Lack of women and marginalised in Gujarat police and judiciary: Report

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE GANDHINAGAR, FEBRUARY 8

HIGH VACANCY at sanctioned posts and poor representation of women and marginalised sections in police and judiciary in Gujarat are causes for concern, stated the release of the India Justice Report 2019 in Gandhinagar on Saturday. Gujarat, however, ranked eighth out of total 18 populous states of system, judiciary and legal aid.

When it comes to representa tion of scheduled caste community officers in police, Gujarat has done well. Gujarat and Kerala are the only two states to have met the criteria of representation set by its own benchmark. However, when it comes to representation of scheduled tribe community officers, there is 30% vacancy, while there is 61% vacancy of other backward communities (OBC) against the sanctioned posts, the report stated.

The report prepared by various civil organisations in collaboration with TATA Trust was released by former chief justice of Bombay High Court, Mohit Shah along with other academicians at Gujarat National Law University

Understanding the India Justice Report 2019

THE INDIA Justice Report 2019 has been compiled in 18 months by organisations such as TATA Trusts in partnership with DAKSH, Commonwealth Human Rights Initiative, Common Cause, Centre for Social Justice, Vidhi Centre for Legal Policy and TISS Prayas. The report ranks 18 populous states and seven small states as per their performance in the past 5 years in four categories - policing, prisons, judiciary and legal aid - looked from the filters of human resources, workload, available budget, infrastructure and diversity. Each category is judged by the individual benchmarks set by the state governments themselves. The report makes use of only government provided data, that are objective and measurable.

the report. The report excluded union territories and four states of India where the Armed Forces Special Power Act is in effect,

"We did not set any international standard or our own for ranking and rather used the benchmark set by the individual state according to their police manual and judiciary recommendations We have found that not a single state managed to reach even 60% of the benchmark set by them, When we look at Gujarat, we see that it is ranked 8th which is surprising given that the state is often called a model state in other sectors of development," said Shireen Vakeel, head of policy and advocacy at TATA Trusts.

Poor representation

According to the report, in Gujarat, representation of women as police personnel was found at 7.2%, as police officers 5.6%, as prison staff it was 7%, as women judges in high courts it was 9.4%, as women judges in sub-divisional courts it was 15%.

as women panel lawyers it was 19% and as women para-legal volunteers was found at 38%.

"As per our report, it will take at least 34 years from now for Gujarat to reach 33% overall representation of women in police and judiciary. There are states that will take 200 years or more. It shows that it is one thing to make rhetorical statements about women representation and completely other to follow it," said Maja Daruwala, senior advisor, Commonwealth Human Rights Initiative.

Understaffed prisons

When it comes to prisons, Gujarat ranked 9th with 5.23 marks out of 10. The report states that roughly 1 out of 3 posts is vacant for officers, cadre staff and medical staff and only one correction staff has been posted against four sanction staff to serve 12,438 inmates. Budget wise, Gujarat fared poorly as it was found to be spending Rs 24.483 on each inmate and was ranked 14th out of 18 states.

Pending cases

In Judiciary, Gujarat overall ranked 7th out of 18 states with 5.32 marks out of 10. According to the report, Gujarat accounted for the maximum number of pending cases for most number of years at sub-divisional courts thereby getting 9.5 marks out of 10 (lower the better.) When it comes to pending cases in high court, the state fared better with 3.3 marks out of 10 (lower the better). Even judge vacancy in sub-divisional courts of Gujarat remained high at 34.8% and was ranked 16th in that parameter. While the high court judge vacancy in Gujarat stood at 38.9 %, it fared better than most of the states and was ranked at number 7 out of 18 in that parameter.

"Judiciary plays an important role in process of justice delivery. In my tenure as the Bombay HC Chief Justice, I was apprised about the lack of judges so I had suggested the Bar Council of Maharashtra and Goa to train lawyers to appear for the examination for posting of judges. I also advocate use of technology in courts," said Justice Shah.

Legal Aid

Gujarat's performance in legal aid was better as it ranked 6th with 5.30 marks out of 10. When it came to state's share in legal aid spent, it was found to be at 80%. As per legal services, report findings said that in Gujarat each jail was serviced by at least one legal services clinic, When it comes to workload, Gujarat fared poor as in the Permanent Lok Adalat cases, only 35% of the cases were settled while in Lok Adalat, it was found to be at 31.4%

Probe begins after birth certificate mentions Pak as newborn's address

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE AHMEDABAD, FEBRUARY 8

THE AHMEDABAD Municipal Corporation (AMC) has initiated an inquiry into the issuance of a birth certificate where the address of the parents of a newborn, who live in Vatva area of Ahmedabad, is mentioned as "Pakistan railway crossing"

Issued on October 8, 2018 for the baby who was born on October 1, 2018 at AMC-run VS Hospital, the certificate mentions 'Pakistan railway crossing' as the address for both the certificate holder and his parents.

The parents have alleged that they have been making futile attempts to get it corrected. "We got the birth certificate when my daughter-in-law was discharged from the hospital. We did not notice the error at that time. After we spotted it, we have been trying to get it corrected but have not been able to," said the baby's grandfather.

On Saturday, the matter was brought to the notice of Congress Behrampura corporator Badruddin Shaikh. "It is surprising that the doctor, who had signed the certificate, issued it before even looking at it. The officials preparing the certificate must know that there is no area called Pakistan in Ahmedabad, The officials responsible for the error should be suspended," said Shaikh.

Dr Bhavin Joshi, additional medical officer health, told The Indian Express, "We are trying to find out who is responsible for the error." He added that the medical superintendent (MS) of VS hospital Dr Manish Patel has been asked to head the inquiry.

"Since the child was born at VS hospital and the certificate was issued from there, the MS has been asked to look into the investigation," Joshi added.

When asked about the parents' allegations that the authorities were not rectifying the error, Joshi said, "This is not correct, I just spoke with the child's grandmother and have asked her to meet me on Monday with all the documents."

Petlad APMC signs MoU to convert agro-waste into biomass

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE VADODARA, FEBRUARY 8

IN AN aim to reduce carbon diox ide emissions and convert agricultural waste into biomass Agricultural Produce Market Committee (APMC) of Petlad has signed an MoU with Californiabased scientist Bhaskar Patel, chairman of the Afro Asian Energy Consortium, on January 31. APMC chairman Tejash Patel has written to the PMO requesting funds and support to implement the project.

Bhaskar, who is a native of Sojitra in Anand, discussed the features of the project with 200 farmers representing 80 cooperatives before the MoU was signed.

The focus is on converting agro-waste, which is the source of carbon energy, into biomass water fuel (BWF) involving a patented process, a release said. The end product is said to be a "value added low cost substitute for important petro fuels". The release states that the fuel will be renewable, carbon dioxide neutral and UN climate accord compliant.

"Emphasis has also been laid on the fact that the current practice of burning agro-waste in the open or letting them decay is harmful for the atmospheric ozone layer and the practice will soon be banned under UN climate accord. By utilising agrowaste and forest waste to make biomass water fuel, the farmers will be able to make an additional income out of the otherwise valueless agro waste," it says.

The chairman of Petlad APMC said, "This technology is ideal because it will put to use the waste from the farms, which otherwise is left to decay or is burnt. Even when it decays and produces methanegas, it causes 20% more damage to the environment than carbon dioxide."

Patel added that the implementation of the biomass refin ery on the ground would need about Rs 37 crore for the first proj ect and about 20 crore thereafter for subsequent refineries. He said, "I have requested the PMO to look into this technology that could give the world an example of environment conservation."
