'May Receive Almost Entire Dues'

The PWC-supported resolution professional, Sumit Binani, has admitted ₹29,330 crore in claims from financial creditors for the thermal power company, which operates three units of 600 MW each.
For the Adani Group, the actual outgo as per the plan is ₹12,500 crore. This works out to a ₹7-crore bid per MW—the highest offered for any distressed thermal power asset so far. During Thursday's meeting with lenders, Binani disclosed the 10 plans, following which banks decided to seek improved offers from all bidders and subsequently hold an auction among them, people cited above said.
"There is a likelihood that lenders could receive nearly their entire dues after an auction among bidders," one lender said.
Adani Group had shown interest in acquiring KSK Mahanadi even before it was admitted for insolvency in October 2019. Late 2018, it had offered ₹10,300 crore, but backed out in February 2019 after the Uttar Pradesh government revised tariffs downward, a banker cited above said. The debt resolution of KSK Mahanadi, admitted into the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) five years ago, is delayed due to a series of litigations. Lending patience, a dozen lenders with about ₹16,165 crore of verified claims in total, separately sold their debts to various asset reconstruction companies (ARC).

As many as six ARCs jointly control 54.4% of verified claims after acquiring loans from multiple banks. Among the lenders, State Bank of India, Life Insurance Corporation, Axis Bank, Punjab National Bank, Bank of Baroda, Indian Overseas Bank, Union Bank of India, Jammu and Kashmir Bank, Indian Bank, Federal Bank, Central Bank of India and L&T Finance sold their loans. Among the ARCs, Aditya Birla ARC has the largest share, with 33.38% of the debt, followed by ASREC (India) at 12%.
NCLT had stayed the sale process in June 2022 after a plea from a lender to consolidate the resolution of KSK Mahanadi Power and two of its ancillary companies. These are KSK Water Infrastructure, which supplies water to the plant, and Ragarigh Champa Rail, which carries the raw material to the plant.
These companies were separately admitted for corporate insolvency, and lenders wanted a consolidated resolution to maximise recovery, but NCLT rejected the consolidation proposal. Subsequently, lenders appealed against the tribunal's order at the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal, which, too, stayed the process. Binani invited bids after the stay was lifted.

More Indians in Boardrooms

In the world of strategy consulting and Big Four firms, Rajat Gupta at McKinsey, Shumeet Banerji at Booz & Co and Punit Renjen at Deloitte were the first Indians who took top leadership roles at prestigious firms, but there was a lull in between as only a select few Indians were part of top leadership cohorts for a while.
Now, a bunch of Indian consultants are again at high echelons of the firms as Indian partnerships grow in size and firms send a larger number of top Indian talent to different geographies.
'TAKING ON MORE RESPONSIBILITY'
Consulting veteran and Boston Consulting Group India chairman Jamneshwar Sinha said India was the third largest talent pool for BCG. As the number of partners grow and India's growth outpaces the global growth, the proportion of Indian partners as a share of the whole is set to grow, he said. "This should just obviously lead to more Indian top leaders being available for taking on more roles of responsibility in the firm," Sinha said.
"This is also a trend you can see in so many US firms where Indians are in leadership positions," Deloitte South Asia chief executive Romal Shetty said: "Now with technology becoming an important part of the consulting service mix, I expect more Indians in the boardrooms of consulting firms, given our expertise and experience in technology and tech-led innovation."

Take top strategy firm McKinsey, for example; it has always had a strong global leadership pipeline from India, and this continues with consultants such as Sajal Kohli, the global leader of consumer goods and retail based in Chicago; Ishaan Seth, the global co-lead of banking and securities practice in New York; Hemant Ahlawat, the life sciences lead and cofounder of the McKinsey Health Institute in Geneva; Joydeep Sengupta, who leads the McKinsey Center for CEO Excellence in Singapore; and Gautam Kumra, the Asia chairman.
At both Bain & Co and BCG, leaders at the Asia-Pacific levels are from the Indian practice.
Neeraj Aggarwal, chairman Asia Pacific for BCG, is among the top three leaders at the firm globally, while for Bain, Satish Shankar is the Asia Pacific regional managing partner. Under BCG's Aggarwal, the firm has been at a leadership position in strategy consulting in India, Japan, South Korea and Southeast Asia. At BCG, three Indians are currently in the global executive committee—Neeraj Aggarwal, Kanchan Samtani and Pattabi Seshadri.

Just last week, Ram Sarvepalli, the EY EMEA consulting leader who built a robust consulting and tech consulting business for the firm's India practice earlier, was elevated to global consulting deputy vice chair. Under his leadership, EY EMEA consulting revenue grew from $4 billion to $7 billion, and headcount doubled to 60,000, making consulting the largest service line in EY EMEA. A US EY partner who has worked closely with Sarvepalli said, "Truncate is betting on Ram to build a globally aligned consulting business."
EY India chairman Rajiv Memani was the first Indian CEO to join the executive committee of any Big Four firm since the mid-2000s. Memani continues to serve as the chair of the EY Global Emerging Markets Committee. Deloitte, the biggest Big Four firm, also boasts a number of Indian or Indian-origin leaders at top global positions.
Vimi Grewal-Carr is the global chief growth officer and a member of the Deloitte Global Executive committee. The firm's India leader Romal Shetty also sits on the global executive committee along with Ranjit Bawa, the US chief strategy and technology officer. The global AI leader for Deloitte is Nitin Mittal, while the trust ethics leader is Beena Ammanath. Ambar Chowdhury serves as the chief of strategy and transformation officer for Deloitte Consulting LLP. "Indians doing well in Deloitte is a testament to the firm's inclusive culture and outstanding talent," said Shetty.

