Delhi, 5 other HCs to get new chief justices

Abraham Thomas
letters@hindustantimes.com

NEW DELHI: The Supreme Court collegium on Tuesday elevated five judges as chief justices of high courts, and transferred Satish Chandra Sharma, chief justice of Telangana high court, to the Delhi high court as its chief. The recommendations made by the collegium, comprising Chief Justice of India NV Ramana and justices UU Lalit and AM Khanwilkar of the apex court, will come into effect following orders issued by Centre. The collegium elevated the Delhi high court's acting chief justice Vipin Sanghi as chief justice (CJ) of Uttarakhand high court, two judges of Bombay high court - justice Amjad A Sayed as CJ of Himachal Pradesh high court and justice Sambhaji Shiwaji Shinde - as CJ of Rajasthan high court. Gujarat high court judge Rashmin M Chhaya was elevated as CJ of Gauhati high court, and justice Ujjal Bhuyan of Telangana HC as CJ of same HC. In three high courts, appointment was overdue as the posts of CJ was lying vacant in Uttarakhand since December 24, while at Rajasthan and Delhi, it was due since March 7 and 13, respectively. In Himachal Pradesh, the incumbent CJ Mohammad Rafiq will be demitting office on May 24, while the vacancy at Gauhati arose following the elevation of CJ Sudhanshu Dhulia as judge of the Supreme Court on May 7. Justice Dhulia took oath as judge of Supreme Court on May 9. Justice Satish Chandra Sharma, who has been recommended as the new CJ of Delhi high court, belongs to the Madhya Pradesh high court and was appointed as a high court judge in January 2008. Similarly, Justice Bhuyan recommended as the CJ of Telangana high court belongs to the Gauhati high court.

Justice Shinde, a judge of the Bombay high court who has been recommended by collegium to head the Rajasthan high court, had courted controversy last year after he heaped praise on Stan Swamy, a tribal rights activist who died in custody after he was arrested by the National Investigation Agency in the Bhima Koregaon case.

Justice Sanghi has been recommended to head Uttarakhand high court.

NEW DELHI: The Delhi high court fined former Indian Police Service officer (IPS) and ex-CBI director M Nageswara Rao ₹10,000 on Tuesday while rejecting his plea to restore his Twitter blue verified badge.

Justice Yashwant Varma noted that the petitioner had again come back to court despite being allowed to approach Twitter last month. "We passed an order on 7 April. What has constrained you to approach the court immediately? Your client seems to have a lot of free time. Do you want a return gift from us," the court remarked.

Cow manure is possibly the best main course meal that soil can get. Rich in minerals, nitrogen, phosphorous and potassium, cow manure supports the growth of do-gooder microorganisms when it's mixed with the soil. It doesn't just keep the soil moist but also improves its texture.

The fact is that if you silently allowed cow shit to undo the damage that you have already done to the soil, it would.

But you seem to be on a mission to advance doomsday.

Every day, without fail you propel the damage - with what you buy, with what you throw, with what you cut and with what you build. Remember, every inch of top soil takes 500 years to form.

The least you can do is get your shit together, someday soon.

Floods leave 12 dead in Assam, Arunachal

Road, rail communication disrupted in many parts of Northeast; large tracts of cropland under water

GUWAHATI

Floods and landslips have so far claimed the lives of 12 people in Arunachal Pradesh and Assam while at least eight are missing in these two States since May 14.

Officials in Arunachal Pradesh said that at least five people died and several were injured following landslips in two areas of State capital Itanagar since May 15 night.

Heavy rain delayed rescue operations but the personnel of the National Disaster Response Force, State Disaster Response Force and other agencies managed to save six people, including two women, from the debris at the two locations.

Arunachal Pradesh Chief Minister Pema Khandu mourned the loss of lives and advised people living along the banks of rivers and streams and landslip-prone areas to take precautionary measures.

"The district administration has identified and earmarked buildings as temporary relief camps and people in vulnerable places may either shift there or to other places till the situation returns to normal," he said.

A tractor being used to transport flood-affected villagers in Nagaon district. •PTI

In Assam, floodwaters killed two people in Cachar district while another person died in a landslip in Lakhimpur district on May 16. At least three people died in a landslip in Dima Hasao district, taking the death toll to six while an equal number of people are reported missing in flood-hit Cachar district.

