Denmark to allow 'significantly reduced' mink production

COPENHAGEN: Denmark said on Friday that a temporary ban on mink breeding will expire on January 1, allowing mink production to resume but at a "significantly reduced" level than before the coronavirus pandemic. The government two years ago ordered a cull of millions of minks and banned their farming to minimise risk of the mammals retransmitting the virus.

7 killed in minibus accident in Nepal

KATHMANDU: A 25-year-old Indian was among seven people killed when the minibus they were travelling in met with an accident in Nepal's Bagmati province, police said on Friday. The accident happened when the bus heading towards Birgunj from Kathmandu overturned at a steep turning point in Jurikhet in Bagmati's Makawanpur district on Thursday. The Indian national — identified as Sharan Narayan Sharma, a resident of Motihari in Bihar — died on the spot.

US aircraft carrier arrives in S Korea

SEOUL: A nuclear-powered US aircraft carrier arrived in South Korea on Friday for its first combined drills after five years, as Washington and Seoul are striving to reinforce deterrence against evolving North Korean military threats. The USS Ronald Reagan docked at ROK Fleet Command in Busan, 390 km south of Seoul, amid worries about the possibility of the North staging a nuclear test or other provocations, reports Yonhap News Agency.

23 missing after boat capsizes

PHNOM PENH: At least 23 Chinese nationals were missing after a boat capsized in Cambodia, Beijing's Embassy in Phnom Penh confirmed on Friday. The Embassy said that it received a notification from the Cambodian Police Department on Thursday night, saying that the boat carried a total of 40 Chinese nationals on board, of which 18 were rescued following the accident, reports Xinhua news agency. Two Cambodian crew members involved have been arrested.

60 dead after migrant boat sinks

BEIRUT: The death toll from a boat carrying migrants from Lebanon that sank in Syrian waters has risen to 60, the governor of Syria's coastal province of Tartus said on Friday. Abdul-Halim Khalil told the pro-government Sham FM that search is ongoing for more bodies off his country's coast. Thousands of Lebanese, Syrians and Palestinians have left Lebanon on boats over the past months seeking better opportunities in Europe. Khalil said the boat sank two days earlier.

UK Home Minister visits Leicester

LONDON: UK Home Secretary Suella Braverman has met with local police officers and Hindu and Muslim community leaders in Leicester and assured them that thugs behind recent violent clashes would face the full force of the law. During a visit to the eastern England city on Thursday, the Indian-origin Cabinet minister was briefed by the Leicestershire Police chief and also leaders from local temples and mosques on the "serious disorder" which has resulted in 47 arrests.

Occupied parts of Ukraine vote in 'sham' referendum

KYIV: Voting began on Friday in Moscow-held regions of Ukraine on referendums to become part of Russia, Russian-backed officials there said.

The Kremlin-orchestrated referendums, which have been widely denounced by Ukraine and the West as shams without any legal force, are seen as a step toward annexing the territories by Russia.

The votes are being held in the Luhansk, Kherson and partly Russian-controlled Zaporizhzhia and Donetsk regions.

The vote, which asks residents if they want their regions to be part of Russia, is certain to go Moscow's way.

That would give Russia the pretext to claim that attempts by Ukrainian forces to regain control are attacks on Russia itself, dramatically escalating the seven-month war.

The referendums follow Russian President Vladimir Putin's order of a partial mobilisation, which could add about 300,000 Russian Election commission members with mobile ballot boxes leave the embassy of the self-proclaimed Donetsk People's Republic, the eastern Ukrainian breakaway region, in Moscow on Friday troops to the fight. The balloting will continue for five days through Tuesday.

As the votes were getting underway in the occupied regions, Russian social media sites were full of dramatic scenes of tearful families bidding farewell to men departing from military mobilisation centres.

In cities across the vast country, men hugged their weeping family members before departing as part of the draft. Russian anti-war activists, in the meantime, planned more protests against the mobilisation. Election officials will be bringing ballots to people's homes and setting up makeshift polling stations near residential buildings during the first four days of the referendums, according to Russian-installed officials in the occupied regions, who cited safety reasons.

