"Companies are looking out for newer talents passively, they are engaging with the candidates by offering them freelance opportunities to work on some projects or interviewing them and building their talent pipeline. Companies that are seeing good bottomlines, like online solutions and technology providers, are honouring their previously-made offers and are even hiring new talent to meet their requirements," Gupta said.

Kamal Karanth, co-founder of Xpheno, said June had seen some marquee enterprises revoking fresher offers and postponing hiring plans for freshers. "Continued trimming of workforce by local enterprises clubbed with challenging situations for expatriates, has impacted the pace and volume of overall hiring," he said.

Full-time opportunities dropped by 18% in June over those in May. Xpheno's report for April and May had reflected a general upward movement in the opportunities for internships and part timers. "There has been a reversal on this front in June, with a little over 40% drop in the numbers," Karanth said.

Companies that FE spoke to said all the offers made prior to Covid-19 or even during the pandemic are being honoured.

However, right now, while some firms continue to recruit across all levels, others are being selective and some have held back.

Supratik Bhattacharya, chief talent officer, RPG Group, told FE the group continues to hire talent with the longer-term perspective for supplementing and expanding capabilities in new markets and functions. "We are keen on hiring high-quality, digital and technology talent across levels in our group companies," he said. While the company is taking new hires on board as planned, it has hired seven CXOs across group companies in addition to 58 graduates from Tier-1 business schools.

According to HR consultants, lateral hiring, for now, is more about strategising and planning and less about actual hiring. To be sure, on a recent earnings call, Cognizant CFO Karen McLoughlin said the company is freezing lateral hiring across all functions. However, it will continue to move forward with sales hiring plan and other key positions and honour all outstanding accepted offers. "Additionally, we have confirmed that we will honour the more than 20,000 campus offers we have CEO and MD, Tata Steel, said the company normally takes a fresh batch of graduates every year. "We have honoured those commitments they have been inducted in Tata Steel virtually," he said.

"We are not hiring just now as we are looking at how to make more productive use of the resources that we already have," Narendra added.

After recovering to half of normal, states' tax revenue plateaus

"This sharp rise in borrowings reflects the shock to the revenues of the state governments, given the decline in the consumption of several non-essential goods and services that is expected to have taken place during the lockdown period," rating agency Icria noted.

The Centre has tried to mitigate the state governments' pain from an unmanageable revenue decline in April-May by generously transferring almost double the gross amount it collected during the period to the states as their share of central taxes. However, this has proven to be unsustainable. June tax transfers to states are understood to be 9% less than the monthly transfer of ₹46,083 crore in the April-May period, at around
