YRF, Dharma clock blockbuster FY22 despite Covid pall

Yash Raj Films reported highest profit in seven years, while Dharma hit its pre-Covid profit level, but listed peers Balaji, Eros in the red Prime Video. Brahmastra: Part One - Shiva, the big release from Dharma, was out in theatres on September 9, 2022, and therefore part of the 2022-23 financial year. Eros and Balaji, on the other hand, reported a net loss of ₹7.6 crore and ₹132.3 crore each in FY22, reveals the data from Capitaline compiled by BS Research Bureau.

In terms of top line, YRF was almost back to pre-Covid levels in FY22, reporting net sales of nearly ₹632 crore. In FY20, net sales of YRF were ₹666.2 crore. In contrast, Dharma and Eros had recovered less than half of their pre-Covid sales revenue in FY22. Balaji was close to 60 per cent of its FY20 revenue, at ₹336.9 crore in FY22. Emails sent to YRF and Dharma seeking answers to the growth seen in profitability in FY22 elicited no response until the time of going to press. But conversations with film industry experts, analysts, and investment bankers reveal that the two companies managed to play on key strengths during the pandemic.

"YRF has a strong library of movie titles which it has leveraged over the years with tie-ups with groups such as Sony Pictures Networks earlier and then Disney Star (since 2019)," says a consultant with one of the country's Big Four audit firms, who has closely followed the media and entertainment industry.

"During the Covid-19 pandemic as digital adoption grew, YRF tied up with platforms such as Amazon Prime Video for its library of movie titles. That helped it maintain top line and bottom line in FY22 when theatrical revenues were down," he says.

YRF, according to rating agency Acuité Ratings & Research, has four main revenue streams, including film production, talent management, film licensing, and home entertainment. Of these, film production and film licensing, say experts, have been key revenue generators for it.

Acuité says that YRF's talent management wing, which works with actors like Ayushmann Khurrana, Anushka Sharma, Arjun Kapoor, and Bhumi Pednekar, was largely unaffected by the pandemic.

Alternatively, Dharma was quick to tap into the digital opportunity in entertainment well before the pandemic began. It launched a subsidiary called Dharmatic Entertainment in 2018 to make fiction and non-fiction shows for OTT platforms.

In the past few years, it has released two seasons of The Fabulous Lives of Bollywood Wives on Netflix, Season 7 of Koffee With Karan on Disney+ Hotstar, and Madhuri Dixit's digital debut The Fame Game on Netflix — all of which were top web shows, according to trade experts.

According to Shailesh Kapoor, founder and chief executive officer of Mumbai-based consultancy Ormax Media, India's OTT audience universe has grown rapidly since 2018, with a boost during the pandemic years of 2020 and 2021.

"India's OTT audience universe, which is defined as those who have watched a digital video at least once in the past month, was at 423.8 million at the end of 2022. The growth from 2021 to 2022 stood at a healthy 20 per cent, with 70.6 million entering the universe," says Kapoor.

India's OTT penetration now stands at 30 per cent, up from 25.3 per cent last year, observes Ormax Media.

According to Karan Taurani, senior vice-president-research at Mumbai-based brokerage Elara Capital, film production houses like YRF and Dharma have key releases this year, such as Tiger 3, starring Salman Khan (from YRF), Selfie, featuring Akshay Kumar and Emraan Hashmi (Dharma), and Yodha, starring Sidharth Malhotra (Dharma).

"The success of YRF's Pathaan and Dharma's Brahmastra has shown that Bollywood studios can adapt to the tastes of the post-pandemic viewer. Calendar 2023 could see these movie studios raise the bar further in terms of entertainment," says Taurani.

That could well rub off on both the top line and the bottom line.