UK SLASHES TAXES IN BID TO SPUR GROWTH

LONDON: Britain's new government on Friday announced a sweeping plan of tax cuts it said would be funded by borrowing and revenues generated by anticipated growth, as part of contentious moves to combat the cost-of-living crisis and bolster a faltering economy.

But Treasury chief Kwasi Kwarteng offered few details on the cost of the programme and its impact on the government's own targets for reducing deficits and borrowing.

The government's two-pronged approach offers short-term help for homes and businesses struggling with soaring energy costs while betting that lower taxes and reduced red tape will spur economic growth and increase tax revenues in coming years.

"We need a new approach

Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer Kwasi Kwarteng unveiling an anti-inflation budget plan at the House of Commons on Friday for a new era, focused on growth," Kwarteng told lawmakers in the House of Commons.

Friday's statement was billed as a "fiscal event" rather than a budget, because it wasn't accompanied by an analysis of its cost from the independent Office for Budget Responsibility.

Opponents said the government was dodging scrutiny.

The plan was immediately attacked by the opposition Labour Party for favouring the interests of business over working people and failing to provide any analysis about the impact on the government's fiscal targets.

Boeing to pay $200 mn to settle charges over 737

VIRGINIA: Boeing Co will pay $200 mn to settle charges that it misled investors about the safety of its 737 Max after two of the airliners crashed, killing 346 people.

The Securities and Exchange Commission said on Thursday it charged the aircraft maker and former CEO Dennis Muilenburg with making significant misleading public statements about the plane and an automated flight-control system that was implicated in the crashes in Indonesia and Ethiopia.

Neither Boeing nor Muilenburg admitted wrongdoing, but they offered to settle and pay penalties, including $1 million to be paid by Muilenburg, who was ousted in December 2019, nine months after the second crash. The SEC said Boeing and Muilenburg knew that the flight system, known as MCAS, posed a safety issue but promised the public that the plane was safe.

Actor Ryan Grantham gets lifer for mother's murder

WASHINGTON: Actor Ryan Grantham of 'Riverdale' fame has been sentenced to life behind bars for the murder of his mother in 2020.

According to Deadline, the by-the-book second-degree murder punishment without the possibility of parole for 14 years was given by British Columbia Supreme Court Justice Kathleen Ker on September 21 in Vancouver.

With the sentence already a foregone conclusion over the laws of the Canadian province, the only real wild card was how long the guilty pleading Grantham would have to wait before the currently 24-year-old could apply for parole.

Grantham, who is a Leo Awards nominee, turned himself to police soon after shooting his 64-year-old mother Barbara Waite in the back of the head on March 31, 2020, in the family's Squamish home.

In a hearing earlier this year, prosecutors recommended that Grantham receive parole ineligibility up to 18 years; however, his legal team suggested that it be 12 years. Seems like Justice Ker, in her ruling this week, met them in the middle.

It later was revealed in court that Grantham took video of the body and confessed to the killing on-camera.

After carefully arranging the body in a semi-religious scene a day later Grantham hit the road. With ever-changing intent, he at one point was going to try to kill Canadian PM Justin Trudeau, as he also wrote in a journal entered as evidence. Grantham also considered committing a mass shooting at Vancouver's Simon Fraser University or on the iconic Lions Gate Bridge.

4 killed, 10 wounded after blast near Kabul mosque

KABUL: At least four people are dead and 10 wounded after explosion went off near a mosque in Afghanistan's capital of Kabul on Friday, with a hospital confirming the number of casualties.

A column of black smoke rose into the sky and shots rang out several minutes after the blast in the city's diplomatic quarter.

The Italian Emergency Hospital in Kabul said it had received 14 casualties and that four people were dead on arrival.

Khalid Zadran, a spokesman for the Kabul police chief, said the blast targeted worshippers leaving the mosque after Friday prayers.

Interior Minister spokesman Abdul Nafi Takor said the blast went off on the main road near the mosque.

He said the cause was under investigation. Takor said police teams were at the site and that an investigation was underway.

The blast took place near the Wazir Akbar Khan mosque.

