CHAIRMAN'S DESK

Dear valued stakeholders,

As the Chairman of Eighty Jewellers Limited, it gives me immense pleasure and honour to present the annual report for the financial year 2022-23. I hope this letter finds you all in good health and high spirits.

The year 2022-23 marked a significant milestone for Eighty Jewellers as we achieved a major accomplishment by getting our shares listed on the Bombay Stock Exchange on April 13th, 2022. The listing received an overwhelming oversubscription, which speaks volumes about the trust and loyalty that our stakeholders have bestowed upon the company. This listing has not only increased brand awareness but also paved the way for expanding our franchise stores in the coming years. Additionally, we are actively exploring new possibilities to introduce new brands under the umbrella of Eighty Jewellers.

To enhance our ground-level presence, we have planned to open new showrooms, while adopting an asset-light approach by expanding through the franchisee model. Our ultimate objective is to establish stores worldwide, providing a seamless experience to our valued customers across different regions.

During the year, the gold market experienced significant volatility, making it challenging to predict its trend. Despite these fluctuations, Eighty Jewellers managed to maintain a satisfactory performance. While the market was in a recovery stage after the COVID-19 pandemic, military conflicts between foreign countries may have contributed to its pullback, impacting our sales during the second half of the year.

Nevertheless, it is worth mentioning that the pandemic has also led to an increased demand for gold as a safe-haven asset, a trend likely to continue in the coming years. Gold has proven to be one of the best investments, serving as a powerful inflation hedge, and its prices have remained largely unaffected by inflationary pressures.

We are committed to upholding our reputation for excellence and customer satisfaction. Our relentless pursuit of innovation and customer-centricity will continue to be the driving force behind our growth and success.

Since the government has made HUID (hallmarking unique identification number) mandatory, it has brought about a welcome era of transparency and fairness in dealings. This move has greatly benefited customers and has also encouraged healthy competition among players in the industry. Additionally, the favourable policy reforms announced by the government have empowered the industry, positioning it firmly to capitalize on growth opportunities in the upcoming decade.

As a responsible player in the industry, Eighty Jewellers, have embraced these changes and actively contributed to the transformation of the gold market into an organized sector. By doing so, we have introduced price transparency, ensured product quality, and improved customer service, all while creating a better retailing experience for our valued customers.

Looking ahead, the global market for gems and jewellery is expected to witness significant growth, driven by increasing demand from emerging markets. Moreover, the rise of online shopping is anticipated to further boost the industry's expansion. Fortunately, our company is well-prepared to leverage these opportunities, thanks to our strong track record of innovation and commitment to delivering top-notch products and services.

None of this would be possible without the dedication of our outstanding employees. Their unwavering devotion to their work has been the driving force behind Eighty Jewellers' continuous growth over the years. To support our talented workforce, we regularly organize various refreshment and training programs, ensuring they have access to both entertainment and learning opportunities all in one place.

As we expand our reach by increasing the number of outlets, we are not only further establishing our brand but also creating more employment opportunities. This growth not only benefits our company but also contributes positively to the overall economy.

In conclusion, the industry's transformation, government support, and our commitment to excellence have positioned us for a promising future. We remain grateful for the trust and loyalty of our customers and the dedication of our employees, and we eagerly anticipate the exciting prospects that lie ahead.

I would like to place on record my heartfelt gratitude to all employees for their unwavering commitment and team spirit and our sincere thanks to bankers, all our shareholders, suppliers, media personnel and customers who have extended their valuable support in this incredible journey of trust and confidence.

CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER

Dear valued stakeholders,

It is with great honour and pleasure that I present to you Eighty Jewellers Limited's Annual Financial Report for the financial year ended March 31, 2023.

In a market characterized by fierce competition and fragmentation, our journey has been guided by market trends and customer preferences. The organized retail jewellery sector faces intense competition from the unorganized sector, a challenge we embrace with determination and innovation. As a market pull industry, the Gems & Jewellery sector responds to the demand for its products, driven by various factors.

