JAISHANKAR AT UN

'Days of a few nations setting agenda are over'

Says political convenience can't determine responses to terrorism, extremism

SUBHAYAN CHAKRABORTY
New Delhi, 26 September

With the voice of the Global South becoming louder and a more multipolar world emerging, the days of a few nations setting the global agenda and expecting others to fall in line are over, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar told the United Nations General Assembly (UNGA) session on Tuesday.

Speaking at the 78th annual session of the UNGA, Jaishankar said the international order was diverse and must cater for divergences, if not differences. In a comment on Western allies, such as the United States and France, who have remained on the fence with regard to Canada's allegations against India, Jaishankar said: "Must we countenance that political convenience determines responses to terrorism, extremism, and violence?"

In a direct comment on Ottawa, Jaishankar said: "Respect for territorial integrity and non-interference in internal affairs cannot be exercised in cherry-picking." Jaishankar hinted that these actions had further alienated nations of the Global South.

"When reality departs from rhetoric, we must have the courage to call it out. Without genuine solidarity, there can never be real trust. This is very much the sentiment of the Global South."

Jaishankar pointed out the recently concluded G20 Summit in New Delhi, arguing that India placed on the agenda

RESPECT FOR TERRITORIAL INTEGRITY AND NON-INTERFERENCE IN INTERNAL AFFAIRS CANNOT BE EXERCISED IN CHERRY-PICKING

the concerns of 125 nations from the Global South. "At a time when East-West polarisation is so sharp, and the North-South difference so deep, the New Delhi G20 Summit showed diplomacy is the only way forward," he said.

Common good

The minister stressed the point that the domestic and foreign policy goals set by India for itself would make it different from all those whose rise preceded ours. "All nations pursue their national inter-

Terrorists have found safe haven in Canada: Sri Lanka

Sri Lankan Foreign Minister Ali Sabry on Monday backed India, saying that terrorists had found safe haven in Canada and their Prime Minister Justin Trudeau came out with the outrageous allegations without any proof. Sabry said he was "not surprised" by his remarks since Trudeau keeps making "outrageous and substantiated allegations". "The same thing they did for Sri Lanka, a terrible, total lie about saying that Sri Lanka had a genocide. Everybody knows there was no genocide in our country," he said.

We, in India, have never seen that as contradicting global good," he said.

Jaishankar referred to the series of diplomatic outreach and emergency help extended by India over the past few years. This included the Vaccine Maitri initiative undertaken to supply vaccines to poorer nations during the Covid pandemic, endeavours like the International Solar Alliance and the Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure, which have gathered wide support and response to disasters in Turkey and Syria.

INDIA bloc parties want to review 'ineffective' panels

ARCHIS MOHAN
New Delhi, 26 September

The Indian National Developmental Inclusive Alliance (INDIA) bloc, comprising 26 Opposition parties, could soon review the many panels it had announced nearly a month ago. Some constituents of the alliance have raised concern that these panels, particularly the 14-member coordination committee that serves as the top decision-making body, are at risk of becoming ineffective, as their decisions have so far not been acted upon. They have called for a new modus vivendi or arrangement to address this issue.

A senior leader from the INDIA bloc told Business Standard that it had become "increasingly clear that decisions were unlikely to be made or honoured, unless top leaders of respective parties were present." According to sources, a leader of a Kashmir-based party questioned the relevance of attending the committee meetings when decisions could be vetoed by leaders who were absent from the forum.

The INDIA bloc had announced the formation of the coordination committee along with other panels, which include those responsible for media, social media, and research, during its meeting in Mumbai on September 1. The coordination committee convened its first meeting on September 13.

So far, the committee has made two decisions, neither of which has been implemented. First, it agreed to organise a public meeting of INDIA leaders in Bhopal, the capital of election-bound Madhya Pradesh, in early October. However, Kamal Nath, the Congress' chief ministerial candidate in the state, opposed the idea. He argued that the timing was politically and logistically inconvenient, as it would divert attention from the anti-incumbency against Shivraj Singh Chouhan and would require significant resources from the already stretched Congress party. Second, the committee proposed making the demand for a caste census one of its main electoral issues. This proposal, however, was not supported by the All India Trinamool Congress (TMC) led by Mamata Banerjee.

During its meeting on September 13, the coordination committee also endorsed the decision of INDIA's media committee to boycott 14 television news anchors. This decision also lacked unanimous support. Not only Janata Dal (United) leader Nitish Kumar, but also certain members of the Congress were not in agreement.

TMC's General Secretary Abhishek Banerjee could not attend due to a summons from the Enforcement Directorate, while the Communist Party of India (Marxist) has yet to nominate its representative.

On September 25, during a public meeting of the Indian National Lok Dal in Haryana, JD(U)'s K C Tyagi remarked that "big tasks could not be accomplished with a small heart" and emphasised the need for unity to defeat the BJP. TMC's Rajya Sabha MP Derek O'Brien also highlighted the need to set aside egos.

Rajnath calls for collective efforts to address Indo-Pacific complexities

AJAI SHUKLA
New Delhi, 26 September

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, addressing the Army chiefs of the Indo-Pacific, has called for collective wisdom to deal with the region's complexities, while tapping its full potential.

Singh was delivering the inaugural address at the 13th Indo-Pacific Armies Chiefs' Conference (IPACC) in New Delhi on Tuesday. India's Chief of Defence Staff General Anil Chauhan, Chief of Army Staff General Manoj Pande, and Army chiefs and delegates of 35 Indo-Pacific countries were present in the audience.

Singh said the Indo-Pacific was no longer a maritime construct, but a full-fledged geo-strategic construct that faces complex security challenges, including boundary disputes and piracy.

The defence minister explained his vision through a theoretical model by American author Stephen Covey, which is based on two circles — "Circle of Concern" and "Circle of Influence".

The "Circle of Concern" encompasses issues that one cares about, including both things that can be controlled and things that cannot. It includes external factors such as global events, economic conditions, other people's opinions, weather and many other aspects of life.

In contrast, the "Circle of Influence" comprises issues over which one has direct control or can exert some influence. It may involve your attitudes, behaviours, decisions, relationships and actions.

Applying this model to the domain of international relations, Singh said: "There may be instances when the 'circles of concern' of different nations overlap with each other. International maritime trade routes passing through the high seas, beyond the Exclusive Economic Zones of any country, are relevant examples. This can either result in conflict between nations or they can coexist by mutually deciding the rules of engagement."

Singh said global issues involve multiple stakeholders and stressed the need to work collaboratively through diplomacy, international bodies and treaties to tackle common concerns within overlapping "circles of concern". He termed the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea, 1982, as a good example of an international agreement that establishes the legal framework for maritime activities and addresses the issues arising from overlapping "circles of concern".

Simultaneously, Singh felt that states must identify and seek to expand their "circle of influence" to promote national interests on the global stage. This may involve building partnerships, participating in regional organisations, and employing diplomatic, economic or military tools strategically.

"This conference is an exercise where we all are trying to expand our 'circles of influence', while harmonising the overlaps of our 'circles of concern,'" he said.

Singh termed the IPACC, Indo-Pacific Armies Management Seminar, and Senior Enlisted Leaders Forum as the largest brainstorming events of land forces in the region. The Indian Army and the United States Army are co-hosting these from Monday to Wednesday, providing an opportunity for senior-level land forces leaders, primarily of the Indo-Pacific region, to exchange ideas and views on security and contemporary issues.
