Centre agrees to pick stake in Vodafone Idea

BREATHING SPACE. Paves way for fresh fundraise by company

Ayushi Kar
Mumbai

The deadlock between Vodafone Idea and the Centre over debt to equity conversion has ended with the latter agreeing to convert dues worth ₹16,000 crore into equity. These are the interest payments on Vodafone Idea's deferred spectrum auction instalments and AGR dues. On Friday, Vodafone Idea informed the exchanges that the Ministry of Communications told the company to convert debt to equity in line with the reforms and support package for the telecom sector brought by the Centre in 2021, to save Vodafone Idea from insolvency.

It was essentially a catch-22 situation wherein Vodafone Idea stated that the investors will invest money into the company only if the government exercises the conversion option. The Centre countered saying that promoters and investors will have to put further capital before Centre converted dues to equity.

Experts said with this move, the beleaguered telecom operator should be able to raise finances to fund its 5G rollout plans.

DIRE SITUATION
The operator was in a dire situation, where interest payments to lenders are about to come up and dues to major tower companies Indus and ATC are also pending. The deadline for the debt-to-equity conversion option would have lapsed on March 31, so the government's ascension on this matter comes in a timely manner, experts said. "The Centre's assistance was necessary for investors to be confident about the going concern of the company," an expert said.

'India not engaged with Taiwan for 5G services rollout'

Press Trust of India
New Delhi

India is not engaged with Taiwan for any help related to the 5G services rollout, Parliament was informed on Friday.

In a written reply to the Rajya Sabha, Minister of State for Commerce and Industry Anupriya Patel said Taiwanese companies are participating in various programmes launched by the government to boost the electronics manufacturing and semiconductor ecosystem in India.

The government facilitates and promotes interactions in areas of trade, investment, tourism, culture, education and other such people-to-people exchanges with Taiwan, she said. "India is not engaged with Taiwan for any help in the areas related to roll out of 5G services," she added.
