Farm profits likely to rise 3-5% this kharif, says Crisil

Drop in prices to hit maize, cotton, vegetables

OUR BUREAU
Mumbai, August 24

Despite copious rain, the area under vegetables, cotton and maize cultivation is expected to fall sharply in this kharif season due to sharp drop in realisations.

Weak domestic and international demand has exerted pressure on cotton and maize prices, while price of vegetables has dropped sharply due to transport restrictions amid bumper supply.

However, early onset and good distribution of the South-West monsoon has paved the way for a robust kharif output. As on August 21, rains were 7 per cent above the long-period average.

Good spatial and temporal distribution has prompted sowing across crops in most states, as per Crisil Research analysis of 25 key agriculture commodities. Kharif sowing is expected to increase 2-3 per cent to 109 million hectares this year. The area under paddy cultivation is also set to increase because of both rains and reverse migration of labour to the eastern and southern states, it said.

Dharmakirti Joshi, Chief Economist, Crisil, said though lack of adequate rain in Rajasthan was a concern till early August, good rainfall recently has mitigated the risk substantially.

Boost to profits

Farm profit per hectare for field and horticulture crops is expected to increase 3-5 per cent during this kharif season, supported by higher acreage, improved productivity and rise in minimum support price, said the research report.

Adequate water availability for critical growth stages is also expected to increase productivity by 2-3 per cent over a low base of 2019, it said.

Kharif output could rise 5-6 per cent, putting pressure on the prices of various commodi-

Sowing is expected to increase 2-3 per cent to 109 million ha this year ties. However, government support to paddy procurement (the most critical crop in terms of farm income), incremental sowing of more remunerative crops and improved productivity will boost profitability at an aggregate level.

Hetal Gandhi, Director, Crisil Research, said the eastern states could see highest profit growth due to lower base while the southern and western states will bear the brunt of lower cotton and maize prices.

The northern region will be most profitable this kharif owing to a favourable crop mix and higher government procurement.

Rains to return in force over East, Central India

VINSON KURIAN

Thiruvananthapuram, August 24

As predicted by the India Meteorological Department (IMD), a fresh low-pressure area formed over the North Bay of Bengal on Monday. It is expected to become more marked (intensified), the second successive system to do so, and sixth overall during August.

This only goes on to indicate how strong and enduring the monsoon system has proved itself during the month.

Like its predecessor, it would take a couple of days to intensify and would bring widespread rainfall with isolated heavy to very heavy falls over Odisha, Gangetic West Bengal and Jharkhand during next 3-4 days and over Chhattisgarh, Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan from Wednesday to Friday. Isolated extremely heavy falls are likely over Odisha on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Monsoon trough active

The monsoon trough is active and south of its normal position, which makes it very potent. It is likely to remain active during the next 2-3 days and support the spread of rainfall temporally and spatially. The IMD has forecast widespread rainfall with isolated heavy to very heavy falls over Gujarat and South-West Rajasthan on Tuesday.

Convergence of easterlies from the Bay and south-westerlies from the Arabian Sea will cause rainfall activity to increase over North-West India from Tuesday onwards with peak intensity on Wednesday and Thursday. Widespread rainfall has been forecast over North-West India with isolated heavy to very heavy falls from Wednesday to Friday.

More rains for North-West

Forecast for Tuesday said that heavy to very heavy rainfall with extremely heavy falls may lash Odisha; it would be heavy to very heavy over the plains of West Bengal and Gujarat State; heavy over Himachal Pradesh, Uttarakhand, Uttar Pradesh, West Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh, Bihar, Jharkhand, Assam, Meghalaya, Madhya Maharashtra, Konkan, Goa, Coastal Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Puducherry and Kerala.

Festival season perks up pepper demand

V SAJEEV KUMAR

Kochi, August 24

Pepper market has started witnessing a good demand, thanks to the ensuing festival season and a robust supply from the domestic market.

The local masala manufacturers are seen active to meet the demand for Onam kits distributed by the government at subsidised rates. The demand-supply situation is good which is met from import consignments as well, traders said adding that the demand is likely to continue from local and inter-state buyers in view of the Navaratri festival season ahead.

The quantity offered in Kochi market last week was around 250 tonnes, witnessing an average price increase of ₹3 per kg.

According to Kishore Shamji of Kishor Spices, the availability of imported stuff coupled with the market arrivals are fulfilling the requirements of the processors.

Spot prices at Kochi remained steady at ₹319/kg and the off-take was 17 tonnes.

I-T RELIEF

FPOs seek MAT exemption to realise 'full benefit'

RUTAM VORA

Ahmedabad, August 24

Farmer producer organisations (FPOs) from different States have started approaching the Union Finance Minister to seek exemption from minimum alternate tax (MAT).

A five-year tax holiday, started in 2018 for FPOs, provided them complete income tax relief; but the law requires them to pay MAT instead.

In the 2018 Budget, the then Finance Minister Arun Jaitley had announced 100 per cent income tax deductions for these farmer bodies for a five-year period to provide them a level playing field in competing with the private sector while ensuring better agricultural prices to farmers.

Recently, several FPOs reported receiving tax notices from the Income Tax department for failing to pay MAT. The FPOs had completed filing of income tax returns for fiscal 2018-19 and 2019-20 with "Nil" tax payable, believing that they were exempted from tax.

But it is learnt that the I-T department has issued notices to a large number of FPOs across India, and in certain cases has also begun investigation for a possible tax evasion.

'Coordination issues'

Kuldeep Solanki, Chief Executive Officer of Gujpro, a consortium of FPOs in Gujarat, stated that while there were no doubts on the government's intention to provide level-playing field to the FPOs, "it looks like a lack of coordination between the policy intent and the practice. We have spoken to National Association of FPOs to raise it at the highest level in government."

