Deficit doubts: On concern over current account deficit

In its latest review of the economy encompassing the period from June till July 10, the Finance Ministry is sanguine about India's sanguine about India's economic recovery and has asserted that major macro-economic risks have subsided over the past six weeks. The Government's cautious optimism is tinged with impending concerns of a speedier tightening of monetary policies by the U.S. Federal Reserve and the resultant dip in asset markets, which can mar sentiment and consumption, on top of persistent markets, which can mar sentiment and consumption, on top of persistent geopolitical strife, But for now, interest rate hikes and measures to curtail the outflow of dollars announced by the central bank, with several steps from the government such as the imposition of windfall duties on forex-drainers like gold, have been credited for lifting some of the dark clouds over the dark clouds over the derk ministry believes India's fiscal math for the year will of unravel thanks to the recent tax levies, and healthy Gods and Services Tax collections (that could prices slipping to 16-month lows, prices for some food items failing off their peaks and crude oil prices descending in the face of fears of a recession in many developed nations, have

India has taken a good first step towards removing sedition law

It is rare that the prime minister himself conveys, in a pending proceeding before the apex court, his clear and unequivocal views about respecting human rights, protecting civil liberties and further respecting the people of India. It was refreshing to find the categorical assertion by the PM in an affidavit: 'One of India's strengths is the diverse thought streams that beaufifully flourished in our country.' In the 75th year of our Independence, as our nation is marking 'Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav', PM Modi has appealed to Indians to work harder to shed our colonial baggage, which includes colonial laws and practices. These are not empty words only for an affidavit Under his leadership, nearly 1,500 old colonial-era laws have been scrapped. About 25,000 compliance rules have been removed and many offences that were a hindrance statement of great intent: "Laws and compliances which reeked of a colonial mindset have no place in today's India." With this background, it was conveyed, that the Government of India has decided to re-examine and reconsider the provisions of Section 124A of the Indian Penal Code which deals with sedition. The history of the sedition law infudia is in many ways unique. During the British Raj, it was part of the penal law from the very beginning. The British government in India not only various offences, but also order ce, punishable with imprisonment for life and a fine. The definition of sedition was a little vanue whereby fine. Disaffection includes 25,000 compliance rules sediton. Disartection includes ingit to freedom of speech and solution. Disartection includes which were reating hurdles, disloyalty and feeling of expression particularly in the have been removed and many enrity. Sedition was designed context of the painful to perpetuate the hold of the experience to punish. Indians to development have been and any attempt at disordal was enough for the offence.

Texas Gov. Greg Abbott declared last month that These adolescents are becoming more vocal about their identifies and experiences, as The New York. Times found in a 2019 survey. Great leaders of the freedom movement became the targets of the law. Bal Gangadhar Tiak was the first person to be convicted of sedition in colonial India because the British government thought that his writings in his celebrated Marathi newspaper. Kesari writings in his celebrated Marathi newspaper, Kesari, were causing disaffection against the British Raj. He was imprisoned for 18 months. Even Gandhiji, in 1922, was sentenced to six years for his article in Young India on the charge of "attempting to excite disaffection towards his majesty's Government established by law in British India". Many others were also prosecuted and convicted. Significantly, during the making of the Constitution,

It must be noted that in none of the said clauses is the offence of sedition mentioned as grounds for "reasonable restriction". There are expressions like "interest of sovereighty and integrity of Tudia", and security of state public order but not sedition. Sedition simply means "deshdroh". Yet, it has continued in the IPC. There have been judgments from various high courts in this regard but a constitution bench of the Supreme Court delivered a judgment in 1962 (Kedamath Singh vs The State of Bihar) where it held that "unless accompanied by incitement or call for violence criticism of about why this

There has been genuine criticism about why this colonial-era provision should be a part of our statute. The Congress part, which claims to be the inheritor of the freedom movement, never tried to scrap this law though it ruled India for nearly 60 wears. Certain freedoms are years. Form a particular state where singing the Hanuman Chalisa amounted to sedition.Surely, there is a need for a review of the law. India, in the 75th year of its independence, is strong and stable enough to decide in a free, fair and objective manner whether the offence of sedition is needed or not, and if so under what form with strong guidelines to prevent its misuse, and dearly nunciate the circumstances in which it can be invoked. The PM has trusted the process by which so many old laws have been repealed, offences decriminalised and thousands of compliance burdens removed. All this was done in a peaceful manner with due consultation. This is the ornocess will entail a relook at I am quite sure the same process will entail a relook at the whole issue of sedition to the satisfaction of all concerned where a healthy balance is maintained between respect for human rights and dvillberties and the compelling need to fight terrorism, and separatism and whose clear agenda is to break India. I must conclude with a word of gratitude for the PM for demonstrating extraordinary leadership in a matter that has divided the country for the last few years. Let's hope the inner strength of the country will help us arrive at a healthy conclusion. Equally, the Supreme Court has shown judicial statesmanship by agreeing with the government's request to give time for the review and by passing appropriate interim protections in the meantime.