An update provided by the Assam State Disaster Management Authority (ASDMA) on May 17 morning said the State received an average rainfall of 592.6 mm from March 1 to May 16.

Almost incessant heavy rainfall over the last 72 hours has led to flooding in 24 districts of Assam, mostly in the central and western part of the State.

So far, 2,02,385 people have been affected across 811 villages and some urban centres with 1,227 houses fully and 5,262 houses partially damaged.

"Apart from 27 relief distribution centres, we have set up 72 relief camps across the flood-affected districts where 33,248 people have moved in," an ASDMA spokesperson said.

Above danger mark

Officials said floodwaters have affected 20,587.32 hectares of cropland and three rivers – Kopili, Barak and Kushiyara – are flowing above the danger mark.

In Dima Hasao district, road and train communication continues to be disrupted.

"We are trying our best to restore train services, but the quantum of damage is too high to be addressed within a short time," a Northeast Frontier Railway officer said.

Heavy rain has also caused extensive damage to roads and other infrastructure in Meghalaya with at least one steel bridge having been swept away in the Garo Hills region of the State.

An iron bridge in western Assam's Tamulpur district was also washed away.

Same-sex marriage: HC raps govt. for objecting to livestreaming

It asks Centre to file fresh affidavit before next date of hearing

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

The Delhi High Court on Tuesday expressed displeasure at the Union government's affidavit opposing livestreaming of the hearing in the pleas seeking legalisation of same-sex marriage.

The Bench of Acting Chief Justice Vipin Sanghi and Justice Navin Chawla refused to take this affidavit on record and directed the Centre to file a fresh one before the next date of hearing on August 20.

Terms like sympathy

As the matter came up before the Bench on Tuesday, one of the lawyers for the petitioners, senior advocate Neeraj Kishan Kaul, highlighted that the Union government was opposing the livestreaming of the hearing by using terms like "sympathy" and "hallucination".

He submitted before the court that the affidavit de-couples – rights that were recognised by the Supreme Court.

Opposing the livestreaming of the hearing in this case, the Union government had taken the stand that the issue was not of public interest.

'Not in public interest'

It had gone on to allege that the petitioners were trying to "create hallucination" of public interest in the matter by purportedly "sensationalise" it by allegedly "creating unnecessary hype".

After hearing Mr. Kaul's contention, the High Court asked who had vetted the affidavit and when the government counsel said that it is yet to come on record, the Bench asked that it not be brought on record.

The court went on to say that the government needs to bring the affidavit on record "if there is anything objectionable" in it. The court also said that such an affidavit cannot come directly from the Union government and that it should be vetted. "Don't do a mindless exercise. This is not done," the court said.

Following this, the Union government submitted in court that it would file a better affidavit in the matter before the next date of hearing.

The petitioners who sought livestreaming of the proceedings said that nearly seven to eight per cent of the country's population was interested in knowing the developments in the case and thus argued that it should be livestreamed.

Himachal Pradesh's education system is in shambles: Sisodia

AAP Minister slams BJP govt. for indulging in 'politics of riots'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
SHIMLA

AAP senior leader Manish Sisodia on Tuesday attacked the Himachal Pradesh government saying the education system in the State is "in shambles" and also claimed that while his party delivers quality education, the BJP indulges in "politics of riots".

Mr. Sisodia, who is also the Deputy Chief Minister of Delhi, is visiting the northern State ahead of the Assembly polls due in December. He alleged that the BJP does "politics of riots" and pits people against one another.

"The education system in Himachal Pradesh is in shambles as government schools lack basic infrastructure and quality education, while fees in private schools are very high as the State government has given them free hand to loot the people," Mr. Sisodia said.

He alleged that there is only one teacher in 2,000 government schools and only two teachers in 6,500 government schools in the State. "Similarly there are 10,000 schools in the State which have only one or two classrooms," he said, adding that 47% of the government schools do not have a principal.

Mr. Sisodia claimed Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejri-wal's model of governance positively changed the education system in the national capital in five years by providing quality education in government schools and fixing fees in private schools.

'Give AAP a chance'

Mr. Sisodia urged the voters in Himachal Pradesh to give one chance to AAP in the coming elections so that it can provide quality education in the State.

The AAP leader did not visit any government school in Shimla or address students and parents during his visit. He said he would visit schools during his coming visits.

