Arenq unveils wall-mounted solar inverter with inbuilt lithium battery

Chennai, Aug 2: Arenq, a pioneering name in solar battery manufacturing, has introduced a cutting-edge wall-mounted inverter with an integrated lithium battery, marking a significant advancement in power solutions. The inbuilt lithium battery is capable of being charged with both solar and grid electricity, offering users unparalleled flexibility and reliability. The highlight of this innovative inverter is its 100% maintenance-free design, ensuring hassle-free operation for users. Additionally, the inverter features a user-friendly digital display monitor that provides real-time information on battery backup and capacity. This data can also be conveniently monitored through a user-friendly

Android app. Arenq's dedication to technological excellence is showcased by the release of two power models, namely 850VA and 1200VA. The 850VA model weighs 28kg, while the 1200VA model weighs 35kg, catering to various power requirements with efficiency and ease. Aiming to expand its reach and provide top-notch services, Arenq is actively seeking distributors in Kerala and Tamil Nadu. This strategic move is set to accelerate the adoption of their ground-breaking solar inverters throughout the region. Notably, Arenq has partnered with Kerala Automobiles Limited, a prominent public sector vehicle manufacturing company of the Government of Kerala, in the thriving field of electric auto manufacturing. With this remarkable unveiling, Arenq continues to drive innovation and enhance the way we harness and utilize solar energy, positioning themselves as a key player in the renewable energy sector.

Howden appoints Amit Agarwal as CEO

Chennai, Aug 2: Howden, the global insurance group, today announces the appointment of Amit Agarwal as CEO, Howden India, effective 1st August. Agarwal takes over the reins from Praveen Vashishta, the former CEO, who will now step up to the position of Chairman. Agarwal's appointment underlines Howden

India's ambitious growth plans and aspiration to be a leading broker in one of the world's fastest growing insurance markets by 2026. Under Agarwal's leadership, Howden India will continue its drive for innovation and the expansion of its product offering, and will continue to embed local expertise in India for the benefit of its clients. It will execute on this strategy by attracting top industry talent through an empowered and employee-owned culture that allows its people to build a business for the long-term.

Chennai, Aug 2: vivo, the trusted global smartphone brand, released a new brand film that builds on the idea behind vivo's Brand Purpose - 'Live the Joy'. The campaign establishes the commitment of the brand to its purpose. The two-and-a-half-minute videotalks about how vivo helps us connect with the ones we love and enables expression of this love through its simplified technology. Thus facilitating the apparently elusive value that we all need in our lives - 'Joy'. With an aim to connect with consumers across India, the film will be promoted across all digital platforms like YouTube, Facebook, and Twitter.

Geetaj Channana, Head, Corporate Strategy, vivo India, said, "As a brand whose every action starts from 'Why', the 'Why' for vivo is our purpose. Our purpose is to 'Bring joy to all Indians through superior technology and simplified experiences'. Being creators of ubiquitous technology, we believe that it is our responsibility to help nudge people towards finding this joy and through this campaign, we hope to inspire people to invest more time with their families and cherish those precious moments pause, and try looking for joy closer home because more often than not, that's where we'll end up finding it." Through this film, vivo aims to help people understand that they need not look too far to look for happiness while they can find it with those whom they love.
