Two terminals are proposed to be constructed, one at the Gandhi Irwin Road Side and one at the Poonamallee High Road side. The Terminal Buildings on both side are proposed as a G+3structure with world class amenities like

The proposed Parcel office on PH side is proposed as G+2 structure with Parcel office and RMS.

Major tourist attraction Egmore has several attractions. The railway terminus building is more than 100 years old. It was declared open in June, 1908. Connemara Public Library, Egmore museum and art gallery, all located side by side on Pantheon Road, are places one should not miss. Connemara library, established in 1896, is one of the four national depository libraries in India and gets copies of all books, newspapers, and periodicals published in India. You must also visit Annalakshmi restaurant in the nearby Rukmani Lakshmi road (earlier known as Marshall road) known for vegetarian fine dining. It is much different from other restaurants because highly qualified professionals working as volunteers serve you food as a service to guests. On the same road, you will see Govt. Ophthalmic Hospital, originally established in 1819 and is the oldest eye hospital in India and Asia.

You may also visit Co-optex exhibition centre, located on the other end of Pantheon road where you will find here a large collection of handloom sarees and dress materials from all parts of India. If you go to the other side of Egmore railway station, you will see a magnificent St.Andrew's church opened in 1821 to serve the Scottish population in Chennai. It is called The Kirk to show it belongs to Church of Scotland which was different from Church of England. Adjacent to this church on the other side of road is Govt. College of Arts & Crafts which produced many famous painters, and sculptors. I would suggest that you also go for boating in Chetpet lake which is very close to Egmore. It is operated by Fisheries Department and has been recently renovated.
