Team bonding goes from online to offsite after two years of WFH

"Our sessions are designed to improve performance, boost confidence, reduce fatigue, increase mental alertness and enhance body coordination," he adds. You Can Dance is a dance start-up that has been getting several queries from corporates to conduct sessions.

Last month, the Indian Hotels Company Limited (IHCL) rolled out a 'look good feel good' training that included grooming and dance wellness sessions for over 300 associates of 48 nationalities at the Taj Exotica Resort & Spa, The Palm, Dubai.

"Those getting back to office after a long time are enthusiastic about meeting colleagues and face-to-face interactions. Thus, we have plans to celebrate our founder's day in July as opposed to doing it online as in the past two years," says Suman Kumar Ghosh, head of human resources, Bajaj Electricals Limited, who in addition to various wellness and training programmes, is looking to reinstate travel as a part of the rewards and recognition programme for high performing employees this year.

From the Front Page

Staycations are considered convenient for the safety of employees as well as to break the monotony from a workplace environment. Smartphone manufacturer RealMe chose Club Florence in Gurugram for 120 employees last month. "Most people are still cautious so the location served as a convenient option where employees didn't have to stay overnight, but relax, enjoy and travel back home. We had six ice-breaking activities which included war field, space hopper, etc," shares a RealMe spokesperson.

The culture at Sirona Hygiene is quite collaborative as a startup that offers intimate and menstrual hygiene products for women. It is planning a staycation in Delhi-NCR in May. "A change of venue, that too in an informal setting, is the need of the hour as we start our marathon to grow 2.5x this financial year. The idea is to align employees' personal goals to the larger organisational objectives. Setting up personal goals, rewarding loyal employees, or pool-side parties break the monotony. The team is so caught up with the daily to-do list that we want this one day to reaffirm our company culture and align them to the company's broader vision," says Deep Bajaj, founder, Sirona Hygiene.

AB InBev, beverage and brewing company, organised an off-site in a luxury hotel in Bengaluru in March to recognise and reward employees. "An Oscar-themed night with a cook-off and a musical stage play with over 200 employees resulted in a power-packed event that combined strategy and business with team-building activities and mentorship sessions from experts," says Tanvi Rohatgi, people director - India & South East Asia, AB InBev.

For a fully remote company, Salt app, a fitness app for women that started during the pandemic, has teams located across seven locations across the globe. It was a restored home in Pondicherry that made the team work, talk, think, play, and sail together. "While we build, solve, engage, fight, resolve, wine and whine on Zoom, we wonder about people's height, slouch, frown or skills in the physical world. We figured our pizzas and sailing skills are as outstanding as our product!" says Shinjini Kumar, co-founder, Salt.

Spectrum surrender guidelines to get easy for mobile operators

Currently, to shed the excess spectrum, the only option available to telcos is to sell out the spectrum through the prescribed spectrum trading process. As per the spectrum trading guidelines, the telecom service providers (TSPs) are permitted to trade their partial/entire spectrum holding to another TSP after a lock-in period of two years, post assignment of such spectrum.

As part of the telecom reforms package announced in September 2021, the government had already created a provision for surrender of spectrum. As per the provision, telecom service providers may be permitted to surrender spectrum after a minimum period of 10 years and the firms are required to inform the government one year prior to surrendering their spectrum. But since the decision will be applicable for the auctions conducted henceforth, Trai has recommended that DoT may examine the possibility for creation of provision for surrender of spectrum for the existing spectrum holding of the TSPs acquired through past auctions.

Regarding the surrender fee, Trai has said the fee should not be kept high to make the provision ineffective. "It should be a kind of administrative fee for the purpose of processing of surrender application. Surrender fee may be kept as ₹1,00,000 per spectrum band per LSA," Trai said.

Trai has said that DoT should come out with guidelines for surrender of spectrum with clearly defined timelines and the process should be implemented through an online portal. Trai said once a telco makes a request for surrendering spectrum, DoT should convey in-principle approval or otherwise within 60 days. "Outstanding spectrum payment till the proposed date of surrender, if any, in respect of proposed quantity of spectrum being surrendered, should be communicated to the TSP along with the in-principle approval," Trai said.

The telco has to clear the dues as communicated by DoT within three months and upon clearance, the final approval to the surrender of spectrum, effective from proposed date of surrender, should be communicated by DoT to the TSP within 15 days. It further added that other payment/dues should not be linked to surrender of spectrum under consideration.

DoT should put to auction the surrendered spectrum immediately, once the final approval to surrender of spectrum (upon clearance of dues up to the proposed date of surrender) is issued.

To avoid any possible misuse, Trai has recommended that in case, a TSP surrenders partial or complete spectrum in a band, it will be barred to take part in the auction of spectrum in that band for a period of two years from date of surrender of spectrum. Secondly, in case, a TSP has acquired some spectrum in a band, a lock-in period of two years will be applicable, before surrendering the qualifying spectrum in that band acquired earlier.

The Authority has recommended that a TSP should be permitted to surrender the spectrum after a minimum period of 10 years from the date of acquisition of spectrum, whether acquired through auction, trading or any other permitted means of acquisition.

For passenger vehicles, pre-loved becoming more loved

One, the revision of the GST rate on used cars from 28% to 12-18% has made these more affordable; two, BS-6 emission norms have increased prices of new cars, and so price-conscious customers have been opting used cars.

Mittal said the semiconductor shortage leading to long waiting periods in new cars could also have possibly led to a section of buyers shifting towards used cars, which are readily available.

The rise of auto-tech players has also led to growth in demand for used cars. Earlier, the process was relatively cumbersome, but now auto-tech players take care of everything from start to finish. "The share of non-OEM organised dealers in used car sales is estimated to grow 30% by FY26 from 8% in FY21, and wholesale auctions are likely to be a significant component of the buying side (estimated to be 40% in FY26 versus 15% at present) as used car auto-tech players simplify the buying and selling experience," said Mittal.

The oldest players in this space are CarDekho (founded in 2008) and CarTrade (2009), and then came Droom (2014), Spinny (2015) and Cars24 (2015). These auto-tech players provide an enhanced price discovery mechanism to used car buyers and sellers, and bring trust and transparency to the system.

The report added that the average price of a new car in India has increased consistently at 2% CAGR since FY16. In FY16, it was $11,100 (about ₹733,000, as on March 31, 2016), and increased to $12,000 in FY21 (about ₹876,000, as on March 31, 2021). Prices of used cars, however, have not increased so sharply - growing at just 1.3% CAGR since FY16. In FY16, the average used car was priced $4,300 (₹284,000), which increased to $4,600 (₹336,000) in FY21.

The report added that used car sales are expected to grow at 15% CAGR in volume till FY26, and become twice the size of the new car market. "The used car auto-tech players will gain market share, more and more car sales will move online, and vehicle replacement cycles may reduce to less than three years in the near future. All this will further fuel growth of the used car segment," Mittal said. "The market may also see the emergence of new selling channels such as used car dealership trade-ins as auto-tech players drive sourcing with increased retail demand of used cars."
