Athletes, officials test COVID positive in Winter Olympics

Beijing, Feb 2: Athletes and team officials are testing positive for COVID-19 at much higher rates than other people arriving in China for the Beijing Olympics, organisers said Tuesday.

Figures released by local organizers showed 16 of 379 athletes and officials who arrived Monday tested positive for COVID-19. They have been taken into isolation hotels to limit the spread of the infection and could miss their events.

The positive test rate of 4.2% for athletes and officials compared to 0.66% for Olympic stakeholders, a group which includes workers and media. Only seven of 1,059 people in that category arriving at Beijing were positive in similar tests Monday.

The rates were confirmed in PCR and other follow-up tests for tens of thousands of people at the Beijing Olympics who will live, work and train in closed-off communities separated from the

IOC chief interacts with athletes

International Olympic Committee president, Thomas Bach, visited the Beijing Olympic village to meet competitors, staff and hosts, and signed the Olympic Truce Mural on Tuesday.

Athletes about to compete at the Olympic Winter Games Beijing 2022 have been invited to sign an Olympic Truce Mural Bach, after a special inauguration ceremony in the Olympic Village.

The Mural is designed for participating athletes and officials to show their commitment to building a peaceful world through sport by signing the mural.

The concept of the Beijing Olympic Truce Mural, named "Light of Peace", is inspired by traditional Chinese lanterns symbolising light, peace and reunion.

Truce Murals have been part of Olympic Villages since the Olympic Winter Games Turin 2006, and the concept of the truce dates back to 9th century BC Ancient Greece as a period during which war and conflict ceased to general public. The Chinese government is pursuing a zero-tolerance public health strategy.

On Monday, the rate of infection from tests of those already inside the Olympic bubbles was 100 times higher for athletes and officials compared to workers. Five of 3,103 tests from the athletes-officials group were positive compared to only one of more than 60,000 daily tests from stakeholders.

A total of 200 positive tests for COVID-19 have now been recorded at the Olympics since Jan. 23. Of those 200, 67 were athletes and officials. Stakeholders accounted for the other 133.

Among the athletes testing positive in Beijing is Hong Kong skier Audrey King, who arrived from a training camp in Bosnia-Herzegovina. King told the South China Morning Post she had no symptoms and was optimistic of skiing in the women's slalom on Feb. 9.

The most senior athlete representative at the International Olympic Committee, two-time Olympic hockey medalist Emma Terho, also is in an isolation hotel after testing positive on arrival.

Even though this is not the start I envisaged, I was happy to see the protocols that Beijing 2022 has put in place are working well. Terho, an IOC member from Finland who sits on the Olympic body's executive board, wrote on her Instagram account.

The Winter Olympic Games Beijing 2022 will take place from the February 4 to 20 and will be followed by the Paralympic Winter Games from the March 4 to 13.

allow for safe travel to and from the Games.

World swimming postponed for 2nd time to July 2023

Lausanne, Feb 2: The next swimming world championships were formally postponed for a second time on Tuesday because of the COVID-19 pandemic and will now take place in 2023 in Japan.

World swim body FINA said Fukuoka will host the every-two-years championships from July 14-30 next year instead of in May.

It's the third attempt by the Japanese city which was first due to host in July 2021 until that was pushed back 10 months to make space for the postponed Tokyo Olympics.

Fukuoka first hosted the world swim championships in 2001, and the original date was meant to celebrate the 20th-year anniversary.

The knock-on effect of a second delay has been to move the originally scheduled 2023 worlds in Doha, Qatar to a new slot in January 2024, two months later than planned.

That means the world's best swimmers, divers and water polo players should have three top-tier events in just over 12 months the 2023 and 2024 worlds then the Paris Olympics that open July 26, 2024.

The previous swim worlds were held in July 2019 in Gwangju, South Korea.

The latest worlds postponement was first announced last week by city officials in Fukuoka.

Celebrating Stephen Hawking

Sir, Google had honoured the world-famous physicist and cosmologist Stephen William Hawking with flashing a special doodle on him on his birthday. Soon after, I had started recollecting his details. Despite his tough physical disabilities, he had continued his passion for scientific endeavours like cosmology and physics.

Given his life and continued scientific research, this Englishman called Hawking has been a source of inspiration for numerous people from across the globe up till date. Interestingly, I have a senior friend in my native district of Tuticorin, who has been a great admirer of Hawking, often talking about him with full enthusiasm.

