US' longest war ends with Taliban's return to power

Washington: America has ended its longest war in Afghanistan, President Joe Biden announced on Tuesday, hours after the final US evacuation plane flew out of Kabul airport amid celebratory gunfire from the Taliban, leaving the country in disarray and its future uncertain under the rule of hardline Islamist militants.

The last plane carrying US forces left Afghanistan on Monday around midnight, a day ahead of schedule, ending a 20-year war that left nearly 2,500 American troops dead and spanned four presidencies.

The C17 aircraft's departure from Kabul's international airport was the final chapter in a contentious military effort, which eventually saw the US handing Afghanistan back to the very Islamist militants it sought to root out when American troops entered the country in 2001.

Celebratory gunfire and fireworks erupted across Kabul as Taliban fighters took control of the airport following the withdrawal, proclaiming "full independence" for Afghanistan.

"Now, our 20-year military presence in Afghanistan has ended," Biden said, thanking armed forces for their execution of the dangerous retrograde from Afghanistan with no further loss of American lives.

"For now, I will report that it was the unanimous recommendation of the Joint Chiefs and of all of our commanders on the ground to end our air-lift mission as planned.

"Their view was that ending our military mission was the best way to protect the lives of our troops, and secure the prospects of civilian departures for those who want to leave Afghanistan in the weeks and months ahead," he said.

The president, who will address the nation later on Tuesday, said he has asked the Secretary of State to lead the continued coordination with US international partners to ensure safe passage for any American, Afghan partners and foreign nationals who want to leave Afghanistan. PTI

Post-US withdrawal China asks Taliban to make 'clean break' with terror groups form inclusive Govt for recognition

PTI ■ BEIJING

As the Taliban took complete control of Kabul after the US troops left Afghanistan ending America's two-decade-old war, China on Tuesday asked the militant group to make a "clean break" from terrorist outfits and form an open, inclusive Government that follows moderate policies to get international recognition.

"Afghanistan is broken free from foreign military intervention and the Afghan people are standing at a new starting point of peace and reconstruction," Foreign Ministry spokesman Wang Wenbin told a media briefing here on Tuesday, flaying US military intervention in the neighbouring country.

"The US troop withdrawal shows that the wanton military intervention in other countries and forcible imposition of values and social systems onto others will lead to nowhere and is doomed to fail," he said.

However, when asked whether China is ready to recognise the Taliban as a legitimate authority in the country, Wang said, "we hope Afghanistan can form an open inclusive and representative government, follow moderate and prudent domestic and foreign policies, combat all forms of terrorist forces live in harmony with other countries, live up to the aspiration of its own people and the international community".

UK 'ready' to launch strikes against ISIS-K in Afghanistan

London: The UK has said that it is "ready" to launch strikes at the ISIS-K terror network in Afghanistan after the Pentagon revealed that there are at least 2,000 fighters of the outfit in the war-torn country.

The Islamic State's Afghanistan affiliate, dubbed Islamic State Khorasan or ISIS-K, had claimed responsibility for the deadly twin blasts at the Hamid Karzai International Airport in Kabul in which 169 Afghans and 13 American soldiers were killed on Thursday.

Britain's Chief of the Air Staff, Air Chief Marshal Sir Mike Wigston, told The Daily Telegraph newspaper on Monday that the UK could be involved in strikes against ISIS-K.

He was speaking after the UK and the US troops completed their withdrawal from Afghanistan after the Taliban takeover.

"The UK stands united with our coalition partners in mourning those killed by Daesh's (ISIS) horrific attack at Kabul airport and in our unwavering collective resolve to combat Daesh networks by all means available, wherever they operate. PTI

Taliban will have to earn int'l legitimacy, support by meeting their commitments: Blinken

PTI ■ WASHINGTON

The Taliban will have to earn international legitimacy and support by meeting their commitments on freedom of travel, counterterrorism, respecting the basic rights of the Afghan people, including women and minorities, and forming an inclusive Government, US Secretary of State Antony Blinken has said.

Blinken said the US will engage with the Taliban not on the basis of what a Taliban-led government says, but what it does to live up to its commitments.

"The Taliban seek international legitimacy and support. Our message is: any legitimacy and any support will have to be earned," Blinken said in an address to the nation hours after the US concluded its mission to Afghanistan early Tuesday. PTI

Music is on at Kabul weddings under the Taliban

Kabul: At one of Kabul's upscale wedding halls, a celebration was in full swing around midday Tuesday. Afghan dance music could be heard from inside the hall.

According to reception hall's manager, Shadab Azimi, 26, at least seven wedding parties have been held since the Taliban takeover of Kabul two weeks earlier, with festivities moved to daylight hours because of security concerns. AP

Never in history has withdrawal from war been handled so badly: Trump

Washington: Never in history has a withdrawal from war been handled so badly or incompetently as by Americans from Afghanistan, former president Donald Trump has said as the United States flew its last military flight out of Kabul bringing back all of its armed forces from the country.

