India now 2nd largest 5G smartphone mkt

China tops the charts with 32% share: Report

RIMJHIM SINGH
New Delhi, 6 September

According to a new report from Counterpoint Research, India has emerged as the world's second-largest market for 5G smartphones, trailing only behind China.

5G smartphones are becoming increasingly prominent across various price ranges in India. Prachir Singh, a senior analyst at Counterpoint Research, highlighted that significant contributions from brands like Samsung, Vivo, and Xiaomi, especially in the budget segment, have been key to this growth.

China maintains the leading position with a 32 per cent share of the global 5G smartphone market, while India holds 13 per cent. The US has fallen to third place with a 10 per cent market share.

Globally, Apple leads in 5G handset shipments with over 25 per cent of the market, predominantly driven by the iPhone 15 and iPhone 14 series. Samsung follows with over 21 per cent market share, thanks to its Galaxy A and S24 series. In the first half of 2024, Apple and Samsung each claimed five positions in the top ten list of 5G models, with Apple occupying the top four spots.

India has significantly boosted Xiaomi's growth, helping it secure the third position globally. According to Counterpoint Research, Xiaomi experienced a triple-digit growth rate in India and double-digit growth in the Middle East, Africa, Europe, and China.

Similarly, India has been a crucial growth engine for Vivo, along with China and other emerging Asian markets. Tarun Pathak, research director at Counterpoint Research, stated that in the first half of 2024, 5G-enabled devices made up more than 54 per cent of the total handset market, surpassing the 50 per cent threshold for the first time. "As the democratisation of 5G handsets increases with greater 5G penetration in lower price segments and the expanding reach of 5G networks, this trend will continue to grow. The ongoing global premiumisation trend will further fuel this growth. According to our market outlook, the 5G share will cross 57 per cent in 2024 and 65 per cent in 2025," he said.

Unicorn India Ventures looks to become cross-border fund

SHIVANI SHINDE
Mumbai, 6 September

Venture capital firm Unicorn India Ventures (UIV) is working towards becoming a cross-border venture firm, Founder and Managing Partner Bhaskar Majumdar said.

Cross-border funds have their unique advantages: they allow funds to build strong connections in two countries and create a network that encompasses both regions. In India, Nexus Venture Partners is the only venture capital (VC) that has this structure.

"Once we close the third fund, we will focus on setting up our operation in the US," Majumdar said.

For Majumdar, this is part of the strategy of reinventing UIV.

"I can carry on doing the same thing or reinvent ourselves and look at something which takes UIV into a different league," he said.

Other than the ability to attract limited partners to the fund, the other reason for UIV is to provide a networking platform for their portfolio firms aiming at international markets, particularly the US. "We want to build a large ecosystem in terms of VCs, team. But most importantly, this will give us the ability to co-invest and bring newer players into the ecosystem."

Today, after Series B, there are a handful of people who do the larger rounds of funding. We want to create an alternate source of capital," Majumdar said. He added that there are several options that can create co-investment opportunities.

"There are several family offices in the US who do not want to give money to a general partner directly, but they do not mind directly investing in the company. Second, there are several US firms who missed the India story and still want to invest. But then they are not the ones to set up an office and get a team to invest, as the market is already crowded, and then we can be their partner," he said. Recently, US-based General Catalyst, one of the largest VC players, acquired Venture Highway.

Meanwhile, UIV is halfway through raising its third fund of ₹1,200 crore. The VC firm has made four investments through its third fund, with six more in the pipeline.

UIV's first fund has returned 2.8x to investors, and Majumdar added that they will return 3-4x more to investors. The fund focuses on deep tech sectors like space tech, semiconductors, agri-tech, and agri-traceability.

HUL to evaluate its ice-cream business

SHARLEEN D'SOUZA
Mumbai, 6 September

Hindustan Unilever (HUL) on Friday decided at its board meeting to constitute a committee of independent directors to evaluate the prospects of the company's ice cream business.

