Only God or govt can help, says father of lynched Dalit man

JAYPRAKASH S NAIDU MUMBAI, MAY 12

FOR 64-YEAR-OLD Palaram Dusamad, a sanitary worker, life has come to a standstill after his 30-vear-old son Krishna, who helped run their family of eight, was lynched by 11 people who suspected him of theft on May 7. Dusamad, who earned a living by sweeping seven buildings a day along with his 60-year-old wife, is now burdened with the responsibility of taking care of his son's 25-vear-old wife and the couple's four children, all aged under nine. Dusamad is from the Dalit community and hails from Haryana. He and his wife lived in a rented accommodation in a Bhayandar (East) building with Krishna and his family. His other son, also a sanitary worker, lives separately with his wife and two children. For the last one and a half years, Krishna had been working at Nagmani Jewellers, an imitation

The incident was captured on CCTV camera and arrests have been based on it. The accused claimed that Krishna was an alcoholic and had pre-medical conditions but an official from Navghar police said the post mortem report showed the man died due to internal injuries caused by the beating. "He was bashed with a wooden plank, bat and iron rod," said the official. Meanwhile, Dusamad and his

to work since their son's death. Speaking to The Indian Express, he said, "My relatives are going to work on our behalf. I will join work after completing the 13th day rituals of my son...What was the need to murder a person who has been working for over a year with you? They lied to me that he fell down. Now police say he was murdered. I have no greed for money...I just want insaaf (justice) for my son and wish the government takes care of his children's education. Only God or the government can help now," he said.

Dusamad also wonders how long he will be able to fend for his family. "My son earned Rs 12,000. His wife is a homemaker and has to take care of the children. My wife and I earned Rs 20,000 together. We were saving some money for our grandchildren's future. But now. I do not think we will

Two men booked for 'raping married woman at knifepoint'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE MUMBAI, MAY 12

THE MUMBAI Police Wednesday registered a rape case against two unidentified persons for allegedly entering the residence of a married woman and raping her at knife point a day ago.

The police said they were unable to find the men described by the 19-year-old woman despite going through CCTV footage in the area.

An officer said the incident took place Tuesday afternoon when the woman was alone at her residence. While her husband had left for work, her fatherin-law had gone out and she had forgotten to latch the door. In her complaint, the woman told the police that she was sleeping in the loft of her room at a chawl in central Mumbai when the two accused entered the room and locked it from inside.