Booker Prize winner Hilary Mantel dies at 70

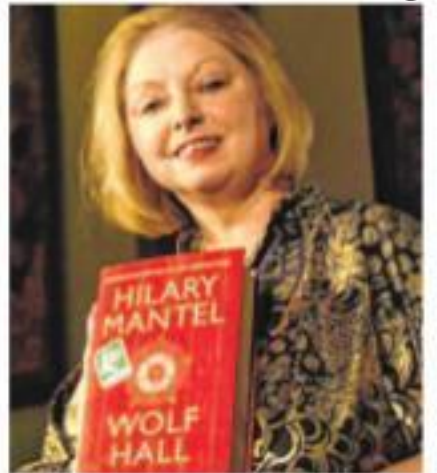

LONDON: Hilary Mantel, the British author of the best-selling Wolf Hall trilogy and the first woman to win the prestigious Booker Prize twice, has died. She was 70.

Mantel, regarded as one of the greatest English-language novelists of this century, died "suddenly yet peacefully" on Thursday surrounded by close family and friends, according to her agent.

A statement by publishers HarperCollins said: "We are heartbroken at the death of our beloved author, Dame Hilary Mantel, and our thoughts are with her friends and family, especially her husband." Born on July 6, 1952, in Glossop, Derbyshire, Mantel received the prestigious Booker twice, for 2009's Wolf Hall, the first in the Thomas Cromwell series, and the 2012 follow-up Bring Up the Bodies, which also won the 2012 Costa Book of the Year. To date, the Wolf Hall trilogy has been translated into 41 languages with over five million sales worldwide.

The conclusion to her trilogy, The Mirror and the Light, published in 2020 to much critical acclaim, became a fiction best-seller, and was in the long list for the Booker Prize 2020.

"Everyone at the Booker Prizes is deeply saddened to hear of the death of Hilary Mantel, four-time nominee and winner in 2009 and 2012. We send our sincere condolences to her family, friends and colleagues," The Booker Prizes said in a tweet. Ben Hamilton, who was Mantel's agent throughout her career, said it had been "the greatest privilege" to work with the writer. "Her wit, stylistic daring, creative ambition and phenomenal historical insight mark her out as one of the greatest novelists of our time," Hamilton said.

Nicholas Pearson, former publishing director of 4th Estate and Mantel's long-term editor, said the news was "devastating" to her friends and everyone who worked with her.

"Hilary had a unique outlook on the world — she picked it apart and revealed how it works in both her contemporary and historical novels — every book an unforgettable weave of luminous sentences, unforgettable characters and remarkable insight. She seemed to know everything. For a long time, she was critically admired, but the Wolf Hall trilogy found her the vast readership she long deserved," Pearson said.

HarperCollins CEO Charlie Redmayne said Mantel was a "writer to the core" who had "huge empathy for her subjects".

In an interview with the Financial Times newspaper on Sep 10, Mantel talked about her perennial conditions and said her "health is unpredictable".

Since her early 20s, Mantel suffered from debilitating health conditions. She was later diagnosed with endometriosis, a disease of the female reproductive system, due to which she had to undergo surgical menopause at the age of 27, leaving her unable to bear children.

UN rights experts present evidence of war crimes

GENEVA: A team of experts commissioned by the UN's top human rights body to look into rights violations in Ukraine said on Friday its initial investigation turned up evidence of war crimes in the country following Russia's invasion nearly seven months ago.

The experts from the Commission of Inquiry on Ukraine, mandated by Human Rights Council earlier this year, have so far focused on Kyiv, Chernihiv, Kharkiv and Sumy. Presenting their most extensive findings so far, they cited testimonies by former detainees of beatings, electric shocks and forced nudity in Russian detention facilities, and expressed grave concerns about executions in the four regions.

"We were struck by the large number of executions in the areas that we visited. The commission is currently investigating such deaths in 16 towns and settlements," Erik Mose, the commission chairman, told the council. He didn't specify who or which side in the war allegedly committed the killings.

Mose said they received and "credible allegations regarding many more executions." During a 10-day June trip to Ukraine, the team visited Bucha, a city outside Kyiv where Ukrainian authorities found mass graves and bodies strewn in the streets after Russian forces withdrew.
