High attrition, employee costs weigh on IT stocks

Analysts suggest buy-on-dips strategy, say growth story remains intact

PUNEET WADHWAN
New Delhi, 3 February

Information technology (IT) sector stocks have been on a downward spiral in CY22, so far, with the Nifty IT index slipping over 7 per cent during this period, underperforming the benchmark Nifty50 that has moved up over 2 per cent. The index has been the worst-hit among its peers on the NSE.

The nervousness in IT stocks, analysts believe, is on account of the rising employee costs at a time business growth has been modest on a year-on-year (YoY) basis (December 2021 quarter).

"High attrition and high employee costs are taking a toll on large IT companies. Companies, such as TCS, have spent a large chunk of money on employees. That apart, revenue growth in dollar terms has been modest. Had the growth been in double digits, the rise in employee costs would not have been a cause of concern. Against this backdrop, the underperformance of large IT stocks is likely to continue," said G Chokkalingam, founder and chief investment officer at Equinomics Research.

Hiring momentum in IT services companies, analysts believe, is expected to continue in the calendar year 2022 (CY22), as well. TCS has added 77,000 freshers in the first nine months of FY22. On the other hand, Infosys has revised its fresher hiring target for FY22 to 55,000, from the earlier 45,000 (up for the third consecutive quarter), and Accenture has done a net addition of record 105,000 employees in H2CY21, with the majority of new hires from India, reports suggest.

(IT)'S A WEAK SHOWING

Price on NSE in ₹ as on Feb 1, 2022	Price (₹)	Change YTD (%)
TCS	4,678.5	-18.1
Wipro	578.3	-17.8
Tech Mahindra	1,454.3	-17.2

Nifty IT	35,056.8	-9.4
Nifty 50	17,560.2	1.2

"The surge in demand for talent is increasing lateral hiring costs of Indian IT companies. We estimate that employee costs for IT firms in our coverage universe are expected to increase by ₹645/548/569 billion per year for FY22/23/24E (2x the last 6-year average)," Amish Aggarwal of Prabhudas Lilladher wrote in a recent report, co-authored with Anushka Chhajed.

The fall in IT stocks over the past few weeks back home is also in line with the slide in tech-heavy Nasdaq that has lost nearly 8 per cent, so far, in CY22. Analysts believe concerns about monetary policy tightening in the months ahead are weighing on tech companies that are yet to show growth in revenue and profit.

moved up recently. Despite the correction, the fundamental growth story is intact and we expect steady share gains for online players across a range of industries. For investors with a long-term outlook, we see correction as an opportunity to buy," wrote analysts at Jefferies in a recent note.

Back home, Chokkalingam said mid-cap IT companies still hold promise and investors can use the fall in these stocks to accumulate new ones for a medium-to-long-term horizon.

"Investors should focus on mid-cap IT players where the consolidation process is still not complete. Among the lot, investors can look at TCS as it has been able to manage attrition very well. I am also bullish on Cyient. We recently gave a sell call on HCL Tech," he said.

Those at Prabhudas Lilladher maintain the overweight status (60 bps) on the IT sector in their portfolio with focus on Infosys, TCS, Tech Mahindra, and Wipro. "The sector is in for strong growth in coming years although a near-term pause after sharp moves in the past few quarters looks likely. We increase weighting on TCS by 100 bps, given strong visibility and ₹18,000 crore buyback," Aggarwal and Chhajed wrote.

BUDGET 2022-23

For property buyers, right TDS must to avoid interest, penalty

Budget impact may not be palpable, but steer clear of taxman

BINDISHA SARANG

In the Union Budget for 2022-23, the finance minister proposed that when buying a property, the homebuyer should deduct tax deducted at source (TDS) at the rate of 1 per cent. TDS should be deducted on the amount paid to the seller or the stamp duty value, whichever is higher. This amendment will apply to all non-agricultural, immovable property, where the selling price or the stamp duty value is above ₹50 lakh.

Harmonising laws

Section 194IA deals with deduction of TDS on property deals. Vivek Jalan, partner, Tax Connect Advisory Services says, "A few years ago, TDS was made applicable under Section 194A on property deals of more than ₹50 lakh. Now, when a homebuyer purchases property of more than ₹50 lakh, he/she has to deduct TDS and deposit it with the government."

A key goal of the Budget amendment is to bring parity with different Sections of the Income-Tax Act, 1961, namely Sections 194-IA, 43CA, and 50C. Until now, under Section 194-IA, TDS was deducted on the sale consideration. Under other Sections like 43CA and 50C of the I-T Act, which deal with computation of income under the head 'profits and gains from business or profession' and 'capital gains', respectively, sale consideration or stamp duty value, whichever is higher, is considered. Now the same will have to be done under Section 194-IA as well.

Curbing tax evasion

After deducting, the homebuyer is required to deposit the TDS amount with the I-T department.

This amendment will enable the tax department to identify property transactions that were carried out below stamp value.

Mukul Chopra, senior partner, Victorian Legal-Advocates & Solicitors, says, "It will help the authorities deal with tax evasion since the amount will be specified in Form 26AS of both the seller and buyer." Adds Sandeep Bajaj, managing partner, PSL Advocates & Solicitors, "If any mismatch is found, the tax department will begin an enquiry to find if tax is being evaded."

What if the sale consideration and the stamp duty value are less than ₹50 lakh in a transaction? Moiz K Rafique, managing partner, Privy Legal Service LLP, says, "The amendment in the Budget clearly states that no tax needs to be deducted under Section 194-IA in such a case."

Small impact

According to experts, the actual impact of this change will not be huge. Piyush Botra, co-founder and chief financial officer, Square Yards, says, "The amount of money that goes into the seller's pocket will reduce. Let's say you sell a property, whose circle rate is ₹75 lakh, for ₹60 lakh. Earlier, the buyer would have deducted ₹60,000 as TDS. Now he will deduct ₹75,000. So, the amount that goes to the seller will reduce by ₹15,000. On a sale consideration of ₹60 lakh, ₹15,000 is a small amount."

In some cases, it will only lead to a higher amount remaining blocked. "Real estate prices have not been appreciating for many years. Often, sellers nowadays incur a loss on the sale of property. In such cases, the deduction of a higher TDS amount will lead to higher blockage of the seller's capital," adds Jalan.

Buyers should be careful about deducting the right amount of TDS and depositing it with the government. According to Jalan, "While the financial implication non-compliance (the TDS amount involved) may be low, the buyer will have to unnecessarily bear penalties and interest for deducting a lower amount."

BWARE OF HIGHER FINE ON DELAY IN HANDING OVER TDS CERTIFICATE

- Changes in tax deducted at source (TDS) on rent payment under Section 272A are relevant for tenants who pay a monthly rent of ₹50,000 or more
- Now, tenants are required to provide their landlord with a TDS certificate (Form 16C)
- The TDS certificate must be given within 15 days of depositing the TDS amount
- If the TDS certificate is not given by this deadline, a fine of ₹500 per day will be imposed, up to ₹100 per day currently, starting April 1
- The penalty can't exceed the tax amount due for deduction higher blockage of the seller's capital," adds Jalan.

Bear in mind
Buyers should be careful about deducting the right amount of TDS and depositing it with the government. According to Jalan, "While the financial implication non-compliance (the TDS amount involved) may be low, the buyer will have to unnecessarily bear penalties and interest for deducting a lower amount."
