Delhi's ISBTs open, 1542 buses come on May 1; social distancing norms go for a toss

MM BUREAU
New Delhi/November 04
 As interstate bus services resumed in Delhi after more than seven months, the scene at the city's two major bus terminals (ISBTs), at Kashmere Gate and Anand Vihar, were in stark contrast. While Kashmere Gate had mostly all Covid-19 safety mechanisms in place, the latter was in disarray.

On Day 1, 542 interstate buses carrying over 20,000 passengers arrived in the Capital through the three ISBTs (the third of which is at Sarai Kale Khan) till 5.30 pm. Passengers arrived from Uttar Pradesh, Haryana, Punjab, Rajasthan and Uttarakhand, and some returning to the city for work, and many others travelling to celebrate Diwali with their friends and family.

The Kashmere Gate ISBT saw a fair rush in the morning, with long queues at the entry gate as passengers were thermally screened and frisked using contactless devices, while staff members sanitised luggage inside the premises.

Yet, social distancing norms were often thrown to the wind as people would rush in a huddle, jostling to either get entry to the terminal, collect their luggage or buy a ticket. Despite a properly designed waiting area, people crowded the narrow bus bays, even while drivers waited patiently till all the seats were occupied.

Kavajpreet Kaur, who arrived at Kashmere Gate ISBT from Punjab on Tuesday morning pointed out that the terminal did not have any Covid-19 testing centre or camp for those who voluntarily wanted to get themselves checked.

"I travelled all night in a bus that was full of passengers. A Covid testing centre here would not just help me, but also the city administration to identify and quarantine those who have the infection," she said.

Apart from a few security guards at the entry gate, Kashmere Gate ISBT had absolutely no police officer, district official or civil defence volunteer to warn or prosecute violators of Covid-19 norms.

The situation was much worse at the other two ISBTs, especially at Anand Vihar, which shares its border with Uttar Pradesh.

On Tuesday, the Anand

Vihar ISBT received 257 interstate buses, followed by 242 buses in Kashmere Gate and 43 buses at Sarai Kale Khan.

people were deployed for screening and sanitisation, two of who were deployed to check the temperatures of only the driver and conductor, and two others who sanitised buses — mostly from the outside.

The Anand Vihar terminal

had no facilities to thermally screen passengers, or to sanitise their luggage. It also did not have any sanitiser spray available for public use. Female passengers, said they were especially hassled, saying the washroom was too dirty to use.

Several also complained about passengers displaying a lack of hygiene.

Yadunath Singh, and his family were boarding a bus from Anand Vihar ISBT, headed for his hometown in Ram Nagar, Uttarakhand, to celebrate Diwali.

"I am fed up of people spitting here. This problem is peculiar to Anand Vihar ISBT. Don't people know that Covid-19 spreads from droplets? There is not a single official to prosecute violators. While walking around the ISBT, most passengers had their masks either on their chin or hanging from their ears," said an angry Singh.

The testing centre, located between the bus terminal and Metro station, was not conducting any Covid-19 tests when Media visited the facility at 4pm.

A district official deployed to oversee testing there said they wrapped up by 3.30pm. "We do 1,000-2,000 tests daily, most of which are performed using the rapid antigen method. The most IKT PCR tests we have conducted at this facility are around 300 on a single day. Very few have tested positive so far, but we immediately send those who do to the Covid Care Centre at Akshardham on an ambulance," said an official deployed there.

KK Dahiya, managing director of the Delhi Transport Corporation (DTC) Limited that manages and operates all the ISBTs, said people are being de-boarded at the entry gate of the ISBTs, from where they are being allowed.

Nursing staff of Valmiki hospital join ongoing strike over unpaid salaries

MM BUREAU
New Delhi/November 04
 The 100-strong nursing staff of Valmiki Infectious Disease Hospital, run by North Delhi Municipal Corporation (North DMC), Tuesday joined the ongoing strike by health workers over non-payment of salaries for the past three to four months.

The contractual nursing staff at Kasturba Hospital and Hindu Rao Hospital Tuesday announced that they, too, will join strike from November 5 (Thursday) if their demand for the immediate release of pending salaries is not met.

The regular nursing staff of Kasturba hospital, Hindu Rao hospital, Giriharini Maternity hospital, Rajan Balu TB hospital are already on an indefinite strike since Monday. All these hospitals are under the North DMC.

BL Sharma, president, Kasturba Hospital Nurses Union, said the nursing staff of Valmiki hospital has also joined the strike over non-payment of salaries. "It is unfortunate that health workers have to go on an indefinite strike during a pandemic, but the civic body's apathy towards us has compelled us to do so. They should clear three months' pending salaries of nurses and four months' pending salaries of other paramedical employees immediately," Sharma said.

Indu Anand, president, Hindu Rao Hospital Nurses Union, said until now, only permanent nurses and other health workers were on a strike but from Tuesday, even contractual nursing staff have joined the strike.

"Contractual nursing staff at Hindu Rao and Kasturba hospitals, who were working until now, will join our indefinite strike from November 5. They have also not been paid for four months. We will not call off our strike until our dues are cleared," she said.

Nurses at hospitals across north corporation have not been paid salaries for the months of August, September and October while other paramedical employees have not been given salaries since June 2020.

Jai Prakash, mayor, North Delhi Municipal Corporation, said, "We are trying to arrange funds so that we can pay at least two months' salary to the agitating employees by Diwali. I appeal to the health workers that they call off their strike."

Doctors in north corporation-run hospitals had also gone on strike last month over non-payment of salaries and they withdrew the agitation only after the corporation paid their salaries till September. The nursing and other auxiliary staff have remained unpaid, a nursing staff on strike said.

