India, US Plan to Revitalise Defence Tech Sharing Pact

Focus will be on startups and exports to identified third nations; two sides also may identify projects for cooperation in space tech

Manu.Pabby@timesgroup.com

New Delhi: India and the US are planning to revitalise a defence technology sharing pact by putting several new ideas on the table, including a focus on startups. A possibility of exports to identified third nations and focusing on practical industry partnerships. The India-US Defence Technology and Trade Initiative (DTTI) signed in 2012 was aimed at identifying and promoting major joint development and manufacturing projects for the defence forces, but hasn't yielded any major results. Among the ambitious projects under the pact was a plan to share jet engine technology, an initiative that has floundered given a strict export control regime in the US and the lack of a strong business case from the Indian side. Sources told ET that the next meeting of the pact planned in the capital on Thursday between Ellen M. Lord, undersecretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment and Shubhash Chandra, secretary Defense Production, will look at fresh ideas to take things forward, including setting up of an industry forum that can identify and suggest projects that can be taken up in the future. There have been strong suggestions from the industry to set up a Defence Industry Advisory Committee (DIAC) under the pact that will be able to supplement government efforts to promote technology sharing, but there has been reluctance from the US to take it up. Sources said that a focus on start-ups is likely to enable US-based research labs to work in coordination with Indian companies for cutting edge defence technologies. In addition, the two sides will also discuss the possibility of jointly developing systems for approved third nations to pursue export opportunities. The two sides are also likely to identify projects for cooperation in the field of space technology. As reported by ET, an industrial security pact has been finalised and is set to be formally inked shortly - enabling US military manufacturing to share high-end technology with their Indian partners. Ellen M Lord described India as a major defence partner, saying bilateral military trade has reached an estimated $8 billion this year, starting from virtually zero in 2008. "The US is committed to strengthening its partnership with India while furthering military-to-military relationship and cooperation... US and India are working bilaterally and in cooperation with other like-minded partners to advance our shared vision for the Indo-Pacific," Lord said.

Chautala predicts his party will be the king-maker winning at least 20 seats. Congress legislative party leader and Theham candidate Kiran Chaudhary added a rider though: "We will secure a majority if EVMs work properly." Dushyant Chautala said government formation would require BJP's help. "We hold the key to power," Chautala said, alluding to the party symbol. The BJP's speculation in political circles that Congress and BJP may try to join hands to keep BJP out of power, INL's Abhay Chautala, meanwhile, predicted a split assembly. Chief minister Manohar Lal second last perturbed by speculation and held discussions with officials.

Minister's Video Supporting Cow Slaughter Goes Viral

Mumbai: The BJP has suffered an embarrassment after a video clip purportedly showing Union minister consumer affairs minister Rao Saheb Darve assuring Muslims that could slaughter cows went viral. Darve's alleged remarks were made on October 19 in Katora Bazaar while he was campaigning for his son Santosh, the BJP candidate in Bhokardan constituency, Katora Bazaar is a minority-dominated area. In the video, Darve is purportedly heard saying, "The first time the ban on cow slaughter happened it was Bakri Eid. Even if you asked me, 'What has the government done?' I said as long as Raosaheb Darve is there you will not be stopped' (from killing cows)."