We recognize that our success is built on the foundation of customer preferences, and as people's wealth and disposable income grow, so does their inclination to indulge in luxury goods, including gems and jewellery. These exquisite pieces continue to hold significance as cherished gifts for special occasions, be it weddings, birthdays, or anniversaries. Moreover, the ever-changing fashion trends also influence the popularity of different gemstones and jewellery styles. Cultural values play a vital role as well, with gems and jewellery often symbolizing wealth, status, and beauty in various cultures.

During this financial year, we encountered challenges in the form of volatile gold prices and foreign conflicts. Nonetheless, our performance was satisfactory, as we achieved a turnover of Rs. 9,390.85 lakhs, resulting in a commendable Profit after tax of Rs. 141.69 lakhs. The earnings per share (EPS) for the financial year 2022-23 stood at Rs. 1.39.

We attribute a significant portion of our sales success to our flagship showroom in Bilaspur (C.G). The unwavering dedication of our employees played a pivotal role in achieving positive results, with the latter half of the year demonstrating notable growth.

As we set our sights on the future, we are confident in our ability to perform even better in the upcoming financial year 2023-24. Several reasons underpin our optimism:

- a) Opening new branches and franchisees in the coming year will contribute to improved results on a full-year basis.
- b) Efforts to enhance stocks rotation will likely yield incremental improvements in sales.
- c) Listing our shares on the stock exchange will enhance the visibility of our brand, potentially leading to better sales.
- d) The presence of increased organized players in the market will contribute to improved overall results.

e) The increased purchasing power of consumers has been a catalyst, transforming aspiring individuals into actual buyers.

f) Our strategic foray into the online E-commerce realm (B2B/B2C) will further expand our market reach.

g) We are excited to introduce lightweight jewellery to our collection, catering to contemporary preferences.

Our success would not be possible without the steadfast support of our customers, shareholders, bondholders, banks, analysts, rating agencies, business partners, and key advisors. Your trust in Eighty Jewellers and your unwavering support in adopting the right measures have empowered us to emerge stronger, ready to seize the opportunities that lie ahead.

We look forward to embarking on this journey together and continuing to create timeless and cherished memories with our exquisite creations.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

This responsibility also includes the maintenance of adequate accounting records in accordance with the provision of the Act for safeguarding of the assets of the Company and for preventing and detecting the frauds and other irregularities; selection and application of appropriate accounting policies; making judgments and estimates that are reasonable and prudent; and design, implementation and maintenance of adequate internal financial control, that were operating effectively for ensuring the accuracy and completeness of the accounting records, relevant to the preparation and presentation of the financial statements that give a true and fair view and are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Company's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management either intends to liquidate the Company or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

The boards of directors are also responsible for overseeing the company's financial reporting process.

Auditor's Responsibility for the Audit of the Financial Statements:

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with SAs will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with SAs, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- 1) Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.

- 2) Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances. Under section 143(3)(i) of the Companies Act, 2013, we are also responsible for expressing our opinion on whether the company has adequate internal financial controls system in place and the operating effectiveness of such controls.
- 3) Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.
- 4) Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Company's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Company to cease to continue as a going concern.
- 5) Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.

Materiality is the magnitude of misstatements in the financial statements that individually or in aggregate, make it probable that the economic decisions of a reasonably knowledgeable user of the financial statements may be influenced. We consider, quantitative materiality and qualitative factors in:

- (i) Planning the scope of our audit work and in evaluating, the results of our work; and
- (ii) to evaluate the effect of any identified misstatements in the financial statements.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards. From the matters communicated with those charged with governance, we determine those matters that were of most significance in the audit of the financial statements of the current period and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our auditor's report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matter or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.