The maker of Magnum ice cream said, "After due consideration, the board has decided to constitute a committee of independent directors of the company ('independent committee') to evaluate in detail the prospects of the company's ice cream business and to make recommendations to the board on the best way forward, keeping in mind the interest of all our stakeholders."

"Based on the recommendation of the independent committee, the matter will be placed for final consideration of the audit committee and the board at their respective meetings to be scheduled in due course," it said in a release.

In its stock exchange filing, the company said the board also accorded its approval to explore potential structures and alternatives for the ice cream business.

This comes after the parent company Unilever stated earlier this year it would separate its global ice cream business.

The ice cream business contributes less than 5 per cent to HUL's total turnover. In FY24, its turnover stood at ₹59,579 crore. In March, Unilever also announced the launch of a comprehensive productivity programme to drive focus and growth through a leaner and more accountable organisation. Unilever has also started the consultation process in Europe with employees who may be impacted by the proposed changes.

The Financial Times newspaper reported that the global consumer major's new CEO Hein Schumacher has planned this move to boost the company's growth. The move is expected to cut 3,200 roles across Europe and is part of the cost savings programme announced in March which includes 7,500 jobs.

HUL had earlier told Business Standard in an email statement that it would closely assess global initiatives of Unilever under the productivity programme and evaluate what works best for its business and its people after its parent told the employees that it would cut a third of its office-based jobs in Europe by the end of 2025.

"We will closely assess the global initiatives of Unilever under the productivity programme and evaluate what works best for our business and our people," HUL had said.

The ice cream business contributes less than 5% to HUL's total turnover

'Retail closure to focus on core cigarette biz'

Cigarette maker Godfrey Phillips India Ltd (GPI) Chairperson Bina Modi (pictured) on Friday defended the company's decision to close its retail business '24Seven', the brainchild of her estranged son Samir Modi, saying it was done with a view to focus on its core business.

At the annual general meeting of the company held on Friday, the special business of not filling up the vacancy 'for the time being' caused by retirement by rotation of Samir Modi was taken up along with the appointment of his sister Charu Modi as an executive director, among others for shareholders' approval.

In her address to the shareholders, Bina Modi said, "this focus on our core business is in consonance with the 'Theory of Core Competency' propagated by the late global management guru Professor CK Prahalad. This strategy has also led us to the closure of our retail business 24Seven. At times we need to bite the bullet in the long-term interest of the company and shareholders."

The firm's board will consider issuing bonus shares to existing shareholders in the ratio of 2:1.

A meeting of the board of directors is scheduled to be held on September 20. PTI

Reliance Infra weighs EV push, taps ex-BYD executive Reliance Infrastructure is considering plans to manufacture electric cars and batteries, and has hired a former India executive at China's BYD Co to advise on its plans, two sources briefed on the matter told Reuters.

The company, part of Anil Ambani's Reliance Group, has hired external consultants to conduct a "cost feasibility" study for setting up an EV plant with an initial capacity of about 250,000 vehicles a year, to be scaled up to 750,000 over some years, the first source said. It is also looking at the feasibility of building a battery plant starting with 10 gigawatt hours (GWh) of capacity and scaling up to 75 GWh over a decade, the person added.

Reliance Infrastructure did not respond to a request for comment on its plans, which are being reported for the first time. Shares of the company, which were down 0.2 per cent before the Reuters report, closed nearly 2 per cent higher after it was published. Former BYD executive Sanjay Gopalakrishnan, who has joined as a consultant to advise on the EV project, did not respond to a request for comment.

Electric models made up less than 2% of the 4.2 million cars sold in India last year, but the government wants to grow this to 30% by 2030. It has budgeted over $5 billion in incentives for companies locally manufacturing EVs and their components. Reliance Infrastructure is looking for partners, including Chinese companies, and is aiming to finalise its plans within a few months, the first source said. Government records reviewed by Reuters show Reliance Infrastructure in June formed two new wholly owned subsidiaries related to autos. REUTERS
