G20 sets up task force to fight future pandemics

Wants 70% of world vaccinated by mid-2022

REUTERS
Rome, October 29

Finance and health ministers from the world's 20 biggest economies (G20) said on Friday they would take steps to ensure 70 per cent of the world's population is vaccinated against Covid-19 by mid-2022 and created a task force to fight future pandemics.

They could not reach agreement on a separate financing facility proposed by the United States and Indonesia, but said the task force would explore options for mobilising funds to boost pandemic preparedness, prevention and response.

"To help advance toward the global goals of vaccinating at least 40 percent of the population in all countries by the end of 2021 and 70 percent by mid-2022... we will take steps to help boost the supply of vaccines and essential medical products and inputs in developing countries and remove relevant supply and financing constraints," the G20 ministers said in a communique seen by Reuters.

The previous goal had eyed vaccinating 70 per cent of the world's population by the autumn of 2022.

"We establish a G20 Joint Finance-Health Task Force aimed at enhancing dialogue and global cooperation on issues relating to pandemic prevention, preparedness and response, promoting the exchange of experiences and best practices, developing coordination arrangements between Finance and Health Ministries, promoting collective action, assessing and addressing health emergencies with cross-border impact and encouraging effective stewardship of resources," the statement said.

The ministers said they were setting up the new body because the pandemic had exposed "significant shortcomings" in the world's ability to coordinate its response. They pledged to support "all collaborative efforts" to provide access to safe, affordable, quality and effective vaccines, therapeutics, diagnostics, and personal protective equipment, particularly in low- and middle-income countries.

To reach the vaccination goals, they said they would work to boost the supply of vaccines and essential medical products and inputs in developing countries, while removing constraints on supply and financing, but gave no specific details.

They also called for boosting the resilience of supply chains through voluntary technology transfer hubs in various regions, such as the newly established mRNA Hubs in South Africa, Brazil and Argentina, and through joint production and processing arrangements.

The call for a voluntary mRNA technology transfer means that talks on the idea of a temporary waiver of intellectual property rights on Covid-19 vaccines and therapies remain stuck at the World Trade Organisation.

INDIA AT G20

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Friday met her counterparts in Singapore and Canada and discussed various issues, including economy, health and opportunities for collaboration. Sitharaman met Singapore Finance Minister Lawrence Wong and Canada's Deputy Prime Minister & Finance Minister Chrystia Freeland on the sidelines of the G-20 Joint Finance and Health Ministers' meeting. "Discussions were held on global preparedness for dealing with future health emergencies and sustaining the campaigns against other diseases," ministry said.

FM Nirmala Sitharaman with Dy PM & FM of Canada on the sidelines of G20 Finance & Health Ministers' Meeting

PM Narendra Modi on Friday held wide-ranging talks with the top leaders of the European Union here during which the two sides discussed deepening the India-EU friendship, particularly in areas such as trade, commerce, culture and the environment. "Official engagements in Rome begin with a productive interaction with @eucopresident Charles Michel and @vonderleyen, President of the @EU_Commission. The leaders discussed ways to enhance economic as well as people-to-people linkages aimed at creating a better planet," the PMO tweeted.

"India will enter the Troika in December this year and will take leadership on the issues and concerns of developing countries and emerging market economies in the G20 forum," said India's G20 Sherpa, Piyush Goyal. Addressing the media, he also added that India is playing a huge role both in vaccination plan in India, which has been widely welcomed by all the G20 nations.

"G20 needs to help increase fund availability to the WHO, besides supporting ongoing multi-stakeholder mechanisms such as GAVI, CEPI, ACT-A with a specific focus on equitable and affordable access," said Union Health Minister Mansukh Mandaviya. There is also a need to synchronise multilateral initiatives amongst the member states in accordance with their local context.

Wonder rice..

These first trials are currently close to harvest in states such as Delhi, Uttar Pradesh, Bihar and Odisha.

"Over the last 10 years of research at IIRRI, we have identified nine key traits which rice varieties need to be suitable for direct seeding. Lack of these traits leads to poor crop stands, low yields, and eventually slow adoption by farmers despite the numerous benefits of the technology. We are now working on incorporating all of them in one single variety and have so far successfully managed to develop varieties that have 3-4 of these traits in them," Dr Shalabh Dixit, senior scientist and plant breeder at the IIRRI told Business Standard.

The traits which have been identified include faster and quicker emergence of seeds, emergence from deeper soil, adapted to anaerobic germination so that seeds germinate even when the fields are flooded with water, early rigour and fast canopy closure, and resistance to drought at the seedling stage etc. (see chart).

"We have managed to develop varieties that can germinate within 7-10 days of seeding and have rapid canopy closure to combat weeds. Weeds are a major problem in dry DSR which is much more pronounced compared to fields where rice is grown through the traditional method where fields are filled with water," said Dixit.