Management’s Responsibility for Internal Financial Controls

The Company’s management is responsible for establishing and maintaining internal financial controls based on the internal control over financial reporting criteria established by the Company considering the essential components of internal control stated in the Guidance Note on Audit of Internal Financial Controls over Financial Reporting issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (‘ICAI’). These responsibilities include the design, implementation and maintenance of adequate internal financial controls that were operating effectively for ensuring the orderly and efficient conduct of its business, including adherence to company’s policies, the safeguarding of its assets, the prevention and detection of frauds and errors, the accuracy and completeness of the accounting records, and the timely preparation of reliable financial information, as required under the Companies Act, 2013.

Auditors’ Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the Company's internal financial controls over financial reporting based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with the Guidance Note on Audit of Internal Financial Controls Over Financial Reporting (the “Guidance Note”) and the Standards on Auditing, issued by ICAI and deemed to be prescribed under section 143(10) of the Companies Act, 2013, to the extent applicable to an audit of internal financial controls, both applicable to an audit of Internal Financial Controls and, both issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India. Those Standards and the Guidance Note require that we comply with ethical requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether adequate internal financial controls over financial reporting was established and maintained and if such controls operated effectively in all material respects.

Our audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the adequacy of the internal financial controls system over financial reporting and their operating effectiveness. Our audit of internal financial controls over financial reporting included obtaining an understanding of internal financial controls over financial reporting, assessing the risk that a material weakness exists, and testing and evaluating the design and operating effectiveness of internal control based on the assessed risk. The procedures selected depend on the auditor’s judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion on the Company’s internal financial controls system over financial reporting.

Meaning of Internal Financial Controls over Financial Reporting

A company's internal financial control over financial reporting is a process designed to provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting and the preparation of financial statements for external purposes in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. A company's internal financial control over financial reporting includes those policies and procedures that (1) pertain to the maintenance of records that, in reasonable detail, accurately and fairly reflect the transactions and dispositions of the assets of the company; (2) provide reasonable assurance that transactions are recorded as necessary to permit preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, and that receipts and expenditures of the company are being made only in accordance with authorizations of management and directors of the company; and (3) provide reasonable assurance regarding prevention or timely detection of unauthorized acquisition, use, or disposition of the company's assets that could have a material effect on the financial statements.

Inherent Limitations of Internal Financial Controls over Financial Reporting

Because of the inherent limitations of internal financial controls over financial reporting, including the possibility of collusion or improper management override of controls, material misstatements due to error or fraud may occur and not be detected. Also, projections of any evaluation of the internal financial controls over financial reporting to future periods are subject to the risk that the internal financial control over financial reporting may become inadequate because of changes in conditions, or that the degree of compliance with the policies or procedures may deteriorate.

Opinion

In our opinion and according to the information and explanations given to us, the Company has, in all material respects, an adequate internal financial controls system over financial reporting and such internal financial controls over financial reporting were operating effectively as at 31st March, 2023, based on the internal control over financial reporting criteria established by the Company considering the essential components of internal control stated in the Guidance Note on Audit of Internal Financial Controls Over Financial Reporting issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India.

GEMS & JEWELLERY INDUSTRY OVERVIEW AND DEVELOPMENTS

The gems and jewellery industry in India stands as one of the largest and most significant sectors, playing a crucial role in the country's economy through its substantial contributions to exports and employment. Beyond its economic impact, this industry acts as a catalyst for innovation and creativity, perpetually giving rise to fresh designs and products.

Comprising several distinct segments, the gems and jewellery industry follows a comprehensive process. The mining segment takes charge of extracting raw diamonds, gemstones, and other precious materials from the depths of the earth. These raw materials then undergo a transformation in the cutting and polishing segment, resulting in exquisite finished jewellery pieces. The manufacturing segment handles the creation of various components, such as settings, chains, and clasps, which are essential in crafting the final pieces. Lastly, the retail segment takes the reins in making these exquisite jewels available to consumers.

The industry thrives on innovation and creative exploration, continually pushing the boundaries of design and craftsmanship. This relentless pursuit of advancement often incorporates cutting-edge technologies to enhance operational efficiency and quality. As a result, India has emerged as one of the world's leading producers and exporters of gems and jewellery.

