Specialty Chemicals - an era of sustained robust growth

Short-term growth to remain subdued...

- Demand headwinds from export markets, China's rising supplies and inventory destocking have impacted margins & profitability of Indian players
- Expectations of sluggish global growth, oversupplied industry situation and ongoing conflict in the Red Sea likely to impact margin recovery in H1 FY25
- Any sustained improvement in profitability would likely be driven by a rebound in demand from China and permanent capacity closures to help ease oversupply conditions, probably in H1 FY25

...yet long-term structural growth story to remain intact

- India is expected to become a $1,000 Bn chemicals market by 2040, currently constituting 3.6% share of the global chemical market
- India's market share in Specialty Chemical to increase at a CAGR of 11% to US$ 64 billion by 2026 against 5.7% globally.
- India has cost advantage in production of Iso-Butyl Benzene (IBB) compared to China (15% lower) and Germany (35% lower) commanding two-third of the global market
