "Once we have the full judgment (of the SC order), we will need to review all aspects and then contest it," he added.

"This ruling could also impact cement companies and may contribute to rising inflation, which, in turn, could delay potential rate cuts," said Vikram Kasat, head of advisory at Prabhudas Lilladher Capital.

Senior executives from the cement industry remain hopeful that states will adopt a measured approach.

Digital payments risk to op stability, needing more IT funding: RBI dy gov

SUBRATA PANDA
Mumbai, 14 August

While widespread adoption of digital payments has facilitated rapid, low-cost transactions and easy withdrawals through banking and mobile apps, it has also heightened risks to operational stability, requiring continuous investments in IT systems and technology to handle peak loads effectively, said Swaminathan J, deputy governor, Reserve Bank of India (RBI), on Wednesday.

Speaking at the conference of the International Association of Deposit Insurers, the deputy governor highlighted that the 24/7 availability of online and mobile banking can increase vulnerabilities, potentially accelerating bank runs and liquidity crises during periods of stress, as customers may withdraw funds even outside of traditional banking hours and without having to visit a bank branch.

Further, these activities are amplified by the emergence of digital sources of influence, such as social media platforms, that have proved their ability to drive, disseminate financial information, adverse or otherwise, and trigger coordinated financial behaviour, he added.

Interestingly, the RBI last month proposed to tighten norms related to the liquidity coverage ratio (LCR) by increasing the run-off factor for retail deposits in view of the rising number of mobile and internet banking users.

The regulator has proposed to impose an additional run-off factor of 5 per cent on both stable and less stable retail deposits that are enabled with internet and mobile banking facilities. Run-offs are when individuals or businesses withdraw their deposits, which are not anticipated by banks. The RBI had highlighted that while increased use of technology has facilitated the ability to make instantaneous bank transfers and withdrawals, it has also led to a concomitant increase in risks, requiring proactive management.

According to Swaminathan, there are four key facets of technology risks — cybersecurity risks, digital payments, dependence on third parties, and fintech and entry of entities outside the regulatory and supervisory envelope.

GROWING WEB OF INTERDEPENDENCY MEANS THAT A DISRUPTION IN ONE AREA CAN RAPIDLY PROPAGATE THROUGH THE SYSTEM, AFFECTING NUMEROUS ENTITIES SIMULTANEOUSLY

Swaminathan J
Deputy Governor, Reserve Bank of India

they are equipped to address and mitigate the fast evolving risks introduced by technological advancements. Also, they need to regularly assess their capability and effectiveness in accessing contingency funding within specified timeframes, depending on the type of funding needs.

The deputy governor highlighted that technology-induced risks in the financial sector requires close attention since it is a global risk that threatens the entire financial system across the world, as digital and online technology blur the boundaries between nations, industries and make the world into one entity.

"This growing web of interdependencies means that a disruption in one area can rapidly propagate through the system, affecting numerous entities and jurisdictions simultaneously. Therefore, understanding the full scope of these interconnections has become essential for managing systemic risk," he said.

According to Swaminathan, there are four key facets of technology risks — cybersecurity risks, digital payments, dependence on third parties, and fintech and entry of entities outside the regulatory and supervisory envelope.

MCA launches probe into Snapdeal operator

ARYAMAN GUPTA
New Delhi, 14 August

The Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA) has launched a probe into the AceVector Group for alleged non-compliance with the Companies Act. The company operates brands like e-commerce marketplace Snapdeal, recently-listed Unicomm, and Stellaro Brands.

The probe is part of a larger investigation by the MCA into around 700 companies that have received investments from Chinese firms. An AceVector spokesperson confirmed the development to Business Standard.

"AceVector Ltd received a request for information from MCA in May 2024. The company has furnished relevant information and remains committed to addressing further queries in accordance with the law and in line with its high standard of governance. AceVector has no Chinese investor in the company," the spokesperson said.

Acevector has raised a cumulative funding of $1.5 billion across 10 rounds since being founded in 2007. The firm's backers include Softbank and Nexus Venture Partners, according to data from market intelligence platform Tracxn.
