Trump in Kenosha as racial tensions simmer

Visit to embattled city in key electoral state comes as president and Biden face off over who can best keep US safe

WASHINGTON

A US President Donald Trump is diving head-first into the latest eruption in the nation's reckoning over racial injustice with a trip Tuesday to Kenosha, Wisconsin, over the objections of local leaders.

The city has been riven by protests since the Aug. 23 shooting of Jacob Blake, a Black man hit seven times in the back by police. On the eve of his visit, Trump defended a teenage supporter accused of fatally shooting two men in Kenosha last week and accused Democrat Joe Biden of siding with "anarchists" and "rioters" in the unrest.

Wisconsin's Democratic governor, Tony Evers, who deployed the National Guard to quell demonstrations in response to the Blake shooting, pleaded with Trump to stay away for fear of straining tensions further. The White House said the president was expected to meet with law enforcement and tour "property affected by recent riots."

"I am concerned your presence will only hinder our healing," Evers wrote in a letter to Trump. "I am concerned your presence will only delay our work to overcome division and move forward together."

Trump, claiming the mantle of the "law and order" candidate, is offering himself as the leader best positioned to keep Americans safe. Biden, in turn, has assailed him over the deadly protests that have sprung up on his watch.

Trump insisted his appearance in Kenosha could "increase enthusiasm" in Wisconsin, perhaps the most hotly contested battleground state in the presidential race, as the White House said he "wants to visit hurting Americans." He was expected to take credit for calling in the National Guard — an act taken by Evers — and for surging federal law enforcement to the city to restore the peace. The White House said Trump was not going to meet with Blake's family.

"I am a tremendous fan of law enforcement and I want to thank law enforcement," Trump told Fox News in an interview Monday night. "They've done a good job."Trump suggested that some police officers "choke" when faced with challenging situations and compared golfers who "miss a 3-foot putt."

Biden, in his most direct attacks yet, accused Trump earlier on Monday of causing the divisions that have ignited the violence. He delivered an uncharacteristically blistering speech in Pittsburgh and distanced himself from radical forces involved in altercations.

Biden said of Trump: "He doesn't want to shed light, he wants to generate heat, and he's stoking violence in our cities. He can't stop the violence because for years he's fomented it."

Trump, for his part, reiterated that he blames radical troublemakers stirred up and backed by Biden. AP

Black ex-franchisee owners sue McDonald's for bias

More than 50 Black former McDonald's franchise owners are suing the burger chain, saying the company steered them to less-profitable restaurants and didn't give them the same support and opportunities given white franchisees. The 52 plaintiffs, who owned around 200 U.S. stores before being forced to sell them over the last decade, are seeking compensation of $4 million to $5 million per store, as per the lawsuit.

Maverick founder of ByteDance may nix deal

BEIJING

THE Chinese government has complicated the US-government-ordered sale of US TikTok assets by introducing export curbs on AI technology. This has made the founder of TikTok's parent firm ByteDance reconsider his options, Bloomberg reported on Tuesday, citing unnamed people in knowledge of the deal.

The company is wondering if it's even possible to come up a deal agreement that finds approval with both governments as well as with investors and an acquirer. Microsoft and Oracle are in talks to buy TikTok.

"Beijing's last-minute entry into the process raises the odds that [ByteDance founder] Zhang will hold on to the US operation beyond the stated American deadlines or even back out of a deal altogether," Bloomberg said in its report.

Rebecca Fannin, author of Tech Titans of China, told the news agency: "I'm not sure price matters as much as pride. From the start, Zhang wanted to build a global company. Without the US market, he can't fulfill those ambitions. He may just decide not to do the deal at all."

The Trump administration has threatened to ban TikTok by mid-Sep and ordered ByteDance to sell its US business, claiming national-security risks due to Chinese ownership.

Facebook threatens to block news distribution in Australia

SYDNEY

FACEBOOK threatened on Tuesday to block users and media organisations in Australia from sharing news stories in an escalating challenge to government plans to force digital giants to pay for content.

Australians would be stopped from posting local and international articles on Facebook and Instagram, the company said, claiming the move was "not our first choice" but the "only way to protect against an outcome that defies logic".

Government officials quickly shot back, with Treasurer Josh Frydenberg rejecting what he called "coercion or heavy-handed threats" from the social media giant.

Rod Sims, head of the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC), which drew up the draft law, called the threat "ill-timed and misconceived".

In one of the most aggressive moves by any government to curb the power of US digital giants, Canberra has drawn up legislation to force Facebook and Google to pay struggling local news organisations for content or face millions of dollars in fines.

The measures would also force transparency around the closely guarded algorithms that tech firms use to rank content.

Facebook Australia and New Zealand managing director Will Easton said the proposed overhaul "misunderstands the dynamics of the internet and will do damage to the very news organisations the government is trying to protect".