Through this persistent pursuit of excellence, the gems and jewellery industry in India has beautified itself, exuding a mesmerizing allure that captivates both domestic and global audiences. Its impact on the economy and employment landscape is undeniable, cementing its position as a vital cornerstone of India's industrial and creative process.

The growth of the global gems and jewellery market is being driven by a number of factors, including:

·Rising demand from emerging markets: Emerging markets are showing strong demand for gems and jewellery. This is due to the growing affluence of these markets, as well as the increasing popularity of Western fashion trends.

Increasing popularity of online shopping: Online shopping is becoming increasingly popular, and this is also boosting the demand for gems and jewellery. This is because online retailers offer a wider variety of products at lower prices than traditional brick-and-mortar stores.

Growing demand for eco-friendly products: There is a growing demand for eco-friendly products, and this is also having an impact on the gems and jewellery industry. Consumers are increasingly looking for jewellery that is made from sustainable materials, such as recycled gold and diamonds.

The gems and jewellery industry is a global industry, and it is subject to a number of risks, including:

Economic volatility: The global economy is volatile, and this can have an impact on the demand for gems and jewellery.

Political instability: Political instability can also have an impact on the demand for gems and jewellery.

Natural disasters: Natural disasters, such as earthquakes and floods, can also disrupt the supply of gems and jewellery.

Despite these risks, the gems and jewellery industry is a resilient industry, and it is expected to continue to grow in the coming years. In India this industry is one of the largest contributors to the global jewellery & diamond market and occupies a very significant position in the Indian economy.

OPPORTUNITIES AND THREATS FOR INDUSTRY

The gems and jewellery industry is a global industry that is worth trillions of dollars. The industry is constantly evolving, and there are a number of opportunities and threats that the industry is facing.

OPPORTUNITIES

Growing middle class in emerging markets: The middle class in emerging markets is growing rapidly, and this is creating a new market for gems and jewellery. Consumers in these markets are increasingly looking for affordable and stylish jewellery, and the gems and jewellery industry is well-positioned to meet this demand.

Increased demand for sustainable and ethical jewellery: Consumers are becoming more aware of the environmental and ethical impact of the gems and jewellery industry. This is leading to an increased demand for sustainable and ethical jewellery. The gems and jewellery industry can capitalize on this trend by offering products that are made with recycled materials or that are sourced from ethical mining operations.

Advances in technology: Advances in technology are opening up new opportunities for the gems and jewellery industry. For example, 3D printing is being used to create custom jewellery, and blockchain technology is being used to track the provenance of gems. These technologies can help the gems and jewellery industry to improve its efficiency and transparency, and they can also help to create new products and services.

The rise of e-commerce: The rise of e-commerce is creating new opportunities for the gems and jewellery industry. Consumers are increasingly buying gems and jewellery online, and this is opening up new markets for the industry.

The increasing popularity of lab-grown gems: Lab-grown gems are becoming increasingly popular, as they are often more affordable than natural gems. This is an opportunity for the gems and jewellery industry to offer consumers a more affordable option.

The growing demand for personalized jewellery: Consumers are increasingly looking for personalized jewellery, and this is an opportunity for the gems and jewellery industry to offer customized products.

THREATS

Economic downturn: A global economic downturn could lead to a decline in demand for gems and jewellery. This is because consumers may be less likely to spend money on luxury items during a recession.

Increased competition: The gems and jewellery industry is facing increased competition from other industries, such as fashion and technology. These industries are also offering products that are stylish and affordable, and this could make it difficult for the gems and jewellery industry to compete.

Counterfeiting: The counterfeiting of gems and jewellery is a major problem that is costing businesses billions of dollars each year. Counterfeit gems and jewellery are often made with inferior materials and may not be safe to wear. This can damage the reputation of the gems and jewellery industry and make it difficult for consumers to trust that they are buying genuine products.

