Israel-Hamas war likely to impact future I2U2 projects

ASITRANJAN MISHRA
 New Delhi, 1 January

The Israel-Hamas war is likely to impact future collaboration efforts by the India-Israel-United Arab Emirates-United States (I2U2) countries, though the initial project implementation in India is unlikely to be affected. "Until the Israel-Hamas war reaches some kind of conclusion, it will be difficult for the UAE to come to the table with Israel at the I2U2 forum. While the ongoing projects in India are not going to be impacted, the ambitious plans for collaborations elsewhere, including in Africa, will be impacted," a government official said, requesting anonymity. I2U2 was conceptualised during a meeting of the foreign ministers of the four countries in October 2021. Prime Minister Narendra Modi, his then Israeli counterpart Yair Lapid, UAE President Sheikh Mohamed bin Zayed Al Nahyan, and US President Joe Biden participated in the first Leaders' Summit of I2U2, held virtually in July 2022. Touted as the West Asian Quad, I2U2 has agreed to identify bankable projects to increase joint investment in six critical areas: water, energy, transportation, space, health, and food security. The group aims to mobilise private sector capital and expertise to achieve a variety of goals, including modernising infrastructure, advancing low carbon development pathways, and improving public health. In reply to an email query by Business Standard, a State Department spokesperson said no upcoming events for I2U2 were scheduled at this time. "I2U2 has transformed from concept to reality, working to tackle global challenges and advance economic opportunities. This fall, we launched the I2U2 Private Enterprise Partnership, released the official I2U2 website to enable submission of new projects, and announced a new joint space venture," he said. After a long pause, progress has been made for the UAE investment in a food park in Gujarat under the I2U2 framework that will focus on food items such as banana, potato, rice, and onions, with India waiving the Essential Commodities Act for processing and export of such items. "India will provide appropriate land for the project and will facilitate farmers' integration into the food parks. The US and Israeli private sectors will be invited to lend their expertise and offer innovative solutions that contribute to the overall sustainability of the project. These investments will help maximise crop yields and, in turn, help tackle food insecurity in South Asia and the Middle East," the I2U2 joint statement released in July 2022 said.

An official said it would be difficult for the UAE to come to the table with Israel at the I2U2 forum until the war reaches some kind of conclusion

RBI dy guv flags AI risks in financial institutions

AATHIRA VARIER
 Mumbai, 1 January

Reserve Bank of India's Deputy Governor M Rajeshwar Rao flagged concerns over data bias, governance, and transparency from the increased use of artificial intelligence (AI) deployed by financial institutions. "While some of these concerns are design specific risks such as biases and robustness issues, others are more traditional and user specific such as data privacy, cybersecurity, consumer protection, and preserving financial stability," Rao said, speaking at the 106th annual conference of the Indian Economic Association in Delhi on December 22. The RBI uploaded a copy of the speech on its website on Monday. He categorised these risks into three broad sets — data bias and robustness, governance, and transparency. According to Rao, AI is only as good as the data on which it has been trained and, therefore, can inherit the biases and errors in the training data, whereas humans accumulate these from their lifetime of exposure and experience. Also, there are other risks and vulnerabilities to the AI like — arbitrary code execution, data poisoning, data drift, unexpected behaviour, and biased predictions which financial institutions need to be careful about while deploying. On the governance front, AI is likely to pose some novel challenges, particularly where the technology is used to facilitate autonomous decision-making and is expected to limit or potentially eliminate human judgement and oversight. Some of the data and model issues, such as prompt injection, hallucinations, and toxic output, can have implications for governance frameworks. This may necessitate that regulators and the management have a re-look at the frameworks.

3 shot dead, 5 injured in Manipur's Thoubal, curfew back in valley

Three people were allegedly shot dead and five others injured in Manipur's Thoubal district on Monday evening, following which curfew was reimposed in the five valley districts of the state, officials said.

