PUBLIC NOTICE

EXCLUSIVE: Hardik Pandya is very strong mentally and physically, my earlier statement on him was taken the wrong way, says Abdul Razzaq

NEW DELHI. Who is the better batsman - Virat Kohli or Babar Azam? The debate raged un for a white and ultimately most experts rated Virat higher than Babar, thanks largely to the fact that Virat just has the better numbers and is way ahead of Babar, thanks largely to the fact that Virat just has the better numbers and is way ahead of Babar on most of the centuries list. While the former India captain is second only to Sachin Tendulkar on the list of most international centuries, excert 28 international centuries across formats. But one will have to remember that Virat made his international centuries across formats. But one will have to remember that Virat made his international century in 2008, seven years before Babar got his first Pakistan cap. Former Pakistan star all-rounder Abdul Razzaq spoke to Timesofindia com recently in an exclusive interview and also rated Virat's fitness higher than that of Babar's.

Razzaq, one of the best all-rounders that Pakistan have produced, played 46 Tests. 265 ODIs, and 32 T20is for his country between 1996 and 2013. The dashing hard-hitting all-rounder talked about India vs Pakistan blateral series, the Virat vs Babar #debate, Pakistan players in IPL, Hardik Pandy at he all-rounder, and much more.

You have scored 1025 runs and claimed 51 wickets against India across formats. What is your favourite memory of playing vs India/Ind.

four have scored 10/25 runs and claimed 51 wickets against India across formats. What is your favourite memory of playing vs India? I have two favourite memories of playing against India. First was the Mohali Test match (in 2005). We were 6 down. Day 4 play was on. And we went on to draw the Test match. Second was the Hobart ODI (Carlton & United Series in 2000) when Pakistan were Glo-something in 40 overs. I came in and scored a fifty and helped Pakistan set a good total (C627) and then took 5 wickers. These two matches will always be close to my leart. At that time in 2000, the Indian team was very strong. They had all this stars. Tendtaking, Sebwag, Ganguly, Zalbeer, and many other big names. We played with them. Of course, there was pressure. Whenever there is India vs Pakistan, it here is a 31 ways pressure. Apart from India vs Pakistan pressure, there was pressure (on us) from these players created so much pressure. We would plan on what and how to bowl to Tendiklar. We used to work wholeheartedly and to try and dismiss these two. You have been a star all-rounder for the Pakistan team. Your take on Hardik Pandya was taken the wrong way. I didn't mean it As a cricketer, Just said there is scope for improvement in him (Pandya). I didn't comit at As a cricketer, Just said there is scope for improvement in him (Pandya). I didn't comit r. If Kapi Dev says that he wants to give advice to Abdul Razzaq, I will take this statement positively. The best part about Hardik is that he is very strong both mentally and physically. He is fit. This drives him forward. He hits the ball cleanly, He takes wickets at crucial junctures. You send him in to bowl, he will take wicket. You send him in to bowl, he will take wicket. You send him out to but and he will sero cruns for you. He is a match-winner. No one is perfect.He can work on a couple of things which according to him are areas of improvement—in terms of foot movement, bat movement, and how to judge a delivery before it is bowled. That was what I meant earlier. That was just a statement as a former all-rounder. People took it the wrong way and criticised me as well. Hardik is a complete allrounder. But no one is perfect. Everyone needs improvement in certain areas. When I was playing, I also lacked certain things. Wassim Akram was the same, Irman Kham was the same. Kapil Dev was the same. But still, we consider them all to be greats of the game. As someone who has talked about Hardik in the past and has seen his growth, how would you describe the nie and rise of Hardik Pandya? His eichnicky a good cricketer. I really like him. He hits the ball cleanly. He is a very cleam hitter. I used to hit the same way that Pandya does. I love his bowling as well. He is an impact player. When you are representing your control, you mers by come up will be some up with the team starts. help them in the long run, "Pakistan came up with a much better performance with the bat, having scored 929 and 130/6 in the first two matches. Saim Ayub played a watchful innings of 49 before Shadab's 17-ball 28 lifted Pakistan to 1827 in the third T201. The visiting Pakistan team struck twice in the powerplay overs to dent Afghanistan's 183-run chase. He was also delighted to be back in form and contribute with both bata and ball. "First two games were played in tough conditions, it busks to form after a long time. It tried to give my best while bowling and batting," said Nabi after the match.

There's enough talent, it's about how India prepare for bia events: Souray Ganguly

NEW DELH. Sourav Ganguly likes to be absorbed in cricket. After overseeing a rigorous training session as Delhi Capitals' director of cricket at the Ferozeshah Kotla, as he sat down for an interaction, he browsed through every match happening around the globe on his phone. He is switching between the Women's Premier League (WPL) final between Delhi Capital and Mumbai Induans and Johnson Charles bludigeoning a 46-ball 118 in a T201 against South Africa He immediately looks Charles up online. Then he gathers himself and says with a smile: "Ifs different being back on the field after being BCC1 president for three years. But with experience in cricket, I am looking forward to it. "Excerpts from an interview. There's been a lot of talk around workload management of players in a World Cup year... I think players should be fine. I don't see a problem. Yes, there's a lot of cricket. The scheduling is like that. That's the way it is. Players will play. I really don't see a problem. When it comes to the World Test Championship final, they anyway get 10-day breaks after IPL. I think they will manage. India have to play aggressively, especially in T20s. They have the team to do that. A team which sometimes has Axar Patel batting at No. 9 must play aggressively at the top. Pandaya batting at No. 6 and Jadeja at No. 7, there's too much depth. It's about adjusting to the pressure, knowing your game and batting according to your game. Indian cricket will always have talent and a big pool. It's the ones who are more lungry go to the next level. It's about how your prepare for the big tournaments. In World Cup years, IPL becomes a reference point for selection... I I think selection balance performances. They don't go blindly by IPL. Maybe while picking a T20 side, you might took into the IPL performances. I think selection galayers in India 2Good players adjust in all Jormas. India has so much lalent that there will be some players common in all formats. That the way it should be.
