US election provides New Delhi narrow window for trade deal with Washington

The US-India trade relationship in the Trump era has been dismal

Bloomberg

AMERICA'S ELECTIONS PROVIDE a narrow window of opportunity for its trading partners. Across the world, negotiators will have seen a man from Maine given a prime spot at the Republican National Convention: Lobsterman Jason Joyce spoke about how President Donald Trump had "brokered a deal to end European Union tariffs of 8% on Maine live lobsters and up to 20% on Maine lobster products." It is no coincidence that, in 2016, Trump won only one of Maine's four electoral college seats.

Trump, behind in the polls, is desperately trying to moderate the effects of his poorly considered trade war on crucial voters. The world's trade bureaucrats should have had pen in hand on the second day of the RNC: Miners, fishermen and farmers from states that Trump considers electorally important took turns in the spotlight. Figure out what they want, give the US president something he imagines he can sell to them and you have an opportunity to get a quick deal through. That's clearly what the EU had in mind when it signed a "mini trade deal" that, in return for a concession on lobsters, got the US to commit to slashing a range of tariffs in half.

Here in New Delhi, time to strike a similarly advantageous deal is running out. The US-India trade relationship in the Trump era has been dismal - partly because Indian trade officials have been slower than their counterparts in Europe or even China to figure out how to use America's electoral divisions to their advantage. India's commerce minister insists that we are "almost there" on a "quick trade deal"; writing in the current issue of Foreign Affairs, however, US Trade Representative Robert Lighthizer complains that India is "at times, a troublesome trading partner for the United

Agricultural imports are the sticking point. What Indian negotiators have offered Washington is apparently a "step-by-step reduction in import duties" on high-value products. And they've tacked on a ton of other concessions, including a discussion on reducing tariffs on technology products. A better strategy, though, might be to focus on an immediate, targeted package that could be struck before the US vote. In that case, minimal concessions could result in a big payoff.

An obvious target would be the dairy sector. (Hello, Wisconsin!) One report suggests Lighthizer wants India to promise to buy $6 billion worth of US agricultural and dairy goods. While that would put a sizeable dent in the trade deficit the US runs with India, it's the kind of pledge that's difficult for a market economy to make. Even the Chinese are struggling to fulfil their promise, made in January, to buy $36.5 billion worth of US agricultural goods.

Yet, if India at least promised to drop the real irritants - non-tariff barriers that prevent the import of most American dairy products - the two countries might get somewhere. The problem is, unsurprisingly, electoral politics on the Indian side: Given that Indian election campaigns can revolve around "cow protection," the Indians want the US to agree that no dairy imports will come from cows fed on animal protein.

Everyone knows what the compromise will have to be: some form of labelling.

If, after that, Indians still don't consume US dairy products, that's just how the market works.

Once that issue is resolved, a lot of other options would open up. India's exporters, for example, want to be included once again under the Generalized System of Preferences, which allows some developing countries preferential access to the US market.

Prez Trump seizes on protests as Democrats blame him for tensions

ASSOCIATED PRESS
Washington

DEMOCRATS ACCUSED PRESIDENT Donald Trump of trying to inflame racial tensions and incite violence to benefit his campaign after he praised supporters who clashed with protesters during a deadly night in Portland, Oregon, and announced he will travel to Kenosha, Wisconsin, amid anger over the shooting of another Black man by police.

Trump unleashed a flurry of tweets and retweets the day after a man identified as a supporter of a right-wing group was shot and killed in Portland. The city has been the site of months of daily protests, and a large caravan of Trump supporters and Black Lives Matter protesters clashed Saturday night. Trump praised the caravan participants as "GREAT PATRIOTS!" and retweeted what appeared to be the dead man's name along with a message to "Rest in peace."

Trump also retweeted those who blamed the city's Democratic mayor for the death.

"The people of Portland, like all other cities & parts of our great Country, want Law & Order," Trump wrote Sunday. "The Radical Left Democrat Mayors, like the dummy running Portland, or the guy right now in his basement unwilling to lead or even speak out against crime, will never be able to do it!"

Trump has throughout the summer cast American cities as under siege by violence and lawlessness, despite the fact that most of the demonstrations against racial injustice have been largely peaceful. With about nine weeks until Election Day, some of his advisers see an aggressive "law and order" message as the best way for the president to turn voters against his Democratic rival, Joe Biden, and regain the support of suburban voters, particularly women, who have abandoned him.

"He may think that war in our streets is good for his reelection chances, but that is not presidential leadership — or even basic human compassion," Biden said in a statement responding to the shooting, in which he "unequivocally" condemned violence on all sides, while accusing Trump of "recklessly encouraging" it.

Portland Mayor Ted Wheeler, a Democrat, blamed Trump for the tensions.

Trump is expected to continue to hit that theme when he travels Tuesday to Kenosha, Wisconsin, where tensions are still raw after police shot Jacob Blake, a 29-year-old Black man, in the back seven times, leaving him paralyzed. The shooting has ignited new demonstrations against racial injustice and police brutality months after George Floyd's death at the hands of a Minneapolis police officer touched off a wider reckoning on race.