Gunmen, who are yet to be identified, arrived in camouflage dresses in the Lilong Chingjao area, and opened fire targeting locals, they said. While three people died on the spot, five others were injured. Those injured were admitted to a hospital, officials said. After the attack, the enraged locals set three four-wheelers on fire. It was not immediately clear to whom these cars belonged. Following the fresh violence, curfew was reimposed in Thoubal, Imphal East and Imphal West, Kakching and Bishnupur districts, officials said. In a video message, Chief Minister N Biren Singh condemned the violence, and appealed to the people, particularly the residents of Lilong, for maintaining peace. "Police are working to arrest those behind the attack. They will be arrested soon and punished as per the law," he said. PTI

It was unanimous decision to keep Ayodhya verdict anonymous: CJI

Rubbishes allegations against collegium, refuses to respond to criticism over Art 370

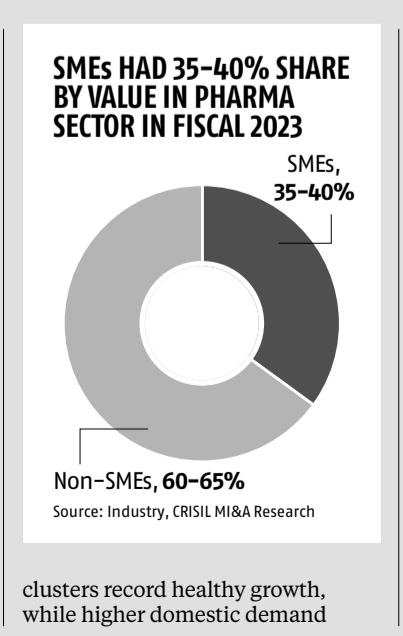

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
 New Delhi, 1 January

More than four years after the historic Ayodhya verdict of the Supreme Court, Chief Justice of India D Y Chandrachud on Monday said the five-judges, who ruled in favour of construction of a Ram temple by a trust at the disputed site, had unanimously decided there would be no authorship ascribed to the judgement. On November 9, 2019, settling a fractious issue that went back more than a century, a five-judge Bench headed by the then CJI Ranjan Gogoi had paved the way for construction of the temple and ruled that an alternative five-acre plot will be found for a mosque in the holy town in Uttar Pradesh. In an exclusive interview with PTI, CJI Chandrachud, who was part of the constitution Bench, candidly spoke on the issue of anonymity and said, when the judges sat together, as they do before a pronouncement, it was unanimously decided that this will be a "judgement of the court". The CJI rubbished the allegation about lack of transparency in the collegium system where judges appoint judges to constitutional courts and desisted from responding to criticism of the Supreme Court judgement upholding the abrogation of Article 370 of the Constitution that bestowed special status on the erstwhile state of Jammu and Kashmir. Justice Chandrachud also dealt with questions about criticism by eminent lawyers on allocation of cases to particular judges and 'bench hunting', and said the allocation of cases is not "lawyer-driven" and vowed to maintain the credibility of the institution of the Supreme Court. On the issue of denial of same-sex marriage rights the queer community, he said, the outcome of a case is never personal to a judge and he has no regrets.

CRISIL SME TRACKER HIGHER DEMAND TO PUT PHARMA SMEs IN THE PINK OF HEALTH

Robust domestic demand and exports to regulated markets will likely provide a booster dose to pharmaceutical sector revenue this fiscal despite tepid export demand from semi-regulated markets on account of currency volatility, low forex reserves and geopolitical risks. This augurs well for small and medium enterprises (SMEs), which have a 35-40 per cent share in industry revenue. Typically, these SMEs manufacture and market formulations based on less complex molecules, given their higher exposure to generic products. They benefit from their presence across the value chain and also as contract manufacturers for large players. Last financial year, these entities had logged 7-9 per cent growth. The exports tonic helped the Ahmedabad and Mumbai SME propped up the Indore and Chennai clusters. This fiscal, these entities are expected to grow 9-11 per cent, led by domestic demand. Exports, accounting for 50 per cent in industry revenue, will also likely recover. The domestic pharmaceuticals market grew a moderate 2.9 per cent on-year in November on a high base and a slower increase in price and new launches. Select key therapies — analgesics, anti-infectives and respiratory therapies — provided support. Over the medium term, the Production Linked Incentive scheme for the pharmaceutical sector is expected to boost domestic manufacturing while reducing import dependency for bulk drugs. Hence, the scheme could help some SMEs diversify their portfolios and improve export growth.
