E-comm rules: Fight between Amazon, Flipkart vs Reliance, Tata to intensify

New Delhi, As e-commerce regulations are tightened, fight between foreign companies Amazon, Flipkart and Indian companies Reliance, Tata Group is set to intensify.

Foreign brokerage, Jefferies said in a note, "The proposed rules now target indirect ownership in vendors, own label, flash sales. Fight between foreign cos (Amazon, Flipkart) & Indian cos (Reliance, Tata Grp) is set to intensify."

India's e-commerce industry faces complex regulations, the note said. While B2B & single brand retail have a stable framework, FDI in inventory-led e-comm. is prohibited. 100% FDI is allowed in marketplace but regulations are evolving - 2018 rules pushed Amazon to reduce stake in a key seller.

In July-2020, new regulations were enacted with an intent to protect customer interest. However, in 2021, there have been amendments to those rules, still at a draft stage and open to public comments until 6-July - these are applicable to both Indian and foreign backed platforms, but seem more relevant for Amazon & Flipkart, based on our reading, Jefferies said.

Increase in the scope of related parties to now include common chain of directors, more than 10% common ultimate shareholders, 5% shareholding in related entities etc.

Related party, as defined above, cannot become a seller on the platform and also cannot do anything that e-commerce entity itself cannot do.

Marketplace cannot sell goods or services to any vendor on its platform. Marketplace name or brand cannot be used for the product - Amazon/Alexa for example, in our view; A-Marketplace subject to fallback when vendor fails to perform; flash sale favouring certain vendors only is not allowed etc; the note said.

Amazon started in 2013 as a marketplace but faced issues on FDI. In 2014, Amazon entered into a partnership with Catamaran Mgmt. Services (promoted by Infosys co-founder Narayana Murthy), which owned 51% while Amazon owned 49% in Prione Business which owned Cloutail India, the key vendor on Amazon India platform. However, the 2018 regulation pushed Amazon to reduce its stake to 24% with Catamaran now at 74%.

FDI in any form of retail was banned in India until 1996. However, 100% FDI was allowed in wholesale cash & carry in 1997 which was also extended to B2B e-commerce in 2000.

In 2006, 51% FDI was allowed in single-brand retail which was made 100% in 2012 with some restrictions (30% local sourcing etc.).

Single brand retailers have been also been allowed to run B2C e-commerce from 2015. In 2013, FDI was allowed in multi-brand retail (with some restrictions). However, the final approval was left to individual states and today, around 11 states and 1 Union Territory allow FDI, while rest do not. E-commerce models.

In 2016, the e-commerce policy allowed 100% FDI in marketplace but banned the inventory-led model. Over the years, the marketplace regulations have evolved covering aspects like control over inventory and direct/indirect investments in vendors. 2018 regulations.

The industry managed to create alternate structures in order to adhere to the regulations until 2017. This prompted lawmakers in 2018 to tighten their grip by restricting: a) control over inventory which covered cases where a vendor buys more than 25% of its products directly or indirectly (group firms of marketplace); b) direct or indirect ownership in vendor; c) level playing field & no preference to any vendor; d) no exclusive partnerships with vendors.

"I feel Bindi adds up to the beauty of Indian attires and completes the entire look", says Sucheta Khanna Mumbai, Her quirky portrayal of Bijli Devi and broken English have already made Sucheta Khanna a favorite amongst audiences with a lot of praises pouring in for Sony SAB's Jijaji Chhat Parr Koi Hai. But it is not just her performance that she acers at, the actress is quiet a pro when it comes to the fashion game as well. While her on-screen character calls for her to mostly wear sarees, she loves to experiment with her attires in real life and believes that Indian fashion is a complex mix of glamour and modesty, and one should carry it in a decent way. In a recent conversation, Sucheta Khanna revealed about her love for Indian attires and how she likes to do fusions for Indo-western looks: Talking about her favourite Indian attire and how she keeps up her fashion quotient, she said, "White Kurta-Pyjama is my favourite Indian attire and I believe there is nothing more relaxing, comforting, and classier than that and it also gives a deep sense of Indianness. I like to style my Indian outfits into Indo-western attires by fusing my Dhoti with a shirt and so on. I always try to keep my Indian look on-point and I feel accessories form a very important part of that, either oxidized earrings or huge necklaces. My personal favourite is the Maharani necklace but that can be worn on very rare occasions like wedding. Along with this, I feel Bindi adds on to the beauty of Indian attires and completes the entire look." Sucheta Khanna talking about her looks in the show said "In Jijaji Chhat Parr Koi Hai, I have got a chance to play a glamorous mother and my look is quite different from the other shows that I have done before, where I have majorly played a rural woman."
