New Education Policy: What's changing and how?

Amit Khare

Secretary, Department of Education

Government of India

In conversation with

Ritika Chopra Senior Assistant Editor The Indian Express

A year ago, the government announced the new National Education Policy that made school and college education unrecognisable from what it had been since 1986.

In schools, the 10+2 pattern was replaced with a 5+3+3+4 structure of foundational, preparatory, middle, and secondary education

Higher education was opened to foreign universities, and the UGC and AICTE were dismantled.

The undergraduate programme became four years long, but students who wanted to get off midway, could with a suitable degree.

And it was mandated that by 2040, there would be no single-stream institutions; only multidisciplinary colleges and universities.

With the pandemic hopefully near its end, the time for implementing the changes has arrived.

How will going to school and college change over the next year? How prepared are institutions, teachers, and students for the changes? How will we tackle the inevitable disruptions that will follow?

World steel forecasts that steel demand to grow by 5.8% in 2021 to reach 1,874 million tonnes (Mt), after declining by 0.2% in 2020. The current forecast assumes that the ongoing second or third waves of infections would stabilize in the second quarter and that steady progress on vaccinations would allow a gradual return to normalcy in major steel-using countries. Despite the disastrous impact of the pandemic on lives and livelihoods, the global steel industry was fortunate enough to end 2020 with only a minor contraction in steel demand. This was due to a surprisingly robust recovery in China, with growth of 9.1%. In the rest of the world steel demand contracted by 10%. In the coming years, steel demand is expected to recover firmly, both in the developed and developing economies, supported by pent-up Installation of Vertical Pressure Filters in PPU demand and Governments' recovery programmes. However, for most developed economies a return to the pre-pandemic levels of steel demand will take a few years. While it is hoped that the worst of the pandemic is passing away, there is still considerable uncertainty for the rest of 2021. The mutation of the virus and progress of vaccinations, withdrawal of supportive fiscal and monetary

The existing vacuum disc filters available at Filter Plant, PPU, Mangalore are not suitable to filter the iron ore sourced from Odisha which has a high alumina content, high Blaine and is slimy in