"Never in history has a withdrawal from war been handled so badly or incompetently as the Biden administration's withdrawal from Afghanistan," Trump said as the longest American war came to an end, with the Taliban regaining power in the country which they had lost after the American invasion weeks after the September 9/11 attacks.

"In addition to the obvious, ALL EQUIPMENT should be demanded to be immediately returned to the United States, and that includes every penny of the USD 85 billion dollars in cost," Trump said. "If it is not handed back, we should either go in with unequivocal military force and get it, or at least bomb the hell out of it. Nobody ever thought such stupidity, as this feeble-brained withdrawal, was possible!" he said. PTI

EU Ministers meet to discuss Af, refugees

Brussels: European Union justice and Home Affairs Ministers were meeting Tuesday to discuss the Taliban's takeover of Afghanistan and how Europe will deal with the flow of refugees and migrants it is expected to produce.

The meeting comes the day after the last US forces flew out of Kabul's international airport, ending America's longest war.

The 27-nation bloc is looking for ways to prevent a repeat of a 2015 refugee crisis fuelled by Syria's civil war. The arrival in Europe of well over a million migrants that year led to infighting among EU member nations over how best to manage the influx. A new wave of migrants from Afghanistan is likely to exacerbate tensions. AP

Pak FM Qureshi says I would never govern with ex-communist Left party: Merkel

Islamabad: Pakistan's Foreign Minister Shah Mahmood Qureshi on Tuesday warned the international community not to abandon Afghanistan, saying repeating the mistakes of the past and an economic collapse of the war-torn country will have serious consequences. Addressing a press conference with his German counterpart Heiko Maas, who is here on a two-day trip to discuss bilateral issues and regional situations, he said that this is a pivotal moment in Afghanistan's history. "The international community must remain engaged. Humanitarian assistance must flow. Do not let the economic collapse in Afghanistan take place," Qureshi said. PTI

I would never govern with ex-communist Left party: Merkel

Berlin: Chancellor Angela Merkel said on Tuesday that she would never govern with support from Germany's hard-left opposition Left party, an option that two of her would-be successors have refused to rule out ahead of the country's national election in September.

Speaking at a news conference in Berlin, Merkel welcomed positive comments by her current vice chancellor Olaf Scholz about their current governing coalition. Scholz, who is also Germany's finance minister, is the center-left Social Democrats' candidate to succeed Merkel in the September 26 vote. AP

11 ISIS MILITANTS KILLED IN BALOCHISTAN: PAK

Karachi: Pakistan's counter-terrorism officials on Tuesday claimed to have killed 11 militants of the Islamic State terror group in the country's restive Balochistan province. The ISIS militants were killed in an exchange of fire at a compound in the province's Mastung district on Monday night following a tip-off, according to the Counter Terrorism Department of the Balochistan police.

An official said that the militants were asked to surrender but they opened fire on the raiding party, leading to the exchange of fire in which 11 of them were killed.

Japan Ministry seeks 2.6% defence hike amid China worries

Tokyo: Japan's Defence Ministry on Tuesday asked for a 2.6% increase over this year's record budget as it seeks to further strengthen the country's military in the face of China's growing assertiveness in the region.

The ministry's budget sought 5.48 trillion yen (USD 49.86 billion) for the year starting April 1, 2022, in what could be a record high if approved by the Finance Ministry and parliament later this year, after a nine-year consecutive increase.

Japan's concerns about China's increasingly assertive military actions in the region, as well as Beijing's growing tension with Taiwan and rivalry with the United States, were specifically noted in this year's defence report adopted in July.

The report said China's increased military capability and the lack of clarity regarding Chinese military spending is "a matter of grave concern" and criticised China's maritime activity in and around Japanese-claimed waters.

Japan has been stepping up defence in the country's southwestern regions and islands, including Ishigaki Island, where a new military base with a land-to-sea missile defence system will be opened. Ishigaki is north of the uninhabited but Japanese-controlled Senkaku Islands, which are also claimed by China and called Diaoyu. AP

Ex-army major, 5 militants get death for killing gay rights activist in B'desh

Dhaka: A Bangladeshi anti-terrorism tribunal on Tuesday sentenced six Islamist militants, including a fugitive ex-army major, to death in the brutal murder of a gay rights activist and his friend in 2016.

"They will be hanged by neck until their death," Judge Md Majibur Rahman of the Anti-Terrorism Special Tribunal pronounced as four of the convicts were on the dock while the rests are on the run to evade justice.

In April 2016, Islamist militants hacked to death Xulhaz Mannan, an editor of Bangladesh's first gay rights magazine who had worked for the US Agency for International Development (USAID), and his friend Mahbub Rabbi Tonoy.

The killings in an apartment in Dhaka were part of a wave of attacks targeting foreigners, religious minorities and secular bloggers.

The judge said he was handing down the capital punishment as there was no scope for showing the convicts any mercy because of the heinous crimes they committed by killing the LGBT activist and his friend.

The court acquitted two of the eight accused, who were indicted initially, while four of the convicts were handed down death penalty in another case over the murder of a progressive writer and publisher Faisal Arefin Dipan in 2015. PTI
