Indiabulls Ventures is the listed fintech company on which the erstwhile promoters of Indiabulls Housing Finance are now focusing on to grow their businesses. # FPI flows, passive RBI lift ₹ to 6-mth high of 73.4 vs $

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Mumbai: Record foreign fund buying in equities, with the RBI now remaining on the sidelines in the foreign exchange market, boosted the rupee on Friday to a six-month high against the dollar. The Indian currency also recorded its biggest weekly gain in about 20 months. During the day, it strengthened 42 paise against the green back to close at 73.40 to a dollar with the weekly gain at 2% — its biggest since December 2018.

According to foreign exchange advisory firm IFA Global founder & CEO Abhishek Goenka, for weeks the rupee was artificially kept weak as the RBI continued to buy dollars from the market and helped banks use that money to buy bonds, which saw increased supply.

STRONG NOTE

"Now since the central bank has let it go, government banks are not buying dollars at important levels and there is month-end dollar selling by exporters. We expect weakness of the dollar (so, a stronger rupee) to remain for a while," Goenka said. He expects the rupee to strengthen till about 72.50 levels.

But some economists expect the current trend of rupee appreciation may not continue. "With persisting large global liquidity levels and low interest rates, flows into Indian markets got a boost. Against the backdrop of reduced imports and potentially a current account surplus during the current fiscal, weaker dollar and strong equity market flows have led to notable uptick in rupee of late," said Bandhan Bank chief economist Siddhartha Sanyal.

So far in August, foreign funds have not pumped about Rs 50,000 crore into the Indian stock market, official data showed. This is the biggest net monthly inflow in over a decade, official data showed. Economists now expect the central bank to continue to buy forex in the coming months, "especially given the heightened macroeconomic uncertainty".

E-shoppers double amid pandemic

Bengaluru: The consumer base of e-commerce shoppers has doubled to 42% of urban active internet users in India over the last three months (amid the pandemic), according to a study by consulting firm Kantar. Nearly 50% of these are new users coming from tier-1 and 2 cities.

For new shoppers, Amazon and Google have emerged as the preferred discovery platforms before making purchases. In contrast, before the virus outbreak in India, just 22% of the urban active internet users had shopped online. In 2019, India had 309 million urban active internet users, the report said. This would translate to about 130 million users having shopped online.

While e-commerce sales have surpassed pre-Covid levels

42% OF URBAN INTERNET SURFERS

due to the pandemic leading people to order their requirements online from their homes, the lockdown has also resulted in fewer avenues for consumers to spend money on. This, according to e-commerce executives and third-party brands, is also aiding online sales.

This is encouraging for retailers who have started preparations for the Diwali festive sale.

"If you look at the budgeting of a common man in India, we splurge probably on restaurants, travel and have a fashion budget and entertainment budget (movie, malls, etc). Now, with salaries coming back, what are the avenues left for spending? Not many. That's why people are spending on themselves," said Aman Gupta, co-founder and CMO of boAt Lifestyle, an online-focused consumer brand which sells earphones and speakers.

"It is unlikely that people will have to budget for holidays later this year. We could see some of that getting spent during the festive sales," said Satish Meena, senior forecast analyst at Forrester, a market research firm. Last year during the festive month, e-tailers clocked almost $6 billion in gross sales, of which close to $4 billion happened during the five-day flagship sale events.

"We are focused on building access for customers and sellers across the country," a spokesperson of Amazon India said. Flipkart declined to comment on TOI's query.
