Sunak sets July 4 election date

REUTERS
London, May 22

BRITISH PRIME MINISTER Rishi Sunak has called a national election, naming July 4 as the date for a vote his governing Conservatives are widely expected to lose to the opposition Labour Party after 14 years in power.

Ending months of speculation as to when he would call a new poll, Sunak, 44, stood outside his Downing Street office and announced he was calling the election earlier than some had expected, a risky strategy with his party behind in the polls. "Now is the moment for Britain to choose its future," he said.

British Prime Minister Rishi Sunak's governing Conservatives are widely expected to lose to the opposition Labour Party after 14 years in power

Sunak heads into the election not only far behind the Labour

Party in the polls but also somewhat isolated from some in his party, increasingly dependent on a small team of advisers to steer him through what is set to be an ugly campaign.