Trump will be meeting with law enforcement officers and "surveying" the damage in the city, where businesses have been vandalized and some buildings burned during demonstrations, White House spokesman Judd Deere announced.

A little-known diplomat will become new Lebanon PM

BLOOMBERG
August 31

A LITTLE-KNOWN diplomat has been asked to form Lebanon's next government, tasked with guiding the country through one of the deepest economic crises in its recent history and rebuilding a capital city shattered by this month's blast.

Mustafa Adib, an academic and Lebanon's ambassador to Germany, has received 90 nominations from parliamentarians so far, giving him the majority required to secure the premiership after he won the backing of key political groupings.

"This is no time for talk and promises, but to work," Adib told reporters after accepting the nomination, vowing to swiftly create a new cabinet. "We will form a homogeneous team of specialists."

All political parties are aware that reforms must be enacted quickly, in part to make progress on stalled talks with the International Monetary Fund, he said.

The breakthrough came hours before French President Emmanuel Macron, who is coordinating international aid efforts for Lebanon, arrives in Beirut to meet key officials. Macron visited the country two days after the blast and called for a new political pact, a policy-oriented government and early parliamentary elections.

China throws a wrench into Trump's plan to force TikTok sale

BLOOMBERG
August 31

ZHANG YIMING'S PLAN to sell the US operations of his short-video app TikTok to avoid a shutdown was thrown into jeopardy after China asserted authority over a deal already under scrutiny by the Trump administration.

Beijing on Friday added uncertainty to already thorny negotiations over the sale of ByteDance Ltd's prized asset, claiming the ability to block a sale to foreign suitors Microsoft Corp or Oracle Corp with tighter restrictions on artificial intelligence exports. The commerce ministry added speech and text recognition and personalised recommendations to a list of products that require approval before they're sold abroad.

These new areas cover the very technologies ByteDance employed to make TikTok a viral teen sensation from America to India. The company is now required to seek the government's sign-off on any deal, though it doesn't mean an outright ban, according to a person familiar with the matter. TikTok is dissecting the new regulations and thinks they will make securing a deal more difficult, a second person familiar with the matter said.

Shares of Oracle and Microsoft were each down more than 1% in early trading Monday. Walmart Inc, which has said it will partner with Microsoft on a bid, was down about 2%. For China, the move helps gain leverage to prevent what state-run media called the "theft" of technology while underscoring to the US it has intellectual property worth protecting. It also increases the likelihood a deal could get held up and Trump will then move ahead with a TikTok ban ahead of November's election, depriving millions of teenagers of any updates to the app though they may still be able to use the current version.

"AI is a foundational technology and is one of the key sectors that China aims to lead, competing with the US," said Rebecca Fannin, founder of Silicon Dragon Ventures. "This pushback by Beijing could be seen as part of the growing US-China tensions and tech cold war." China's regulations introduce more unknowns into an already delicate process involving multiple corporations, agencies and federal court, all converging days before Donald Trump's executive order banning TikTok takes effect ahead of November elections. It could take up to 30 days for ByteDance to get the greenlight to export AI, said Zhaokang Jiang, a trade attorney and managing partner of GSC Potomac. The involvement of Beijing, which has denounced Trump administration bans on TikTok and Tencent Holdings' WeChat, muddies the waters as American corporations and investors vie to hammer out a deal by the Trump administration's deadline.

- World Health Organisation (WHO) declared outbreak of Corona virus Disease (COVID-19) a global pandemic on March 11, 2020. Consequent to this, Government of India declared lockdown on March 23, 2020 and the Group temporarily suspended the operations in all the units of the Group in compliance with the lockdown instructions issued by the Central and State Governments. COVID-19 has substantially impacted the normal business operations of the Group by way of interruption in production, supply chain disruption, unavailability of personnel, closure/lockdown of production facilities etc. during the lockdown period which has been extended till May 17, 2020. Production and supply of goods has commenced at various dates during the month of May 2020 and in a staggered manner at some of the manufacturing locations of the Group after obtaining permissions from the appropriate government authorities.

The Group has made detailed assessment of its liquidity position for the next 12 months including unutilized sanctioned credit limits and avenues to raise new funds/refinancing, recoverability of its assets comprising of property, plant and equipment, intangible assets, right of use assets, investments, inventories and trade receivables. Based on current indicators of future economic conditions and estimates made by the Management of the Group, the Group expects to recover the carrying amount of these assets. It expects short term challenges in operating environment and has undertaken various cost containment initiatives which will yield results in medium to long term. At this time, the Group expects to attain the pre-covid levels of performance in 6-9 months.

The situation is changing rapidly giving rise to inherent uncertainty around the extent and timing of the potential future impact of the COVID-19 on revenue from operations, profitability and recoverability of investments and account receivables. The outcome of the same may be different from that estimated as at the date of approval of these financial results. The Group has assessed the impact of the COVID-19 on its operations & profitability and recoverability of investments and account receivables and expects to recover faster compared to the estimates made for the current financial year.

As a result of lockdown the volumes for the current quarter is impacted. Revenue from operations and profitability have decreased due to COVID-19 related market volatility. Therefore, results for current quarter is not comparable to previous corresponding period results.
