2024 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

Biden vows to remain in race despite NATO gaffes

JUSTIN SINK & JOSH WINGROVE July 12

US President Joe Biden during a news conference following the NATO Summit in Washington on Thursday

PRESIDENT JOE BIDEN vowed he would remain in the 2024 presidential race, but two critical mistakes in the span of two hours deepened concerns about his mental acuity that threaten his campaign.

Biden, 81, saw the culmination of this week's NATO summit as a chance to reassure allies who for two weeks had fretted about his abilities following his first debate performance against Donald Trump.

But with virtually no margin for error, Biden mistook two of his biggest allies for his greatest enemies.

The president drew gasps — and instant mockery online — when he mistakenly introduced Zelenskyy as Russian President Vladimir Putin at an event in the late afternoon.

press conference, he fumbled a question about Vice President Kamala Harris by saying he "wouldn't have picked Vice President Trump to be vice president" if he did not have confidence in her.

Biden's first this year, was designed to show that he has the stamina and adeptness to make a case to voters they should elect him over Trump in November. His dedicated allies said they were buoyed as he took questions from 11 reporters, and displayed more humility than he has in recent days about the difficult political road ahead.

The solo news conference,

"I'm determined on running, but I think it's important that I allay fears," Biden said.

But with viewers hanging on his every word, early signs indicated Biden's performance was not enough to ease the intra-party turmoil that was set off after his debate against Trump.

Almost immediately after the press conference, three more House Democrats, including Representative Jim Himes, the top member from his party on the Intelligence Committee, joined the growing list of lawmakers calling on Biden to step aside.

Representative Jim Clyburn, a prominent Biden supporter, said he remains "all in" on the president but conceded many Democrats do not feel the same way. Party members ought to "let Joe Biden continue to make his own decisions about his future" "if he decides to change his mind later on, then we will respond to that," Clyburn said Friday morning on NBC's Today show. "We have until the 19th of August to open our convention." — BLOOMBERG

Trump asks judge to toss out hush money conviction

BLOOMBERG July 12

from Trump's election fraud case, according to a filing that was provided by Trump's lawyer Todd Blanche Thursday. Blanche said the document

DONALD TRUMP ASKED a New York judge to toss out his hush money conviction because of the US Supreme Court ruling that presidents have at least some immunity from criminal charges, setting up a fresh fight with Manhattan prosecutors as his campaign to take back the White House heats up.

Trump's guilty verdict on 34 counts of falsifying business records was tainted by testimony and other evidence that shouldn't have been allowed at trial under the new standard set by the high court's landmark decision stemming had been filed with the New York state court judge who's presiding over the case and posted on his law firm website on Thursday afternoon. Bloomberg News couldn't immediately verify that the motion had been received by the court.

A spokesperson for Manhattan District Attorney Alvin Bragg declined to comment. A representative for New York State court Justice Juan Merchan didn't immediately return a request for comment.

The Supreme Court last week held that former presidents have at least some immunity from criminal charges related to official conduct, leaving them open to charges over private acts while in office.

Japan may have spent $22 billion to prop up Yen

BLOOMBERG July 12

JAPAN LIKELY STEPPED into currency markets for a third time this year to prop up the yen soon after US inflation figures came out on Thursday, according to a Bloomberg analysis of central bank accounts.

The scale of intervention was probably around ¥3.5 trillion ($22 bn), based on a comparison of Bank of Japan accounts and money broker forecasts.

The figures indicate that Japan's currency authorities tried to take advantage of a buildup of expectations for a Federal Reserve rate cut immediately after data showed US inflation cooling broadly.

The suspected intervention on Thursday would be the first aimed at boosting the yen when it was strengthening against the dollar, a fresh development in Japan's strategy of trying to keep speculators on back foot since it started propping up the yen in September 2022. — BLOOMBERG

JPMorgan logs record profit on Visa gains

BLOOMBERG July 12

JPMORGAN CHASE & CO reported record profit as investment bankers and equities traders at the biggest US bank smashed expectations and the firm took a multibillion-dollar gain tied to a Visa share exchange.

Fees from investment banking soared past analysts' estimates, jumping 50%, while the firm's equity traders notched a 21% revenue jump. The Visa transaction added $7.9 billion to second-quarter profit.

More businesses are doing deals again after a long lull, allowing investment bankers to contribute a larger share of their banks' bottom lines despite the elevated cost of borrowing, lingering uncertainty posed by the US election and global geopolitical issues.

