RIL stock gains as Akash takes driver's seat at Jio

Succession plan triggers upgrades from brokerages

VIVEAT SUSAN PINTO
Mumbai, 29 June

Investors gave Reliance Industries (RIL) the thumbs up on Wednesday — a day after the company announced that chairman Mukesh Ambani was stepping down from the board of Reliance Jio Infocomm to make way for his son Akash.

The Ambani scion, who is 30, will take over as chairman of the board, the announcement said on Tuesday, coming at a time when telecommunication companies are preparing for 5G auctions next month.

RIL owns 67 per cent stake in Jio Platforms, which fully owns Reliance Jio Infocomm.

Shares of RIL closed trade nearly 2 per cent up on Wednesday over the previous day's close on the BSE at ₹2,579.05 apiece, even as the broader market continued to be weak.

The BSE Sensex was down 150.48 points to close trade at 53,026.97, down 0.28 per cent over the previous day's close.

In the last five days, the RIL stock is up 2.9 per cent, while shares of the company have been flat in the past three months, reveals data compiled by BS Research Bureau.

The RIL succession planning, according to experts, is in sharp contrast to the chaos that prevailed when Reliance Group patriarch Dhirubhai Ambani died without a Will 20 years ago.

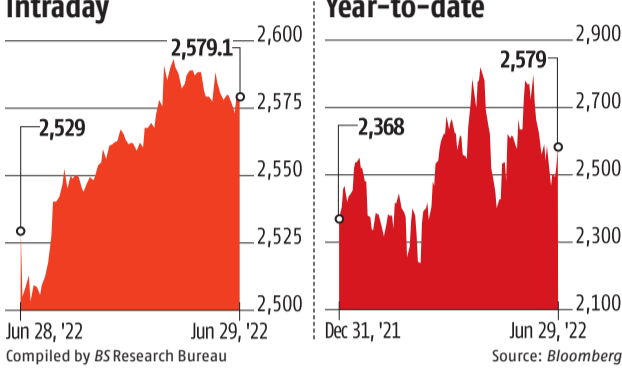

Back then, brothers Mukesh and Anil were at the centre of a bitter family feud, which eased following a separation of the business in 2005 brokered by their mother Kwikilaben.

Since then, the succession planning at Indian family businesses has streamlined, observed experts, as is evident with Akash's elevation. His twin sister Isha is expected to be elevated any time soon to the position of chairperson of Reliance Retail. She is currently director on the company's board.

The succession plan has also triggered upgrades from brokerages.

Bernstein on Wednesday raised its target price for RIL to ₹3,360, from ₹2,830, suggesting a 33 per cent potential upside over Tuesday's close.

Bernstein has followed peers Morgan Stanley, JPMorgan, and Jefferies — all of whom have turned bullish on the stock in the past few months.

Jefferies last week had maintained a price target of ₹3,400 — an upside of 34 per cent from the current levels.

Bernstein said it saw RIL's refining margins rise to a record level of $25.5 per barrel in 2022-23 (FY23).

The brokerage said tariff hikes would drive strong Jio results and that e-commerce acceleration across categories would lift retail segment numbers in the current financial year.

"The build-out of JioMart (e-commerce) and omnichannel presence, scaling up of the Jio platform, and investments in new energy to accelerate energy transition will all contribute to growth. With Reliance in the midst of a secular growth phase, we expect the combined earnings before interest, tax, depreciation, and amortisation (Ebitda) for the four businesses to increase 20 per cent compound annual growth rate in the next four years," the brokerage said in its note on Wednesday.

Bernstein said it expected FY23 Ebitda of ₹1.76 trillion for RIL — an increase of 48 per cent from 2021-22 (FY22) Ebitda of ₹1.19 trillion, ahead of the current consensus estimate of ₹1.47 trillion by analysts.

Oil-to-chemicals (O2C) earnings were expected to increase more than any other segment in FY23, driven by record refining margins, said Bernstein, due to exceptional market conditions, triggered by a reduction in supply of refined products from Russia and China.

"Based on our estimates, we believe the company's Ebitda can more than double from FY22 to 2025-26 (FY26) to ₹2.47 trillion, mainly through growth in new energy, digital, and retail, while O2C will see earnings normalise in 2023-24 onwards as refining margins regress to the longer-term average," it said.