"This is a genuine concern of the FPOs, because without an actual tax relief, it is difficult for them to compete with private players, who come with expertise and resources. FPOs are new to the game and their objective is different from plain profit motive. They have to ensure higher incomes for farmers too," said Solanki. MAT was created under the direct tax laws, specifically to bring the 'zero-tax paying companies' under the income tax net. Its objective is to collect minimum tax from such companies, which claim exemptions or deductions under various provisions of the Income Tax Act and generate some revenues for the government.

Lack of clarity

In Karnataka, Farmers Producer Company's Federation, a State-level consortium of FPOs, has written a letter to the Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman seeking directions to the concerned authorities in the Income Tax departments to extend MAT benefits to the FPOs.

Kurubur Shanthakumar, the Chief Convener of the Federation wrote in the letter dated August 17, 2020: "However, we are asked to pay MAT at 19.5 per cent. As you know the income tax is 22 per cent and it amounts to effect where in, we are required to pay 19.5 per cent MAT... This clause negates the benefit that you wanted to give to FPOs being a farmer-centric organisation."

Chartered accountants associated with FPOs believe that a confusion may have been caused due to lack of clarity in the Finance Bill on MAT applicability on FPOs. "The Finance Department should have made an insertion in the Finance Bill with regard to MAT, clearly stating that it will not be applicable to the producer companies. But there is no such mention. Therefore, system doesn't recognise it and generates a query at the assessment level. The assessing officer has to go by the book," one accountant said.

SHORTCOMINGS OF BT COTTON

Experts stress the need to fall back on desi cotton varieties

KV KURMANATH

Hyderabad, August 24

With stagnant yields, rising cost of production and resistance in pink bollworm, India now can look back at the desi cotton varieties, experts say.

At a webinar on 'Bt cotton - Myths and Reality' held on Monday, Keshav Kranthi, who is currently with International Cotton Advisory Committee (ICAC), said Bt hybrid technology has not been providing any tangible benefits to the cotton farmers.

Bt cotton supposedly helped in the reduction of insecticide use. But the use of insecticides only went up as pink bollworm developed resistance to the technology.

"Cotton yields are the lowest in the world in Maharashtra, for example, despite being saturated with Bt hybrids and highest usage of fertilisers," Kranti said.

"Cotton yields rank 36th in the world and have been stagnant in the past 15 years. Insecticide usage has been constantly increasing after 2005 despite an increase in area under Bt-cotton," he said.

The webinar was organised by the Centre for Sustainable Agriculture. Peter Kenmore, former FAO Representative in India, said that Bt cotton is an ageing pest control technology. "It follows the same path worn down by generations of insecticide molecules. Corporate and public policy actors then claim yield increases, but deliver no more than temporary pest suppression, secondary pest release and pest resistance," he said.

Andrew Paul Gutierrez, a cotton systems ecologist, pointed out that India could have easily learnt from the mistakes that happened in California in the 1960s and 70s, where the pest outbreak was mainly insecticide-induced.

"The long season Bt cotton introduced in India was incorporated into hybrids that trapped farmers into biotech and insecticide treadmills," he said.

Rains impact moong harvest in Karnataka

Farmers ask govt to start procurement

VISHWANATH KULKARNI

Bengaluru, August 24

Excess and continuous rains have impacted the harvest of moong bean crop in the major producing regions of North Karnataka and parts of Maharashtra. As a result, the quality of the new pulses crop has taken a hit and market arrivals in the region are reporting higher moisture content in the produce.

As a result, buyers are staying away from purchasing the high-moisture moong beans, a trend that's seen exerting pressure on the prices. Moong prices are ruling between ₹4,000 and ₹7,000 per quintal in various markets across the region, triggering a demand for the commencement of purchase under the minimum support price. The Centre has fixed an MSP of ₹7,196 a quintal for the kharif 2020 season.

Higher acreage

Farmers in Karnataka, where moong is a major kharif pulses crop, have planted the bean on about 3.85 lakh hectares, about 50 per cent higher than the previous year. Similarly, in Maharashtra, the area under moong has gone up by 19 per cent to 3.84 lakh ha. In Rajasthan, the major moong producer, the area under the pulses crop is up by a tenth at 20.35 lakh ha. At all-India level, moong has been planted on about 34 lakh ha — up 14 per cent over previous kharif season.

Moong output in 2019-20 stood at 2.34 million tonnes, as per third advance estimates.

"The crop is good this year and the acreage is also up. How-

Continuous rains in parts of North Karnataka, Maharashtra have impacted the standing crop ever, the continuous rains over the past few days have impacted the standing crop. Farmers are facing difficulty in harvesting and drying the crop," said Sujay Hubli, a processor of pulses in Gadag, a major growing area for moong in Karnataka.

New crop, poor quality

Santosh Langar, a pulses processor in Kalaburgi, said the crop in parts of Maharashtra has also been impacted by the excess rains. The new crop has started arriving in the markets of Gadag and nearby region. However, the buyers, mainly the processors, are staying away from the markets due to high moisture content of 17-25 per cent as it is difficult to store. "Buying is based on the daily to weekly requirement," Hubli said.

As per the IMD data, cumulative rains in Gadag district for the season till date were excess by 66 per cent, while the neighbouring Koppal district has witnessed a 102 per cent increase in precipitation.

Procurement

"As farmers are bringing their produce to the market the Government should open the procurement centres to purchase at MSP so that the small holder will benefit," said Basavaraj Ingini, President of Karnataka Red Gram Growers Association.