Two tiger cubs were injured allegedly by irate villagers in Seoni district in Madhya Pradesh on Tuesday and were rescued by a forest department team, an official said.

The cubs were spotted at Pipaltai pond near Baelgaon village by villagers, said Chief Conservator of Forest (Seoni Circle) S.S. Udde. "The cubs, around 14-15 months old, might have come there to drink water," he said.

Though Mr. Udde denied the cubs were injured, a video of the incident showed one of the tiger cubs limping and some people throwing stones.

Jharkhand orders probe into new govt. buildings

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
RANCHI

The Jharkhand government on Tuesday ordered a probe by a judicial commission into alleged irregularities in the construction of the State Assembly building, inaugurated nearly three years ago, and the new High Court.

A portion of the false ceiling on the first floor of the State Assembly building collapsed in May last year reportedly due to leakage in the roof, raising questions over the quality of construction of the structure.

Questions were also raised about materials used in building the new High Court.

Alleged irregularities

Chief Minister Hemant Soren had in July last year ordered a probe by the Anti-Corruption Bureau into the alleged financial irregularities in the construction of the new buildings.

The government, in its communication, did not mention about the progress of the investigation by the anti-corruption bureau into the alleged irregularities.

The three-storeyed Assembly building, constructed at a cost of ₹465 crore, was inaugurated by Prime Minister Narendra Modi on August 12, 2019, 19 years after the State was carved out of Bihar.

Byculla prison's anganwadi leads the way

Children of women serving time are taught, told stories and provided nutritious food

SONAM SAIGAL
MUMBAI

There are a total of 11 children of prisoners who are currently living inside the women's jail in Byculla, with their mothers serving time. This is one of the few prisons leading the way for the anganwadi system to be instituted across the country.

The landmark judgment delivered in 2006 by the Supreme Court of India in R.D. Upadhyay vs. State of Andhra Pradesh had stated, "There shall be a crèche and a nursery attached to the prison for women where the children of women prisoners will be looked after... The prison authorities shall preferably run the said crèche and nursery outside the prison premises."

Set up in 2012

Based on years of advocacy work by Prayas, a project by the Centre for Criminology and Justice of the Tata Institute of Social Sciences (TISS), the first anganwadi for children living in prison was set up at the Byculla Central Jail outside the prison premises in 2012, under the Integrated Child Development Scheme (ICDS). Since then, seven more anganwadis have been set up in prisons through the ICDS, with four of them outside the prison premises.

Seema*, who works closely with the Byculla jail authorities said, "As per the counting done last month, there are 11 children in Byculla jail and according to the ICDS, there is an anganwadi outside the jail set up 10 years ago. It is run by a teacher and a helper, and since it is a government post, the teacher is paid ₹8,000 monthly and the helper is paid ₹4,000. They teach kids the basic alphabet, tell stories, make them identify images. It is run like a nursery for kids above the age of three."

Lives like a family

She explained that each time a child enters the prison, the child welfare committee (CWC) is informed about it. After the age of six (when the law does not permit children to be brought inside prison), they are sent to their families or placed in the CWC, if no relative is willing to take the child. Inside the jail, everyone lives like a family – there is no barrier of class, caste or religion.

"Earlier, children would not [be able to] identify the family because they wouldn't see each other for years. Now, that has changed, and because of the mulakat system, the children are aware of who is who. If the child stays in the CWC, no one there knows that they have come from jail. They are given a nutritious diet in jail and the CWC, consisting of eggs, milk and rice," Ms. Seema said. In prison, the child and mother are kept in a separate barrack, with other mothers and children.

Civil rights activist Sudha Bharadwaj, who was first lodged at the Yerawada Central Jail and then the Byculla jail for almost four years in the Bhima Koregaon caste violence case, also reiterated the same.

She said, "In Byculla and Yerawada, there is a nursery outside the prison where children from age three to six go. This facility was, however, stopped during the COVID-19 pandemic. There is a separate place for the mothers to live with their children inside the jail. In Yerawada, there is a small area outside the prison where children go and play. They also get a special diet of chappati, sabzi, khichdi, eggs and bananas."

A guide by the Commonwealth Human Rights Initiative, an international NGO working for practical realisation of human rights in the Commonwealth, titled 'Standards behind bars: Security rights of women prisoners' in the year 2020,

It was observed that children above six years were allowed to visit their mothers in Byculla prison at least once every quarter and children from Yerwada jail visit their mothers once a month puts forth standards set out under various national and international documents which are instrumental towards ensuring the rights of women prisoners.

