Gadkari mentioned that a whopping 60 per cent of casualties emanating from road mishaps were of people in the 18-34-year age group, and highlighted that road accidents and Cavid 10 called time 40 cavid 10 cavid 10 called time 40 cavid 10 c network from 140,000 km to 200,000 km. Gadkari said he is opening the roads sector for retail investors. The government is prioritising retail investments in highway infrastructure, fol-lowed by domestic investors and foreignizenters. In sector Covid-19 collectively delivered a 3 per cent hit on the country's economy. About growth of the roads sector in the country, the in highway infrastructure, loi-lowed by domestic investors and foreign investors and foreign investors, he noted. The minister said the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) will now look at extensively monetising highway projects via Int/T and toll-operate-transfer, and also find ways to make these projects accessible to retail investors.

Gadkari's ministry is planning to build a satellite-based tolling system that can help eradicate the need for toll plazas. Already the transition from physical payment of toll to FasTAG, a digital medium, has brought down passthrough duration at toll plazas to an average of 25 seconds.

He also stressed the need to an average of 25 seconds.

He also stressed the need for a mass rapid transport system because of excessive four-wheelers on roads, especially in urban areas. "This should be the highest priority of the government," he added.

"It is my dream to make an electricity-based public transport system in India." Gadkari said. Among his many ambi-port system in India," Gadkar said. Among his many ambi said. Among his many ambi-tious plans, one is to establish a "skybus" service from Dhaula Kuan in Delhi to Manesar in Haryana. Gadkari said a plan to introduce $50,000 electric buses on national highways is in the works. Recently, his min-istry also exhorted private play-ers to build electric vehicle (EV) chapring stations on a nubliccharging stations on a public private-partnership basis to provide a conducive environ-ment for the expansion of the EV market in India. There are currently 5,000 electric buses plying in the country, he noted. The road transport and high-ways minister also said that there is a need for overhauling the current logistics landscap of the country, as India's logis tics costs are much higher than developed nations. He said the cost of transportation using waterways is 10 per cent of that through roads.

But Gadkari conceded that But Gadkari conceded that climate change-related impacts are leading to severe mishaps, such as floods and drying up of rivers, and they may eventually hurt the prospects of inland waterways projects, which is a flagship scheme of the Centre. "River connectivity should become flood prevention projects. Water is not a problem, planning is," he added.