According to Bernstein, O2C business' contribution to total Ebitda would be 48 per cent in FY23.

"Beyond FY23, digital and retail businesses will grow at a faster rate, which will limit the Ebitda contribution from O2C to around 20-30 per cent of total Ebitda. This still remains significant. Digital was the largest contributor of Ebitda in 2020-21 at 38 per cent, which will continue to represent 36 per cent of total Ebitda over the next five years. Retail (offline plus online) will grow from 12 per cent of total Ebitda in FY22 to 23 per cent by FY26," the brokerage added.

Have Form 16 from 2 employers? Do not claim tax benefits twice

A mistake in calculating tax liability could lead to notice from I-T department

BINDISHA SARANG

If you switched jobs in 2021-22, you will get two Form 16s — one from the current employer, another from the previous one. Filing income-tax return (ITR) with two Form 16s can be confusing at best.

Form 16 comprises two parts — A and B. Part A has taxpayer and employer details, service period, tax deducted, etc. Part B contains detailed computation of tax, as calculated by the employer.

Suresh Surana, founder, RSM India, says, "The computation provides details of salary income, including allowances and exemptions, other incomes, deductions, and tax payable."

Collect all forms

The first step to filing ITR is to collect Form 16 from current and previous employers. Next, consolidate all heads to arrive at gross salary earned from both employers during the previous financial year.

Maneet Pal Singh, partner, IP Pasricha & Co, says, "Consolidate salary from all employers by adding the amount shown under Section 17(1) of Form 16."

Avoid mistakes while calculating your total salary.

Suvigya Awasthy, associate partner, PSL Advocates & Solicitors, says, "If there is misreporting of salary, you could end up receiving a notice from the tax department regarding non-reporting of income."

Subtract house rent allowance (HRA), leave travel allowance (LTA), standard deduction, and other deductions under Sections 80C, 80D, 80E, etc from the salary for the entire financial year.

Various exemptions and deductions should be claimed only once.

Ashutosh K Srivastava, senior associate, SKV Law Offices, says, "When you have multiple Form 16s, you need to club certain information from both forms and claim various exemptions and deductions only once."

Salaried employees are eligible for

IF YOU HAVE FORM 16 ONLY FROM CURRENT EMPLOYER

■ Collect salary slips and salary break-up from your previous employer

■ Compute total gross salary by adding income from Form 16 (from current employer) and income from salary slips (from previous employer)

■ Deduct tax exemptions (HRA, LTA, etc) and standard deduction from salary income

■ Claim deductions under Sections 80C, 80D, etc from total taxable income (salary income, interest income from savings and term deposits, etc)

■ Once net taxable income is calculated, calculate income-tax liability, and deduct TDS

■ If there is any additional tax liability, pay it first before filing ITR

a standard deduction of ₹50,000. Sometimes, if you have two Form 16s from two employers, both could have factored in this deduction.

"Don't aggregate the two and arrive at a standard deduction of ₹1 lakh. An individual can claim a maximum of only ₹50,000 as standard deduction from his/her total salary income," says Surana.

After carrying out the above computations, calculate the tax liability after factoring in the tax deducted at source (TDS) taken off by both employers. It so happens that both employers would have given the employee the benefit of standard deduction, tax-saving investments, and slab-rate benefits. As a result, the employee may be liable to pay additional tax.

"This is specifically applicable to employees whose annual salary is ₹12 lakh or more," says Ankit Jain, partner, Ved Jain & Associates.

If you have any tax liability, pay it first and then file ITR.

Use the portal, but double-check

The tax department has eased the task of employees who have Form 16 from two employers. "The employee can use the facility provided in the tax-filing portal. He/she can simply fill out the details available in Form 16 from each employer individually. The portal will combine the incomes and determine the appropriate tax liability," says Jain.

However, the calculations done by the software must be double-checked for discrepancies (if any).

If you don't have a single Form 16

Taxpayers can file ITR even if they have not received Form 16 from either employer. Get details of salary, allowances, deductions, and TDS deducted from salary slips, and calculate gross taxable income. Don't forget to look up Form 26AS.

"Prepare a computation of income and tax liability based on such details, and claim eligible exemptions and deductions like standard deduction, HRA, 80C, etc. Pay tax liability and then file ITR," advises Singh.
