ministry statement said. "They agreed that it was necessary for both sides to sincerely implement the understandings reached between senior commanders," it said, referring to three meetings in June between military officers on reducing tensions through a gradual pull back of troops.

A fourth meeting, scheduled to happen next week, will look at moving back troops from problem areas such as the banks of Pangong Tso and the Depsang plains in Ladakh.

Since early this month, the two sides have implemented a slow pullback of troops from three friction points—PP (patrolling point) 14, 15 and 17A in Ladakh where tensions have been running high for the past two months.

This process is now complete, two people familiar with the matter separately said, adding that the next round of military talks would focus on drawing troops down from Pangong Tso as well as moving back military hardware like long-range artillery.

The WMCC meet came on a day the Chinese ambassador to India Sun Weidong sought to reach out to the Indian public in a video message where he said India and China should be partners rather than rivals.

The two countries need to build trust through mutual respect and treat each other as equals, he said. The ambassador also addressed those who were calling for a boycott of Chinese-made goods. He said non-tariff barriers and restrictive measures would be unfair to Chinese enterprises and Indian consumers.

Blanket moratorium after Aug is not needed: Kumar

SBI chairman says RBI will consult all lenders before deciding to extend moratorium

The chairman of India's largest lender State Bank of India on Friday tamped down rising expectations of another round of loan repayment moratoriums, saying a blanket extension of the deferment benefit is not required after 31 August.

The central bank in May had announced a three-month extension of the loan moratorium to 31 August. The covid-19 pandemic and the ensuing lockdown from 25 March had led to a near-halt of economic activities, rendering people jobless and affecting their repayment capabilities.

Speaking through a video-conference at the 7th SBI Banking and Economics Conclave, Rajnish Kumar said that while it was too early to say if there will be another extension, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) will have data from all lenders before taking a call.

"But if you ask me, an across-the-board moratorium is not required anymore. However, certain sectors may need some relief and, based on the data available with RBI, there will be a calibrated response," said Kumar.

The lender has $5.63 trillion of loans under moratorium, according to the bank's FY20 annual report. Kumar had told analysts on 5 June that of the 9.4 million term loan accounts, 900,000 have not paid any instalment, 700,000 have paid one instalment and the rest have paid two instalments. While calculating the moratorium numbers, Kumar had said on 5 June, if a borrower has paid two or more instalments, it was not considered a deferment.

According to Kumar, the economic crisis created by the coronavirus pandemic surpasses the 2008 financial crisis.

"The virus has become the talk of the town everywhere and there is hardly anyone who can claim that he or she is not impacted by the pandemic," he said, adding that while projections of the potential impact on the global economy vary widely, there is broad agreement that the economy will contract.

The economic recovery will be protracted over the next two to three years, with some sectors such as auto expected to pick up immediately, while others, including micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs) and real estate, taking longer, said top Indian industrialists.

The recovery will be uneven as a large number of MSMEs may shut shop unless the Centre intervenes, Hero Corporate Service Pvt. Ltd chairman Sunil Kant Munjal said at the State Bank of India economic conclave on Friday.

"Overall recovery will take two to three years, but we will see some sectors come up very quickly. There are some important sectors with large multipliers and large potential for employment, which are still struggling and will not be able to recover in time. There is a need for intervention. The government should be prepared not just for monetary support, but also to provide two more doses of fiscal support sectorally and maybe for individual entities," Munjal said.

Crisil's managing director and chief executive officer Ashu Suayash said while recovery will be slow it may not match pre-covid levels even in three years.

"We went into the pandemic with slowing consumption and employment being in question. Analysing 40,000 companies across 50 sectors with a wage bill of ₹12 trillion, we see vulnerability in 52% by size and 68% by number. This is a sharp cut in paycheck. Recovery is going to be slow. Even in three years we are not going to come back to pre-covid levels from the gross domestic product growth (GDP) perspective. We are talking about 10% loss in GDP. By design, this is going to happen in sectors that were vulnerable and have become more vulnerable," he said.

Even Ajay Piramal, chairman of Piramal group, expected a U-shaped recovery with different sectors witnessing consolidation. The concept of Atmanirbhar Bharat needs to be built up in a big way by supporting MSMEs, which have been the largest employers, he said.

Aviation sector is set to see a quick turnaround in the next 18 months, said Ronojoy Dutta, chief executive, IndiGo. Much of the growth will come from lower-end segment as fuel prices fall and airlines cut costs.

Data shows that passenger traffic across India is estimated to decline by 45-50% in FY21. International travel will be dependent on lifting of travel restrictions by countries, which is likely to happen in phases, he said.