Interaction with mother

It mentions, "The prison administration must ensure that the child be placed in a manner that he/she can interact with the mother regularly at least once a week. In case the child is in the care of family/friends, the women inmate should be allowed to call every day for a week, and thereafter at least twice a week, for a reasonable time to be in touch with the child or the caregiver of the child."

However, according to a report dated March 31, 2021, by the National Commission for Protection of Child Rights titled, 'Education Status of Children of Women Prisoners in India': "It was observed that children above six years were allowed to visit their mothers in Byculla prison at least once every quarter and children from Yerwada jail visit their mothers once a month."

City's Civil Service Coaching Centre Faces Fee Harassment Charge

Syed Mohammad Burhan

Srinagar: Shabir Ahmed Mir, a graduate from Budgam studying to become a civil servant, has accused "Ignited Minds" of harassment over pending fee installment.

The said coaching centre is an uptown Srinagar-based Institute offering preparatory courses for civil service examinations.

For civil services examinations, the Institute has a norm of accepting fees within two installments. But after Shabir's request, it agreed to take the fee in three segments.

Shabir was entitled to pay an amount of Rs 78,000 in three installments, of which he paid Rs 32,000 as first installment. After attending classes for a month, Shabir was told to pay another installment.

"I failed to pay the second installment in time and that is when the harassment started," Shabir told Kashmir Observer.

Due to financial restrictions, he sought more time to pay the fee but he said his request was denied.

"On 16th April, I was called out of the class for not paying the fee on time," he said.

Let down by what Shabir calls "marginalizing behavior" of the Institute he did not feel like studying at the Institute anymore.

However, talking to Kashmir Observer, Ignited Minds Director Waseem Raja denied the accusations and said that students are entitled to pay a fee within two installments.

"In case of Shabir, we agreed to take a fee within three installments as requested by Nazir who happened to be faculty member at the Institute," Waseem said.

"The student not only failed to pay the fee on time but also misbehaved with the faculty members at the Institute and his brother threatened me with severe consequences."

Waseem said he reported the issue at Police Station Baghat. In charge SHO Police Station Baghat Mukhtar Ahmad told Kashmir Observer that he talked to both the parties and the issue has been resolved amicably.

"The Institute has agreed to give more time to Shabir to pay the fee, no further action is needed," the SHO told Kashmir Observer.

Meanwhile, another student, Adil Rasheed from Khan Sahab Budgam said that he paid an amount of Rs 80,000 as fee for a year and was denied a refund by the Institute.

"I was not satisfied with the level of teaching, so I requested them to change the faculty or refund the fee, they denied both," said Adil, who is no longer interested in joining classes at the Institute.

Bomai Village Rejoices as Pandits Return

Observer News Service

S RINAGAR- The process of homecoming for the Pandits who left the valley over 17 years ago has begun; ripple of joy went through Bomai area of Sopore when 25 Pandit families who had fled in the early nineties, returned to their native village.

Their Muslim neighbours gave them a rapturous welcome, with the local MLA Abdul Rasheed Dar, closely involved with the celebrations.

Chuni Lal who spent the past 17 years living the life of a refugee in Jammu, said that he had thought the day would never come.

"I am looking forward to resuming my life in my native village," he said.

"By the grace of God, hearts pained for years will find solace now with the return of peace in the valley," Lal said.

Another migrant, Maharaj Krishen, said that he has been in the village for the past ten days, and it appeared as if everything had taken on a festive air. He was full of gratitude for his Muslim neighbours who, he said, displayed the same love they more than seventeen years ago.

Bhushan Lal said that when he arrived in his native Bomai, the people there greeted him with garlands.

The returning Pandits thanked MLA Abdul Rasheed and the sub-district magistrate for making it possible for them to meet their long-separated friends. "We feel as if new life is coursing through our veins," they said.

The MLA announced to release Rs 2 lakh from his constituency development fund for the repair of the local temple. Reports say that a festive air prevails in Bomai for the past four days, and the Muslim community is overjoyed at the return of their Pandit brethren.

The process of the migrants' return to Bomai is on for the past four days, and the families that have come back are being housed in the local Dak Bungalow for the time being. (Kashmir Observer, 18 May, 2007)
