Coronavirus deaths in China spike, Hubei has first fatality

Total deaths in China are 1,367.
 The outbreak, believed to have emerged from a market in Wuhan where wildlife was traded illegally, has brought a backlash against local leaders.
 Provincial Communist Party boss Jiang Chaoliang was sacked as secretary of the Hubei Provincial Committee, and Ma Guoqiang removed as party chief in Wuhan city, state media said. They were the two highest-profile officials to be axed since the outbreak began.
 The new provincial chief, former Shanghai mayor Ying Yong, told state media the situation in Hubei remained very severe, but pledged to contain the outbreak.
 Chinese scientists are testing two antiviral drugs and preliminary clinical trial results are weeks away, though WHO chiefs have cautioned a vaccine could take 18 months to develop.
 Global spread
 Hundreds of infections have been reported in more than two dozen other countries and territories.
 Tiny Singapore, an Asian travel hub, also reported its biggest daily jump in the number of confirmed cases, eight newly infected patients bringing its total to 58.
 The biggest cluster outside China is on a cruise ship quarantined off the Japanese port of Yokohama, where a further 44 cases were reported on Thursday, taking the total to 219, though authorities said some elderly people would finally be allowed to disembark on Friday.
 Tens of thousands infected
 About 60,000 people have been infected in total, the vast majority of them in China.
 Consultancy Capital Economics said the surge in deaths did not necessarily point to an acceleration in the spread of
