POV

VVS

Will Modi's recovery of black money be lasting promise?

Modiji has made the wise decision to come to Kanyakumari on May 30 and spend three days on meditation at the spot where Saint Vivekananda got enlightenment. The last few months, Modi has been racking his brain to attack the opposition and lure the voters to the BJP's preset goal of winning 400+. Modi has been working very hard round the clock, exerting physically and mentally. His decision to take rest and gain more enlightenment and wisdom before assuming the Prime Ministership for the third time is good and may benefit all of us too.

The 2024 historic election witnessed very entertaining election campaigns like OBC, Muslims, Quota, China, India, and most amusingly harsh personal attacks and preposterous promises. It was a messy missal mix that was really entertaining. If you don't believe me, just rewind the election campaign publicity, platform campaigns, and road shows.

I wanted to find out how a common person in the lowest rung of society reacts to the massive communication persuasion by political parties. I was on counting duty for the BJP in a low-income area booth in Kottivakkam. During the lunch hour, I chose a very old man, poorly attired and asked him whom he preferred to vote for. Pat came back with, "How does it matter which donkey I vote for? I have to work very hard to survive eating the lousy ration rice. To me, all politicians are the same. The days of good politicians are over. They all promise what they cannot deliver." He understood politics better than most of us.

On Tuesday, Modi highlighted the government's anti-corruption efforts, emphasizing the ED recovery. He said this in an exclusive interview with ABP Network on Tuesday. The channel also referred to his commitment to recover Rs. 3000 crore lost in corruption in Bengal. PM Modi reacted, saying, "Irrespective of any political party or ideology, small fish got caught while big sharks escaped earlier." He expressed astonishment at being questioned about targeting the big fish, emphasizing that the public should applaud the efforts of agencies like the Enforcement Directorate (ED) and Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) for their work. Highlighting the scale of corruption unearthed during his tenure, PM Modi remarked, "Mountains of currency notes are being displayed in front of the camera, how can we deny it?" He revealed that from 2004 to 2014, the ED seized Rs 34 lakh, while from 2014 to 2024; Rs 2,200 crore had been seized. PM Modi underscored the significance of these revelations and urged the public not to turn a blind eye to corruption.

Certainly, after this election, people will ask many questions about the actions of the BJP, especially Modi, who promised to recover every pie before every election. If we go by the data, roughly, total black money in India is around USD 500 billion, according to one media report. Another estimate by Bank of Italy sometime back estimated India's share in tax havens globally to be around $152 to $181 billion, or Rs 10 lakh crore. So far, in the last 10 years, only a tiny percentage of black money has been recovered.

Modi has empathically said that his vision to return the looted money to the people will be fulfilled. The recovery process should start in June 2024. The first action from BJP and allies should be return of black money. The second action is to go on a fishing expedition to get every penny slashed abroad. This time, the average person is waiting to count his share of loot money in some form or other. Maybe Modi gets enlightened on a solid course of action to fully recover the black money and give it to the common man seated on the Vivekananda rock.

Shreya Ghoshal, Sunidhi Chauhan partner Whisper for India's own period song

Chennai, May 29: Whisper, India's leading feminine-care brand from Procter & Gamble, has created history by launching the nation's own Period Song, with India's biggest voices - Shreya Ghoshal and Sunidhi Chauhan. Both the musicians created their own versions of the 'Period Song, launching it today on World Menstrual Hygiene Day. Whisper has provided period education to over 100 million girls and women till date and are shining the spotlight on the early onset of menstruation among young girls in the fifth edition of its popular Keep Girls in School movement. Through this catchy tune with very relevant, and educational lyrics for young minds, the intent is to get every Indian to sing it and believe - Periods is a sign of being healthy. Shreya Ghoshal and Sunidhi

Chauhan created their own version of the period song, through which they taught school children about menstruation, who later joined them by singing along and dancing to the tune. "I am so excited to sing India's own period song, which I hope, will reach every citizen of India and empower young girls to live their lives confidently and without fear - both in school and outside of it. It is shocking that girls are getting periods as early as the age of 8 which makes it even more critical for Whisper's period song to break societal taboos by educating girls early on and preventing school dropouts. The song is so catchy and joyful that it plays in my mind throughout the day, and I can't resist humming it. It is a great way to tell all boys and girls that - Periods ka matlab healthy haiaap. It is a song that India truly needed and I'm proud to be associated with it," said Sunidhi Chauhan. "I am honoured to lend my voice for Whisper's period song. It's so important to educate young children about periods so that they are prepared and there is no fear. Our effort is to let young girls know that getting their periods irrespective of their age means that they are healthy. Girls are getting their periods as early as the age of 8, and this puts about 26 million girls in India at the risk of dropping out of school without proper period education and products. Kudos to Whisper for taking the initiative and normalising periods by teaching young children about it. I was so happy to create the song in different languages, so it can truly become the song of the nation," said singer Shreya Ghoshal