The firms have also relied on Indian leadership talent during times of crisis in their international practices. For instance, when KPMG was embroiled in a corruption scandal involving the Gupta family and its top leadership was dismissed, the firm flew in Indian partner Mrityunjay Kapur to stabilise the situation, especially its advisory practice. Kapur recently joined EY in India after a four-year stint in South Africa.
Industry veterans say that even now there should be more Indians at the top management positions at consulting firms. "In fact, the combined market cap of Microsoft and Google parent) Alphabet, which are led by Indian CEOs, is $5 trillion, exceeding India's GDP. We have already witnessed a British PM of Indian origin, and there is growing anticipation of similar developments in the US," said a veteran consulting leader.

Fed Moves

The Fed held its key lending rate at a 23-year high on Wednesday but chairman Jerome Powell indicated that it could make its first cut as soon as September. It has for months been looking for confirmation that inflation is well on the way down and that the labour market is softening before cutting rates. It has largely been confident it could achieve a "soft landing"—slowing the economy down without tipping it into recession.
"The situation now shifts from 'if the Fed will cut' to 'by how much will they cut'," said Bret Kenwell, US investment analyst at trading platform eToro. "The labour market is the lifeblood to the US economy and the Fed needs to ensure that they don't risk weakening it too much solely in an effort to bring down inflation," he added.
The US added 114,000 jobs last month, down from June's revised figure of 179,000, while the unemployment rate rose to 4.3%, according to government figures.
It followed news on Thursday that the US factory sector shrank faster than forecast in July—and for the fourth consecutive month.
That came as another report showed the private sector created far fewer jobs than expected in July and many fewer than in June.

Recent Acquisitions

Established in 1978 by Vimal Kedia and Surendra Kedia, Manjushree manufactures jars and bottles, multilayer containers, PET hot-fillable bottles, and pre-forms for use in the food, beverage, pharmaceutical, cosmetic, agricultural chemicals, and allied sectors. It serves about 4,000 clients through its 20 manufacturing facilities across the nation and posted a revenue of ₹2,097 crore in FY23 against ₹1,468 crore in FY22.
With an installed capacity of over 1,90,000 tonnes per annum, Manjushree's has customers like Reckitt Benckiser (India), P&G, ITC, Bisleri Dabur India, Mondelez India Foods, Britannia, Castrol, Hindustan Coca Cola Beverages and PepsiCo India. Over the past few years, Manjushree has diversified its customer base and expanded its presence to various categories of the fast-moving consumer goods packaging industry, like packaging for food and beverages, personal care, home care, liquor and pharmaceuticals.
With the acquisition of Varahi Ltd in fiscal 2017 and National Plastics Industries' facilities in fiscal 2020 in North India, its overall market reach and ability to service diverse clients improved substantially, said a recent Crisil report.
In April 2021, Manjushree acquired business-to-business services of Pearl Polymers, and NAPLA—which has added dispensers and sprays to the product portfolio. The acquisitions helped Manjushree improve its product diversity, add new clients, and supply new products to existing clients, thereby improving the wallet share.
In 2022, Manjushree acquired Classy Containers and Hitesh Plastics. These helped the company expand in the new client segment and product segments such as caps and closures. At present, private equity funds own several of the leading packaging companies in India.
In 2021, Warburg Pincus had acquired about 80% stake in Parksons Packaging, India's largest independent folding carton manufacturer, at a valuation of ₹2,300 crore.
Earlier in 2020, Blackstone had acquired Piramal Glass, the glass packaging business of the diversified Piramal Group, for $1 billion. Presently, Blackstone is engaged in talks for selling a majority stake in the company. Blackstone also owns 51.5% stake in listed packaging company Essel Propack.

Fertile Ground for Cybercriminals

CrowdStrike provides antivirus software to Microsoft, and a faulty software update to the Falcon Sensor agent by the former caused the blue screen of death (BSOD). This affected more than eight million Windows computers. Days after the incident, the phishing domains are still actively pretending to seek feedback on behalf of CrowdStrike, which then gives them backdoor entry into companies' sensitive systems.
"These kinds of black swan events become a fertile ground for cybercriminals because of the sheer scale of impact and the uncertainty surrounding the nature of outage," said Sundareshwar K, partner and leader, cybersecurity, at PwC India. "At times, even trained IT professionals are likely to fall prey in the moment of chaos."
"When facing a ransomware attack, the first step for organisations is to contain the blast radius. The second, of course, is to initiate emergency response plans and restore from backups so business operations can continue," he added.