The increasing regulation of the gems and jewellery industry: The gems and jewellery industry is facing increasing regulation, as governments are becoming more concerned about the environmental and ethical impact of the industry. This could make it more difficult for businesses to operate in the industry.

The growing popularity of alternative materials: Consumers are increasingly looking for alternative materials to use in jewellery, such as wood, plastic, and metal. This could pose a threat to the gems and jewellery industry, as it could lead to a decline in demand for traditional gemstones.

The increasing popularity of sustainable and ethical jewellery: Consumers are becoming more aware of the environmental and ethical impact of the gems and jewellery industry. This could lead to an increase in demand for sustainable and ethical jewellery, which could pose a threat to businesses that do not offer these products.

The gems and jewellery industry is facing a number of challenges, but it is also an industry with a lot of potential. The industry needs to adapt to the changing landscape and address the threats that it is facing in order to ensure its long-term sustainability. RISKS & CONCERNS

Import Dependency

Raw materials play a major role in the gems and jewellery market. India imports almost 90% of the raw materials, especially raw diamonds and gold bars. As a result the gems and jewellery industry is vulnerable to any regulations that limit diamond and gold supply.

Unorganised Nature

The gems and jewellery industry in India is highly fragmented and unorganized. The industry is majorly dominated by small jewellery shops that are run by families for years. More customers prefer these shops as price fluctuations make organised jewellers increase the price of finished jewellery.

Trust and Transparency

The purchase of jewellery is an expensive transaction and also considered as a long term investment. Thus, Fair price, Trust & transparency become a major buying decision factor. Customer doubts and lack of knowledge on how to value the jewellery add to the buyer's discomfort.

Volatile Prices of Gems and Jewellery

The prices of gems and jewellery are highly volatile, which can make it difficult for businesses to plan for the future. This is especially true for businesses that rely on imported gems and jewellery, as the prices of these goods can be affected by a number of factors, including political instability, natural disasters, and economic sanctions.

Counterfeiting

The counterfeiting of gems and jewellery is a major problem that is costing businesses billions of dollars each year. Counterfeit gems and jewellery are often made with inferior materials and may not be safe to wear. This can damage the reputation of the gems and jewellery industry and make it difficult for consumers to trust that they are buying genuine products.

Labor Exploitation

The gems and jewellery industry is often associated with labor exploitation. This is especially true in the mining sector, where workers may be paid low wages and work in dangerous conditions. The gems and jewellery industry has a responsibility to ensure that its supply chains are free from labor exploitation.

Environmental Damage

The mining of gems and jewellery can have a significant impact on the environment. This is especially true for the mining of diamonds, which can pollute water supplies and contribute to deforestation. The gems and jewellery industry has a responsibility to minimize its environmental impact.

The rise of e-commerce: The rise of e-commerce is posing a challenge to traditional brick-and-mortar jewelers. Consumers are increasingly buying gems and jewellery online, which is making it difficult for traditional jewelers to compete.

The changing demographics of consumers: The demographics of consumers are changing, which is having an impact on the demand for gems and jewellery. For example, the number of millennials is growing, and this demographic group is more interested in buying sustainable and ethical jewellery.

The increasing popularity of lab-grown gems: Lab-grown gems are becoming increasingly popular, as they are often more affordable than natural gems. This is a threat to the natural gems industry, as it could lead to a decline in demand for natural gems.

The gems and jewellery industry is facing a number of challenges, but it is also an industry with a lot of potential. The industry needs to adapt to the changing landscape and address the risks and concerns that it is facing in order to ensure its long-term sustainability.

Not perceive any major or predictable threats except that the retail jewellery is already a working capital-intensive business and the demand for jewellery is now increasing beyond the traditional wedding jewellery. This increase in demand requires additional investment in inventory. Also though the diamond jewellery has higher margins it also has a much longer cash conversion cycle vis-a-vis gold and all of these factors have only increased the working capital intensity of the jewellery business.