In the world today, such inspiring people have been the driving force behind the publication of many books and magazines as millions of books on their achievements have been released from time to time.

A newspaper or schoolbook or magazine or book, writing has always been a source of inspiration and a powerful communication tool. Quite amazingly, I have lavishly been spending time and money buying numerous newspapers, books and magazines - both in Tamil and English including Indian and foreign editions - in my native areas like Korkai, Tiruchendur, Tuticorin, Tirunelveli, Nagercoil, Marthandam and Kanyakumari in Tamil Nadu apart from my various workstations like Coimbatore, Chennai, Bangalore, Hyderabad, Thane and Mumbai.

To inculcate such beautiful habits as reading, speaking and writing, it is time to encourage publishing more and more books. For this, big personalities like Stephen Hawking will always be inspiring. Plus, in this technological world, tech giants like Google should support publishing books through various means like doodles and dough.

A Wolves Fairy Tale...!

As I watch a bishop being set scot-free by a court which found too little evidence given by the prosecution to convict him, I would like to repeat an old fairy tale, giving it a modern twist, in a twisted world:

There once lived a little girl called Red Riding Hood in a fictitious country. One day her mother asked her to take a basket of food to her grandmother, who lived alone in a cottage in the forest.

It happened that a wolf was lurking in the bushes and overheard the conversation. He decided to take a short cut to grandmother's house and get the goodies for himself. The wolf killed and ate the grandmother, then dressed in her nightgown and jumped into bed to await the little girl.

When she arrived, he tried to grab her, but this frightened the child and she ran screaming from the cottage. A woodcutter heard her cries and rushed to the rescue. He killed the wolf with his axe saving Red Riding Hood's life. All the town people hurried to the scene and proclaimed the woodcutter a hero.

But at the inquest, where the Wolves Association spent tons of money, several facts were brought to light:

A search into the contents of the basket revealed that the food was non-vegetarian, and so a huge section of the country felt the wolf was justified in preventing the little girl from seeing her grandmother commit such sacrilege. The opposing lawyer was even heard commenting that if there were more such wolves around, the country was certain of retaining its rich vegetarian cultural heritage.

A minor leader of that fictitious country suggested that the mother who packed the basket should be made an example of and decided against making marital rape an offense, vowing to teach a lesson to such zealous mothers, wives and confident womenkind in general! "Women have to be shown their place!" he said, to the glee of his country 'men'!

The police chief immediately began an enquiry as to whether the woodcutter had an axe license. He ordered all woodcutters to return their axes and carry only penknives.

The King spoke to his Poet Laurette who wrote a poem about the whole saga. The English translation called 'No None Won,' though, has left many confused, till the poet between peals of drunken laughter wondered if a comma placed between no and none in the translation would help, but strangely no comma has yet been placed, and it remains as 'No None Won!'

The grandmothers house was made a Shrine to the Wolf and the Wolves Association with headquarters abroad issued a secret statement saying, "That even if a wolf is a culprit, it is in the interest of the Wolves Association that the activities of wolves not be exposed to the 'secular' world..!

Ashwin bracketed in Rs. 2 cr highest base category of IPL

New Delhi, Feb 2: Top Indian players, including senior opener Shikhar Dhawan and Shreyas Iyer, along with overseas stars such as Pat Cummins and Kagiso Rabada have been bracketed in the Rs 2 crore highest base price category for the upcoming IPL auction.

The mega auction is scheduled to be held in Bengaluru on February 12 and 13 and will see 590 players go under the hammer.

The IPL announced the final auction list on Tuesday, which was pruned from the original list of 1,214 players released last month, after the franchises reverted with the players they are interested in.

Among the 590 cricketers, a total of 228 are capped players while 355 are uncapped and seven belong to associate nations.

Senior Indian players Mohammad Shami, Bhuvneshwar Kumar, Umesh Yadav, Ashwin, Ishant Sharma and Ajinkya Rahane have also registered with a base price of Rs. 2 crore.

While Iyer and Dhawan are the top draws, the 10 teams are also likely to be involved in a bidding war for youngsters Ishan Kishan, Devdutt Padikal, Washington Sundar, Deepak Chahar, last season's top wicket-taker Harshal Patel, spinner Yuzvendra Chahal and fast bowler Shardul Thakur. All of them are in the top bracket.
