'A few bad deeds by someone don't make the whole company bad'

GARRETT ILG, president, Oracle Japan and Asia Pacific, stresses integrity and transparency of the company's operations shall always be paramount. His remarks come in light of the recent charges against Oracle; it had to pay $23 million to the US Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) as it violated the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act. In an interview with Shivani Shinde, Garrett explains that compliance training for employees has become aggressive in the recent past. He also talks about the fast-growing demand for Oracle cloud solutions in India, role of the development centre, and changing culture at the company. Edited excerpts:

It is for a second time that Oracle has found itself embroiled in a corruption issue, which it has settled for a fee. What are your comments on the issue and what are the next

It is not something for which I have every piece of information. But what I can tell you is that we take such issues seriously. We are absolutely committed to both integrity and transparency of our operations. We have internal training programmes that are managed and measured, for all our employees around the world, and all of us have to go through this training as part of our compliance. We have become more aggressive over the past year on this.

From my leadership standpoint, there is absolutely no exception allowed and everything must be completely transparent, compliant, and within our policy and regulations, of both Oracle company and the environment that we operate in. And to that extent, it always takes precedence over any type of deal or opportunity, or transaction. There is no way that would ever be valued more than the integrity of the company and the respect we have for our customers and partners. With regards to this issue, we have amplified our training to make sure that we've got every single person registered and pass the compliance course.

We are not just making awareness but we're educating and making sure we reinforce that education within the firm.

...has it impacted the business in any way?

It's definitely a topic of conversation. We have been asked questions about it and we have addressed it with the exact same points that I have shared here.

It has not impacted our business. I think a lot of our customers understand that a few bad deeds by someone don't make the whole company bad and our job is to make sure that never any deed like that occur. We are responding and taking action on the issue. The president, Oracle Japan and Asia Pacific fact that we are addressing it, I think, will allow us to continue to pursue opportunities in front of us.

How is the Indian market in terms of spends on cloud and how is it growing for Oracle?

India is a very strategic region for Oracle. And unlike a lot of companies, India is very, very closely connected to the top leadership at Oracle. India has its own visibility within the company and there's a reason for that Even as I took over the role two-and-a-half years ago, I spoke to Safra (Catz, CEO) and I said we really do have some tremendous opportunities. India is a market that is innovating; it's got a middle class that is evolving rapidly, probably faster than anywhere else in the world. It's got a penchant towards innovation and the digital infrastructure is absolutely exploding.

How significant is India?

Very significant. We have two data regions in India (Mumbai & Hyderabad) and we are working on a third one with Airtel. Both our data regions are compliant with MeitY. Oracle India is a global enterprise for Oracle. We do so much of our global product development, support, consulting, customer service, etc. We have all facets of a global enterprise existing in Oracle India. And one of the things that it's really important to acknowledge is that the innovation is not just for our JPAC environment but all other geographies utilise expertise available in Oracle India. As a result, we're expanding in all directions, we've got more product capability, innovation capability, and cloud infrastructure and development.

एनसीएलटी ने मंजुर केलेल्या योजनेच्या बाबतीत संपादन तारीख असलेल्या निर्धारित तारीख १ एप्रिल, २०१९ पासून एमईएल एक सहयोगी चे एकत्रिकरण झाले, एनसीएलटीने मंज़र केलेल्या लेखा पद्धतीप्रमाणे, कंपनीने कंपनीच्या पुस्तकातील योजने मधून उदभवणाऱ्या सिक्युरिटीज प्रिमियमच्या शिलकी सापेक्ष निर्धारित तारखेस प्रदान केलेला मोबदला आणि अधिग्रहण केलेल्या निव्वळ मत्तांचे एकूण रास्त मूल्य यांच्यातून येणारा फरक अंशतः समायोजित केला आहे. पुढे, वरील निष्कर्षांमध्ये सादर केलेली प्रती भाग प्राप्ती ही कंपनीच्या वाढलेल्या भांडवलामुळे पुनरीचेत केली मागील वर्षाच्या तिमाही/अर्ध वर्ष/वर्षाच्या संबंधातील आकडेवारी व्यवस्थापनाने गणन आणि कथन केल्याप्रमाणे असून वैधानिक लेखापरीक्षकांनी
