Non-coal mineral production: Minimal progress post reforms

SURYA SARATHI RAY
New Delhi, April 14

THE MINING SECTOR reforms brought in for the overall sectoral improvement with the amendment to Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act in 2015 have yielded only mixed results when it comes to production of non-coal, non-fuel minerals such as limestone, iron ore, bauxite and chromite ore.

Data collected from the mines ministry's annual reports reveal that while there had been a significant improvement in the production, measured in compound annual growth rate (CAGR), of iron ore and chromite between FY16-FY22 compared with FY12-FY15, it fell for bauxite ore and remained static for limestone during the same comparable period.

spread of the virus, the contribution of mining and quarrying sectors to gross domestic product (GDP) had been the lowest in six years in 2019-20 at 0.45%.

As per the provisional figures, in both 2020-21 and 2021-22, production of all these minerals has been lower than in 2019-20, the year before the pandemic struck. The data for 2021-22 are mines ministry's estimates.

Apart from Covid-induced lockdown that might have hampered production in the last two years, the fall in the number of producing mines (excluding atomic, fuel and minor minerals) from 3,524 in 2014-15 to 1,332 in 2020-21 also have contributed to the fall in production. Indian mining industry is characterised by a large number of small operational mines.

Even considering that the mineral output got hampered with the onset of the pandemic in 2020-21 and lockdowns imposed to rein in the

After the war: Russia, the West, and India

No matter how the war in Ukraine ends, Europe and the world will not be the same. Post Cold War relationships have been fundamentally -- perhaps permanently -- altered.

If Vladimir Putin remains in power, the United States will have to decide how to deal, in bilateral and multilateral fora, with the man it has called a war criminal.

In the United Nations, four members of the P5+1 will have to coordinate their strategy against the two remaining veto-wielding members of the Security Council, whom the war in Ukraine has brought very close in a shared hostility towards the West. Where does all of this leave India?

Its delicate tightrope walk between Russia and the West has already been frowned upon by important allies. It has crucial relationships on both sides, with far reaching economic and strategic implications.

What are the contours of the diplomatic challenge India faces in the coming years, and what choices can it be forced to make?