He said IIRRI is targeting high/premium-quality grains which can compensate even if the yields go down. The trials, which started in 2019 but could not progress satisfactorily due to the pandemic, have reached a critical stage and Dixit believes that if all permissions are granted, then commercial release can happen in the next three to four years.

"Along with new DSR varieties that are being developed, countries also need to follow proper agronomic practices such as ideal seed rate, fertilizer dosages, spacing between lines, etc. Agronomic practices need to go with breeds as a package," explained Dixit. He said earlier efforts had focused on eliminating or addressing one or a few problems in DSR varieties. This was the first time that largescale breeding activities have been taken up for addressing all the major components required for DSR adaptation of rice and producing a complete package of traits. "The new varieties could also address stubble burning as the crop takes less time to mature, giving farmers ample time to do residue management," he said.

RBI gov...

A retired Indian Administrative Services (IAS) officer, Das had assumed charge as the 25th governor of the RBI effective December 12, 2018.

Before this he served as a member of the 15th Finance Commission for a year.

If Das completes his six-year tenure, he would be the longest-serving RBI governor since Benegal Rama Rau, who served as head of the central bank between July 1, 1949, and January 14, 1957.

Bimal Jalan served as governor two months short of six years — between November 22, 1997, and September 6, 2003. No other governor since Jalan has served for over five years.

Das' full tenure will see him through the general elections in 2024. Das' reappointment will ensure policy continuity, economists said. "The RBI under Das demonstrated exemplary stewardship in cushioning the economy and financial markets from the heavy blow of Covid-19. The reappointment will ensure policy continuation, decisive and innovative policy initiatives, and effective communication with a wide spectrum of stakeholders," said Siddhartha Sanyal, chief economist of Bandhan Bank.

Economists and bond market dealers now expect an imminent reverse repo hike, possibly in December itself, as a signal of policy normalisation. Without knowing of his continuance at the RBI, Das could have been circumspect in taking bold policy calls, analysts said.

With the repo rate at 4 per cent, and the reverse repo at 3.35 per cent, the policy rate corridor has widened to 65 basis points from its usual 25 basis points. This has to be brought back to 25 basis points.

The central bank has started its normalisation exercise despite being cautious in terming it as such. In many ways, the RBI has followed policies of central banks of developed countries, shaping them in accordance with India's requirements.

"The next three years will be equally crucial for the governor. In particular, the current dispensation at the RBI has firmly stamped a new discourse in monetary policy by adopting a discretion-based policy approach and putting the RBI at the same pedestal with the European Central Bank and US Federal Reserve, which was hitherto absent," said Soumya Kanti Ghosh, group chief economic advisor at State Bank of India.

Like the US Fed, the RBI under Das is taking baby steps towards policy normalisation. In the October monetary policy, the central bank stopped further liquidity infusion, and then with a higher amount of variable rate reverse repo (VRRR), which will run up to ₹6 trillion in December, the central bank will slowly remove the liquidity.

On Wednesday, the central bank announced a 28-day VRRR, in addition to its 14-day VRRRs. The idea is to keep liquidity out of the system for a longer period. VRRR, as Das had explained in his speech during the monetary policy press conference, is voluntary, but given the incentive of higher returns, all the past VRRRs have been successful.

Apart from policy normalisation, the central bank has other pressing issues that the governor is expected to address, for example, the bad debt issue of Indian banks.

Indices..

These include tapering by the US Federal Reserve, possible rate hikes by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) early next year, and India's record valuation premiums compared with other emerging markets (EMs).

Market experts said FPIs were re-allocating some of their funds by pulling out of India and investing in markets such as Indonesia and China.

JioPhone...

Also for the first time, phones in the entry-level category are getting a financing option. Jio and Google said in a joint announcement on Friday.

The phone will be available for purchase on Jio Mart's digital network of 30,000 partners across the country.

"I have always been a firm believer in the power of digital revolution to enrich the lives of 1.35 billion Indians. We have done it in the past with connectivity. Now we are enabling again with the smartphone device," Reliance Industries Chairman Mukesh Ambani said in a statement.

Google Chief Executive Officer Sundar Pichai said: "The JioPhone Next is an affordable smartphone designed for India... To build it our teams had to work together to solve complex engineering and design challenges and I am excited to see how millions will use these devices to better their lives and communities."

The phone has some differentiated features such as the voice assistant, read aloud function, and language translator, and allows users to share files, photos, or videos without the internet. Jio had tied up with UTL Neolyns to manufacture the handsets.

While the previous Jio phones could be used only with a Jio SIM card, the new smartphone has two SIM slots. However, in the JioPhone Next, the data service will be available only with a Jio SIM card but customers can use the SIM of other service providers for voice calling.

IDC India Research Director Navkendar Singh said half the country's feature phone users used handsets in the ₹1,000-1,200 price range and Jio's objective was to capture customers from this segment.

Prabhu Ram, head of industry intelligence of market research firm CyberMedia Research, said JioPhone Next would be a potential market disruptor.