"There has been some progress bringing inflation down, but there are still multiple inflationary forces in front of us: large fiscal deficits, infrastructure needs, restructuring

Wells Fargo's cost-cutting progress stalls as expenses rise

BLOOMBERG July 12

WELLS FARGO WARNED it won't be able to whittle away costs as fast it previously forecast this year after the banking giant posted higher-than-expected expenses in the second quarter. Expenses for the quarter climbed 2% to $13.3 bn, according to a statement on Friday. That compares with the 0.2% increase that analysts had expected, and includes $493 mn of operating losses amid ongoing customer remediation. The lender now expects non-interest expenses to fall just 2.8% to $54 bn this year, up from an earlier forecast of $52.6 bn. Wells Fargo said the increase was driven by higher revenue-related compensation expenses, more operating losses, etc. — BLOOMBERG of trade and remilitarization of the world," chief executive officer Jamie Dimon said in a statement Friday. "Therefore, inflation and interest rates may stay higher than the market expects."

Record profit

JPMorgan earned $18.1 billion in net income in the second quarter, up 25% from the previous record a year earlier and ahead of analysts' expectations.

China's exports top forecasts, but imports fall

BLOOMBERG July 12

CHINA'S EXPORTS GREW at their fastest in fifteen months in June, suggesting manufacturers are front-loading orders ahead of tariffs expected from a growing number of trade partners, while imports unexpectedly shrank amid weak domestic demand.

The mixed trade data keeps alive calls for further government stimulus as the $18.6-trillion economy struggles to get back on its feet. Analysts warn that the jury is still out on whether strong export sales in recent months can be sustained given major trade partners are becoming more protective.

"This reflects the economic condition in China, with weak domestic demand and strong production capacity relying on exports," said Zhiwei Zhang, chief economist at Pinpoint Asset Management.

"The sustainability of strong exports is a major risk for China's economy in the second half of the year. The economy in the US is weakening. Trade conflicts are getting worse."

Outbound shipments from the world's second-biggest economy grew 8.6% year-on-year in value in June, customs data showed on Friday, beating a forecast 8.0% increase in a Reuters poll of economists and a 7.6% rise in May.

But imports hit a four-month low, shrinking 2.3% compared with a forecast 2.8% increase and a 1.8% rise the previous month, highlighting the fragility of domestic consumption.

Stronger-than-expected exports have been one of the few bright spots for an economy otherwise struggling for momentum despite official efforts to stimulate domestic demand following the pandemic. A prolonged property slump and worries about jobs and wages are weighing heavily on consumer confidence.

Still, as the number of countries stepping up curbs on Chinese goods increases, so too does the pressure on its exports to press up progress towards the government's economic growth target for this year of around 5%.

China's trade surplus stood at $99.05 billion in June, the highest on record, compared with a forecast of $85 billion and $82.62 billion in May. — REUTERS

Citigroup beats Street expectations for Q2 profit

REUTERS July 12

CITIGROUP BEAT WALL Street expectations for second-quarter profit on Friday, boosted by a 60% jump in investment banking revenue and gains in its services division, but shares fell 2.9% amid investor worries about expenses and market share.

The third largest US lender reported a profit of $1.52 per share in the three months ended June 30. That compares with analysts' expectations of $1.39, according to LSEG data.

The results reflect Citi's uphill climb as it tries to reach its shareholder returns target of 11% to 12%, from 7.2% in the second quarter, said Warren Kornfeld, senior vice president in the financial institutions group at Moody's Ratings.

"The results again reflect the services sector's strength. But Citi has challenges in broadening market share and reducing expenses in its other segments," he said.

Several hundred employees joined protests on Thursday and Friday in front of Samsung's high-bandwidth memory site in Pyeongtaek, Seoul

Striking Samsung workers target AI memory chip plants

SOHEE KIM & SHERY AHN July 12

SAMSUNG ELECTRONICS' LARGEST union is now calling on employees at one of the company's most advanced AI memory chip plants to walk off the job, switching tactics after their campaign for higher pay showed signs of losing steam.

Several hundred employees joined protests on Thursday and Friday in front of Samsung's high-bandwidth memory site in Pyeongtaek, south of Seoul, after the union called a general strike this week. That's a far cry from the thousands that turned up at a public rally outside of Samsung's main facility in Hwaseong Monday, but union leaders told Bloomberg News they're now targeting a small but strategically important complex in hopes of amping up the pressure.

The Pyeongtaek site is the nerve center for Samsung's efforts to carve out a slice of an important market. The chip-maker's in the process of trying to convince Nvidia to use its high-bandwidth memory — a prerequisite for it to catch smaller rival SK Hynix in the booming AI arena.

Targeting the high-end chip production line is "the most effective" measure against management, said Lee Hyun-kuk, deputy secretary-general of the union.

Shares of Samsung fell as much as 4% in Seoul on Friday, their biggest intraday decline in more than two months amid a broader selloff in Asian technology stocks. Despite the dwindling numbers, this week's string of walkouts and protests marked the biggest and most widespread labor protests in Samsung's half-century history. Its biggest labor union of more than 30,000 workers declared a general strike on Thursday. — BLOOMBERG