"Most perplexing, it would force Facebook to pay news organisations for content that the publishers voluntarily place on our platforms and at a price that ignores the financial value we bring publishers," he said in a statement. AFP

ASIA MATTERS

PAKISTAN

Dating apps banned

Pakistan on Tuesday blocked access to Tinder and several other dating apps in a bid to control "immoral" and "indecent" content, just days after regulators threatened to shut down YouTube for similar reasons. The Pakistan Telecommunication Authority (PTA) said it had barred users from accessing Tinder, Grindr, SayHi, Tagged and Skout after the social networking apps failed to "moderate... content in accordance" with Pakistan's laws.

62,000 workers yet to be tested for Covid-19

A total of 62,000 workers in Singapore, mostly foreigners employed in labour-intensive industries, have yet to be scheduled for their mandatory rostered routine testing for Covid-19 ahead of the screening deadline on Saturday, authorities warned on Tuesday. Those who fail to do so will not be able to return to work.

Finance minister quits 1 month into the job

Thailand's finance minister resigned unexpectedly after less than a month in the job, in which he was responsible for helping restore the economy. The Royal Gazette said in a three-line announcement that Prime Minister Prayuth Chan-ocha had accepted the resignation of Predee Daochai. Thai media reported earlier without citing a source that Predee, 61, had resigned for health reasons, but no officials were willing to publicly comment. Predee, who was chairman of the Thai Bankers' Association ahead of his Cabinet appointment, had resigned his job as co-president of Thailand's Kasikorn Bank before joining the government.

France's Charlie Hebdo republishes Mohammed caricatures prior to trial

PARIS

FRENCH satirical weekly Charlie Hebdo, the target of a massacre by Islamist gunmen in 2015, said on Tuesday it was republishing hugely controversial cartoons of the Prophet Mohammed to mark this week's start of the trial of alleged accomplices to the attack.

"We will never lie down. We will never give up," director Laurent "Riss" Sourisseau wrote in an editorial to go with the cartoons in the latest edition. "The hatred that struck us is still there and, since 2015, it has taken the time to mutate, to change its appearance, to go unnoticed and to quietly continue its ruthless crusade."

Twelve people, including some of France's most celebrated cartoonists, were killed on January 7, 2015, when brothers Said and Cherif Kouachi went on a gun rampage at the paper's offices in Paris. The perpetrators were killed in the wake of the massacre but 14 alleged accomplices in the attacks, which also targeted a Jewish supermarket, will go on trial in Paris on Wednesday.

The latest Charlie Hebdo cover shows a dozen cartoons first published by the Danish daily Jyllands-Posten in 2005 -- and then reprinted by the French weekly in 2006, unleashing a storm of anger across the Muslim world.

In the centre of the cover is a cartoon of the prophet drawn by cartoonist Jean Cabut, known as Cabu, who lost his life in the massacre. "All of this, just for that," the front-page headline says. AFP

Oil industry planning to flood Africa with plastic

NAIROBI

THE oil industry has asked the United States to pressure Kenya to change its world-leading stance against the plastic waste that litters Africa, according to environmentalists who fear the continent will be used as a dumping ground.

The request from the American Chemistry Council, whose members include major oil companies, to the Office of the United States Trade Representative came as the US and Kenya negotiate what would be the first US bilateral trade deal with a country in sub-Saharan Africa.

That deal is expected to be a model for others in Africa, and its importance helped lead to Kenyan President Uhuru Kenyatta's White House visit with President Donald Trump this year .

Kenya three years ago imposed what was praised as the world's strictest ban on the use, manufacturing and import of plastic bags, part of growing efforts around the world to limit a major source of plastic waste. AP

BANGLADESH GARMENT EXPORTS ON THE UPSWING

DHAKA

BANGLADESH'S crucial textile industry saw a sharp rebound from the coronavirus crisis in August, with exports surging nearly 50% as factories swung into full gear to meet orders from global retailers.

Shipments of ready-made clothes hit $3.3 billion, up from $2.3 billion a year earlier, the Bangladesh Garment Manufacturers and Exporters Association (BGMEA) said.

The garment industry is the cornerstone of the economy in Bangladesh, the world's second largest exporter of the goods after China.

The reinstatement of cancelled orders from retail titans including H&M, Primark and Walmart has revived the industry even though Bangladesh is still suffering from the pandemic, BGMEA spokesman Khan Monirul Alam Shuvo told AFP.

Some companies say they are now looking for thousands of workers to cope with new orders. AFP

Argentina reaches deal to avoid debt default

Buenos Aires: Argentina said private creditors have "massively" accepted an offer to restructure $65 billion in debt, allowing it to avoid another default and messy legal battle in international courts. Economy Minister Martín Guzmán said 93.55% of the bondholders accepted the offer and the country will save $37.7 billion over 10 years. "The offer had a massive acceptance by our creditors as a result of the dialogue process," Guzmán said.

Walmart launches its answer to Amazon Prime

New York: Walmart is launching a new membership service that it hopes can compete with Amazon Prime. Called Walmart+, it will cost $98 a year, or $12.95 a month, and give members same-day delivery on 1,60,000 items, a fuel discount at certain gas stations and a chance to check out at Walmart stores without having to wait at a register. Walmart has a long way to go to catch up with Prime.