North civic body to impound and auction abandoned vehicles

MM BUREAU/New Delhi/November 04
 Ahead of Diwali, the North Delhi Municipal Corporation (North DMC) will start impounding and auctioning vehicles left abandoned in residential areas and on streets under its jurisdiction. The decision was taken by the standing committee in a meeting Tuesday. According to civic body authorities, a survey to ascertain the number of abandoned vehicles has already started. "After the survey is completed, notices to remove vehicles from streets and colonies will be pasted on dumped vehicles and if they are still not removed within three days, we will impound the vehicles and send them for auction," a senior official of the north corporation said Tuesday, while requesting anonymity. The official added that as per the previous records, there were nearly 200 vehicles dumped on roads and colonies in different areas of the north corporation. "Since we don't have the exact and latest figures, a fresh survey was started and it will be completed in a few days. We hope to remove abandoned vehicles from the streets before Diwali," Chail Bilhari Goswami, chairperson, north corporation standing committee, said. He said it was a common sight to find rickety and mud-crusted vehicles in residential colonies or on streets which not only lead to snafus but also create a hindrance in sanitation work. "People generally park their scooters or cars on streets to reserve space right outside their houses but that affects the cleaning and sweeping work. Many a time, it is seen that people dump garbage beneath the abandoned vehicle. To discourage this and improve sanitation, we have decided to impound and auction such vehicles. This exercise is also expected to bring in revenue for the cash-strapped corporation," Goswami said.

Manish Sisodia reviews the progress of coding program in Govt Schools

MM BUREAU
New Delhi/November 04
 Delhi education minister Manish Sisodia Tuesday interacted with students and teachers of government schools to review the progress of the coding program, which was recently introduced in over 1,000 schools in partnership with Media.

Under the Media Codeathon program, as many as 12,400 students from about 1,000 Delhi government schools are being trained in computer coding and programming skills.

Of them, 1,018 students have already completed five chapters within a fortnight of the launch, said the education minister's office in a statement released on Tuesday. The program was launched on October 8.

Lauding the achievements of students, Sisodia said, "It is my dream to see our students create their own companies like Google, and watch them take it worldwide. Coding is giving the students the wings to fly from an early stage of schooling."

During their interaction with Sisodia, students also shared their experiences of being part of the program. Simran, a student of a government school in Civil Lines, who has created an adventure game, said, "Until now, I've been playing games created by other developers. But now I've got the chance to create my own game."

Blaskar, a student of Class 9 at the Government Boys Senior Secondary School in Malviya Park, said, "I had only heard of coding but now I have an actual chance to learn it." He has also created a WhatsApp group so he can help other students to learn computer coding.

Madhulika Pandey, a teacher at Govt Co-ed Sarvodaya Vidyalaya, Dwarka Sector 13, said, "These students, who didn't even know to log in to a system until last month, are now creating their own programs. It's a matter of great pride for me that I'm able to see them."

Delhi Government's anti-firecracker drive begins

MM BUREAU/New Delhi/November 04
 Environment minister Gopal Raj on Tuesday kicked-started the Delhi government's anti-cracker campaign, urging people to avoid fireworks on Diwali, or to at least to ensure they buy only the 'green', low-emission varieties, in an attempt to cut down on air pollution, which is a bigger concern this year due to the Covid-19 crisis. As part of the campaign, Raj visited Sadar Bazar, one of Delhi's biggest wholesale firecracker markets, for an inspection and to ensure only green crackers are sold. Diwali this year will be celebrated on November 14. Every year, pollution levels see a major spike after the festival as people openly burst fireworks. Under this campaign, 11 teams of the Delhi Pollution Control Committee have been directed to ensure no traditional, polluting crackers are sold or used. Apart from these teams, Delhi Police personnel and sub-divisional magistrates of all districts will inspect markets to ensure old stocks of traditional varieties are not sold clandestinely. "According to directions of the Supreme Court, polluting crackers have been banned in Delhi and only pollution-free green crackers have been allowed this year. The teams will ensure only the best-polluting varieties."

Marked absent, given zero Final-year students sweat over 'faulty' DU results of online exams

MM BUREAU
New Delhi/November 04
 Delhi University's online open-book exams have run into a fresh round of opposition, with several final-year undergraduate students, who recently received their results, alleging that they were either marked absent, or given zero entirely, outcomes which they said would hurt their futures into doubt.

The varsity's decision to conduct open-book exams online as a one-time measure in view of the pandemic was severely controversial, and met with staunch opposition from several students and faculty members. Despite this, online OBE were held for the university's 200,000 final-year UG and PG students between August 10 and 31.

University officials said they are looking to resolve students' complaints within three days of them being filed.

Yogendra Jaiswal, a student of Rajdhani College B Com (Hons) student said he was given zero in two subjects, results that he said were "not possible". "How can one get a zero in the open book format where we were allowed to use books? I have already taken admission in an MBA programme in a private institute in Pune and my family also took a bank loan of 216 lakh for my higher education. I have to submit my final-year mark sheets by November 10. They won't allow me to join with this result," Jaiswal visited his college on Tuesday, and was asked to submit a request for re-evaluation. "I do not know how much time the university will take to declare the results. I am extremely anxious about my future," he said. RD Sharma, the college's nodal officer to deal with OBE matters, said Jaiswal's is not an isolated case in Rajdhani College. "We have received complaints from around 14-15 students who have either been marked absent or been given zero marks in some subjects. We have around five such cases in B Com (Hons) itself." He has contacted the University's examination branch, which has asked us to forward the applications to them with the respective answer scripts," he said. During the exams, students were given four hours to download question papers from the DU examination portal, complete the test, scan and upload the answer scripts. Students were also given an option to email the answer scripts to their college. Teachers evaluated these exam scripts online. Officials at other colleges said they have been receiving similar complaints from students.
